NO PACT WITH HITLER: FRANCE

PRESIDENT ASKS LAW TO ABOLISH TAX EXEMPTION

Seeks Levy on Public Bonds and Salaries.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt today called upon congress to end "by a short and simple statute" tax exemptions of governmental salaries and securities.

Mr. Roosevelt said he made the request for action to permit reciprocal taxation of federal, state and municipal securities and federal, state and municipal salaries, not as a matter of politics but of principle.

The presidential proposal would not apply to federal and state securities now in circulation. It would apply only to new issues, but as such securities are usually of a comparatively short term nature, it is clear that in due time all income from governmental securities would be subject to taxation.

Revenue Figure Estimated.

It is estimated by the treasury officials that 155 million dollars more revenue each year could be collected from holders of governmental securities and from governmental workers if there were no tax exemptions. This figure is purely hypothetical because the President's proposal affects only future securities. On a hypothetical basis $70,000,000 a year is the estimated additional revenue from holders of federal securities, which already are taxed in part by the federal government.

Another $70,000,000, according to the estimate, could be collected from the holders of about 17 billion dollars worth of state and municipal securities, upon which the interest payments now amount to 718 million dollars annually. It is estimated that the value of federal, state, and municipal bonds totals 54 billion dollars and yields about 2 billion a year interest.

About 15 million dollars could be collected from the 2⅛ million state and municipal employés whose pay rolls now amount to 3 billion 575 million dollars a year.

800,000 Federal Employés.

No figures are available on how much the states could collect if exemptions were removed from federal securities and pay checks. There are about 800,000 federal employés, exclusive of the army, navy, legislative, and judicial pay rollers. Their earnings total one billion 600 million annually. Many of these federal employés would be subject to state income taxes as well as the federal income tax which they now pay.

Possibilities for income for federal, state and municipal governments are limited because many of the governmental securities are owned by charitable and educational institutions which themselves are tax exempt. Personal exemptions also will limit the tax possibilities of government salaries. The federal law grants a $1,000 exemption to single persons and $2,500 to heads of families. The average salary of federal employés is $1,900 a year. The average state and municipal salary is $1,430.

Message Generally Approved.

The purpose of the presidential message met with general approval on Capitol hill but its method met with some criticism. Opinion was divided as to whether or not a constitutional amendment would be required rather than the "short and simple statute." The greater weight of opinion, however, upheld Mr. Roosevelt's legal theory that a statute would be sufficient.

More concern was expressed over the possibility that any effort to secure action at this session would probably prolong the session beyond the hoped for May 15 adjournment and hold congressmen here at a time when they are anxious to get home and repair political fences for the fall campaign.

It was generally conceded that while action could come before bags are packed for homeward trips, it would be more advisable to let the matter go over until next January.

Committee Tires of Meeting.

Representative Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, said his committee was getting tired of meeting all the time.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley declined to discuss the possibility of immediate action. Speaker William B. Bankhead expressed himself as for the message, but shied

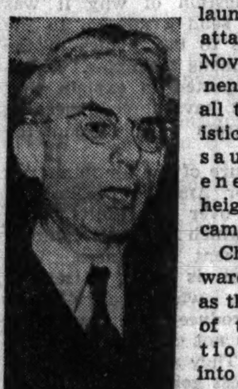
AROUSED G. O. P. STARTS ON FALL ELECTION FIGHT

Democratic Rule Hit at Convention.

BY PARKE BROWN.



Theodore F. Ehler.

Cook county Republicans in biennial convention at the Hotel La Salle yesterday launched a double attack on their November opponents that had all the characteristics of an assault on the enemy at the height of the campaign.

Chairman Edward F. Moore, as the spokesman of the organization he welded into a harmonious whole, and its unanimous choice to conduct the election battle, directed his fire at the national administration.

"Fed Up with Hokum."

"The people are coming out of the Roosevelt ether," he said. "The average American is fed up with hokum . . There will be a housecleaning in November."

Former Judge Theodore F. Ehler, unopposed Republican choice for county judge, charged that every election in sixteen years under Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, the Democratic nominee, has been so crooked that each has become a national scandal.

He accused Judge Jarecki of openly and directly violating the law in the primary of April 12 by ordering his election machinery subordinates to disregard the statutes. He wound up by demanding that Judge Jarecki surrender the powers of his office until after the election, allowing an impartial and disinterested judge to take over the duties of the county court.

Nash Reëlected by Democrats.

The enthusiasm of the gathering as well as its action provided a distinct contrast to the cold, businesslike meeting held simultaneously by the regular Democratic organization in the Morrison hotel one block away. The principal business transacted consisted of the unopposed reëlection of County Chairman P. A. Nash and other officers of the committee and the passage of a resolution favoring the recessing until next fall of the state convention which the statutes require to be opened at Springfield next Friday.

While attendance at the Republican gathering was complete, there were missing from the Democratic convention the faces of ward and township committeemen aligned with the Horner state machine. That fact was brought out only by roll calls and by the passage of a resolution authorizing Nash to appoint a subcommittee of three to confer with a similar committee named by the nominees on the state ticket—meaning the Horner group—about plans for the state convention and the fall campaign.

Policy of Watchful Waiting.

This was the nearest approach to open disclosure of the policy of watchful waiting that the Nash machine has adopted in secret councils. But it was indicated clearly by the absence of the almost universal resolution indorsing the primary nominees and promising them all hearty support in November. The G. O. P.

Why You Can't Keep a Maid: Relief Does It

BY MARCIA WINN.

Two young south side matrons sighed across a desk at 1133 East 63d street yesterday. The maid problem, they admitted after six months' philanthropic research, is indeed a problem.

Six months ago they were confident they could solve it. They decided to set up an employment agency of their own. Not only would they furnish good maids, but they also would train them.

Yesterday Mrs. Jane Carver and Mrs. Esther Hoegh ordered the telephone of the "A-Rite" agency, as it was meant to be, disconnected. They carted home the fine linen, silverware and china with which they sought to teach jobless women the delicate art of serving table.

Jobs Go Begging.

"Why," they expostulated, "look at that list of jobs!" indicating a large black ledger. "We can't make any one take them. We have three times as many jobs as we can fill. Good ones, too, few for less than $8 a week—most of them were $10 or $12—with room and board and no laundry or children.

"But the women come in and register for work, and when we have the jobs, they don't want them. They are completely indifferent. We ask, 'Don't you want the money?' and they say 'the government has to keep me anyway.'"

Mrs. Carver spread out the ledger, examined monthly by the state labor board. It substantiated their story.

What the Ledger Shows.

Each page contained the names of 20 prospective employers. Beside each name was listed the size of the family, the kind of work, the salary. Out of 20 on the first page, nine had been filled. So it went, on succeeding pages, 8 out of 20, 5 out of 20, 6 out of 20, 1 out of 20, 3 out of 20. One page, but only one, showed 11 out of 20.

"We cut the fee to $2 less than average," the complaint continued. "We asked only a small deposit; if the girls didn't have that, all right.

"We gave them free medical service. We even drove some of them to prospective jobs. We gave them lunch and telephone money. We were going to train them free of charge in the art of serving, how to answer the telephone and door correctly, how to make beds properly, and so on. "And do you know—only one person, ONE person, wanted to be taught? One person. . . ."

"And that," concluded Mrs. Carver, "just burnt us up."

THESE SAILORS! BUT IT'S THEIR CHILDREN WHO UPSET MAMAS

Charleston, W. Va., April 25.—(AP)—Mrs. John Henry Stevens' first glimpse of her sailor son in seven years—in a newsreel—left her "mighty upset" today. It wasn't the sight of John Henry Jr. being welcomed home from the navy games in the Pacific by his wife and baby that "upset" Mrs. Stevens. "Imagine," she exclaimed, "my fifth grandchild and I hadn't even heard about it."

U. S. NAVY HELPS STORK IN FRANCE; IOWAN IS DADDY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VILLEFRANCHE, France, April 25.—Raleigh Blake, whose father is a seaman aboard the United States cruiser Raleigh stationed here for the last eighteen months, was born this morning. He is the first baby to be born to wives of twenty-five of the ship's sailors, who married girls of this seaside town near Nice during their stay here.

Raleigh's father is Dean Leroy Blake of Volga City, Ia. He is 23 years old. The blonde mother, Fernande, is 25.

The Blakes beat the Ellis Lents to the honor of being the first parents of the group by only a little bit. Anne, the 19 year old wife of Ellis Lent, from Illinois, another gob aboard the vessel, expects her baby any day now, but Lent is a little worried because the cruiser Omaha is en route here to relieve the Raleigh and they may have to sail away before their baby is born.

Bathing Suit Bride Shivers and Chatters Cool 'I D-Do'

Long Beach, Cal., April 25.—(AP)—The bride and her thirty attendants wore bathing suits and goose pimples. The bridegroom wore bathing trunks and a half-frozen look. A beach merchant's association, staging an outdoor wedding here, selected one of the coldest of spring days for George John Anthony of Pocatello, Idaho, and Juanita G. Salisbury of Long Beach, to say "I d-d-d-do." The minister was warm. He wore a bath robe.

Refuses Caller a Look at His Hives; Now He Rests in Jail

Bloomington, Ill., April 25.—[Special.]—William Galtney of Leroy is very particular about his beehives, and who looks at them. As a consequence he was held in the county jail at Bloomington today on a queer charge—refusal to allow Ed Heldt, a state agriculture department representative, to inspect his hives.

Films All Bad, (Writers, Too) Says Goldwyn

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—Samuel Goldwyn returned from Europe today aboard the liner Queen Mary and was so critical of Hollywood that ship news men thought for a time they had made a mistake and were talking to a British novelist.

Goldwyn actually denounced Hollywood and the motion picture business. He said the public is on strike against inferior movies—that it no longer is safe for a person to go to a motion picture theater.

"There are too many inferior people in the movie business," he said, "and they are getting too much money. It used to be that the public was afraid to go to a movie for fear the B picture would be bad. Now it's both A and B pictures."

Finds Salaries Too High.

The villians of the movie industry, to Goldwyn's mind, are the writers, the actors and the directors. They all get too much money, he said.

"From what I have seen in England," he said, "I am convinced that the producers there and in France are becoming a serious threat to American producers. Some pictures in this country that start out to cost $100,000 end up by costing a million because of poor preparation.

"It is not the cost of the electricians' salaries and the other working people on the lot. It is the cost of the writer, the actor, and the director.

"Should Be Writing Letters."

"There are writers drawing big pay in Hollywood who ought to be back in New York writing letters. Eventually they are going to eliminate themselves. If they don't, we are going to lose our business to the foreign producers.

"I am thinking of a picture called 'Grand Delusion,' which has been produced in France at a cost of from $65,000 to $75,000. It would have cost close to a million in Hollywood.

Sitting Hen Hatches a $25 Fine for Indiana Farmer

Portland, Ind., April 25.—(AP)—An innocent hen in Charles Bowsman's chicken house was sitting, not on a glass egg or a door knob, but on thirty half pints of whisky, excise officers reported today. They could see no point in that, so they seized the liquor and arrested Bowsman. He paid a $25 fine for illegal possession.

Judge Ponders Term in Prison for Danielsen

Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court was locked in his study in his Beverly Hills home last night searching the law books for a parallel to the case of Theodore Danielsen Jr., 16 year old high school sophomore who killed his mother. Earlier in the day the judge visited the law library of the Criminal court in his study of the case.

The young slayer meanwhile was reported to be passing a restless time in the county jail waiting for the judge to decide on his punishment. Danielsen stabbed his mother, Eleanor, to death last March 3 in their home at 5316 Lieb avenue.

Studies Report of Physician.

Judge Harrington had before him last night the report of Dr. Paul Schmitt, coroner's physician, who made a post-mortem examination of Mrs. Danielsen's body. He also reread the youth's confession in which Danielsen said the stabbing was done with a 9 inch bread knife. The judge tucked these two documents in his brief case late yesterday afternoon before he left for home. They were turned over to him by Assistant State's Attorney Morris G. Meyers.

The request for the report of the coroner's physician was considered significant by court attachés as indicating that Judge Harrington was debating whether young Danielsen's case comes within the manslaughter category or the more serious crime of murder. In confessing the killing on the witness stand, the youth advanced as a defense "an irresistible impulse." No contention was made that he was or is insane, an issue which could only be tried by a jury.

The coroner's physician's report does not entirely bear out the story of the fatal meeting between mother and son as outlined by the boy. The physicians reported death was due to severance of blood vessels on the right side of the neck and strangulation. He further reported "multiple lacerations on the scalp, face, and neck; abrasions and multiple areas of ecchymosis [purple discoloration of the face, neck and extremities."

Verdict of Coroner's Jury.

The verdict of the coroner's jury following along the lines of the physician's report also held that strangulation was one of the causes of death. Dr. Harry R. Hoffman of the Criminal court behavior clinic also told the judge of the lacerations and discolorations.

During the trial no stress was placed on the testimony regarding the lacerations and discolorations on Mrs. Danielsen's body. Judge Harrington however, several times pried into this subject of his own accord showing that he was interested in whether the stabbing was spontaneous or followed by a prolonged struggle between mother and son. This could easily be the deciding factor under the law between murder and manslaughter and was recalled as important last night when it learned that the judge had taken the coroner's physician's report from the Criminal courts building.

Judge Harrington did not see young Danielsen yesterday. No move was made to reopen the case as previously indicated.

BALKS AT DEAL WITH NAZIS TO PREVENT WAR

British Drop Plan for 4 Power Treaty.

PARIS, April 25.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier tonight made known his government's flat opposition to any four power European pact that would include Nazi Germany.

The premier's stand was disclosed as he warned Frenchmen to unite in speeding industry or face permanent dictatorship.

French officials said the foreign office "understood" the British government had given up its idea for a four power pact linking France, Great Britain, Germany, and Italy to guarantee European peace.

British Abandon Plans.

Such a pact many observers had believed would result from the new British-Italian accord and pending French-Italian friendship treaty negotiations.

Informed sources said the British had abandoned the plan when they saw France was determined to back her Czechoslovak ally and Adolf Hitler equally was determined to keep his hands free in eastern Europe.

In disclosing Daladier's stand, the premier's associates said a four-point plan for Franco-British discussion would be taken by Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet on their visit to London, whence they depart Wednesday.

Outline of Discussions.

The outline of discussions was said to call for:

1. Reinforcement of Franco-British military coöperation providing for joint purchase of certain war materials in event of war and further economic collaboration.

2. An attempt to get a more explicit statement from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain concerning British support of Czechoslovakia's independence.

3. A survey of diplomatic questions—the new agreements with Italy, the Spanish civil war, and recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia by the league of nations.

4. Financial matters including the tri-partite monetary accord with the United States.

Daladier's warning to labor to increase production was made public by cabinet ministers after they approved his plan for pulling the nation out of economic and financial difficulties.

First Decree Ready May 1.

The "national defense" premier said the first decree carrying out the plan would be ready May 1. This will be the first use Daladier has made of his dictatorial powers to rule the nation by decree until July 31.

The premier said his scheme included:

Reëstablishment of budgetary balance through measures not fettering production; modernization of tools and machinery and organization of work with a view to improvement of production; support for local handicrafts; a public works program for removal of slums; development of credit for industry and commerce; full utilization of colonial resources; and increasing the tourist business.

Labor was warned that it would have to abandon the 40 hour week in many industries, with the exception of assembly line workers. The premier said the 45 hour week should be established in the metallurgical industry.

CZECHS DEFY NAZI CHIEF

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, April 25.—(AP)—A firm "no" was said by political circles today to be Czechoslovakia's answer to Nazi Chieftain Konrad Henlein's demand that the republic change her foreign policy to suit Germans within her borders.

These circles said it was an unacceptable proposition which the government would not consider under any circumstances.

The government was represented as inclined to suspend judgment on Henlein's other seven demands, made on behalf of 3,250,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia, until the leader of the country's Sudeten German party furnished more concrete details.

Self-Rule Demand Rejected.

Henlein's demands constituted an eight point program calling for self-government with Nazi principles for Czechoslovakia's Sudeten Germans who take their name from the Sudetic mountain range.

The government was reported to see in Henlein's demands no new basis for negotiations and would therefore continue on its present course to work out its own proposed minorities statute.

Regarding the German claims for the right of the same Weltanschauung [world outlook] as that existing in the German reich, government circles pointed out there was liberty of conscience in Czechoslovakia.

The profession of Hitler's doctrines, they said, is admissable only so long as they do not interfere with the world outlook of other citizens. Totalitarianism, therefore, is out, it was added.

An official of Henlein's party said fulfilment of his demands would mark only the beginning of better relations between Sudeten Germans and the Czechs.

Plan Additional Demands.

If Sudeten Germans fail to realize their hearts' desire—union with Germany—they will insist upon two additional demands, this source said.

These were neutralization of Czechoslovakia and the formation of a customs union with Germany.

"We Germans can work wholeheartedly for this state only if we have assurance that we shall never be called upon to shoulder guns against fellow Germans," this party spokesman said.

"Similarly, Hungarians in Czechoslovakia cannot be expected to shoot upon Hungarians nor Polish minorities upon Poles. Czechoslovakia must become a guaranteed, perpetually neutralized country like Switzerland, or such as Belgium was supposed to be.

"It also is obvious Czechoslovakia can not stand alone commercially and industrially. The obvious thing is customs union with Germany, from which both sides would be bound to profit."

Break Jewish Shop Windows.

Meanwhile unidentified rowdies at Theusing, near Marienbad, broke the windows in a Jewish shop and similarly damaged a Jewish rabbi's home.

From Budapest came reports that the Hungarian Revisionist league, which is openly demanding return of a portion of Czechoslovakia to Hungary, was making marked membership gains and that interest had been intensified since Sunday's demonstration voicing the demands.

The Revisionists are asking return of a third of Czechoslovakia, carved out of Hungary to help form the republic which was created after the world war.

GERMANY WARNS CZECHS TO YIELD TO NAZI DEMAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 25.—Official Germany today left no doubt that the problem of three and one-quarter million Germans in Czechoslovakia over whom Reichsfuehrer Hitler has proclaimed himself protector must be solved soon.

In supporting the autonomy demands of Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German [Nazi] party, official spokesmen and the German press said that Germany expects an early reply from the Prague government on all the points laid down by the Nazi leader in a speech in Carlsbad Sunday.

It was stated that if the Czechs refuse to yield to the demands, Henlein will order his followers to put up passive resistance, refuse to obey the orders of Czech officials and refrain from sending their children to Czech schools.

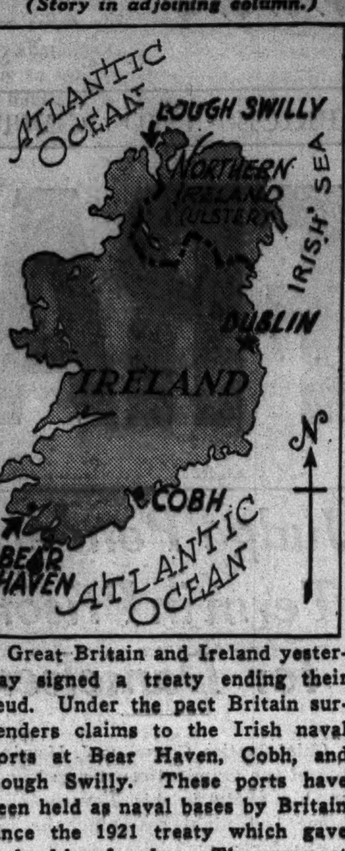
British Quit Irish Ports

(Story in adjoining column.)



Great Britain and Ireland yesterday signed a treaty ending their feud. Under the pact Britain surrenders claims to the Irish naval ports at Bear Haven, Cobh, and Lough Swilly. These ports have been held as naval bases by Britain since the 1921 treaty which gave Ireland her freedom. The new pact did not touch on the question of union of Ireland and Northern Ireland (Ulster).

NAVY EXPANSION POLICY IS FUTILE, SENATORS TOLD

U. S. Lacks Facilities for More Building.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—[Special.]—Senator Homer T. Bone [D., Wash.] told the senate today that the Roosevelt administration was tilting at windmills in proposing a $1,156,546,000 naval expansion authorization without enlarging the nation's shipbuilding facilities. It will require a minimum of five years, he said, to complete construction already authorized by the Vinson-Trammell act of 1934.

Senator Bone said naval officers testified at secret hearings of the naval affairs committee that they did not wish to increase existing shipbuilding facilities. They wanted the increased authorization, he said, merely to prevent production humps in an orderly construction program over a period of from 10 to 20 years.

Not Defense Measure.

"This is not a measure of national defense," Senator Bone said. "Under existing law we can pack every shipyard in America to suffocation in the next five years. We can spend so much money that we would frighten the taxpayers. Under this bill we are tilting at windmills and shadowboxing with unrealities as though it were a life and death matter."

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, told the senate committee in executive session that the construction program authorized by the pending bill would require a minimum of 10 years and might require 20 years with existing shipbuilding facilities.

Lewis Defends Roosevelt.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.], defended the big navy bill and undertook to censure senators who have been demanding to know what is the Roosevelt foreign policy. He intimated that the foreign policy, like the monetary policy, is on a 24 hour basis.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] reminded Lewis that as late as March 15, Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring said: "The United States is better prepared today than at any time in its history.

IRISH AND BRITISH SETTLE FEUD; NEW TREATY IS SIGNED

Demands of DeValera Are Met by London.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 25.—Ireland scored a diplomatic triumph over Great Britain tonight with the signing of a new treaty which wipes old sores. The pact meets all of the Irish demands except abolition of the border between Ireland [Eire] and Northern Ireland or Ulster.

Even on that thorny question of partition it is understood the British privately agreed to drop active opposition.

An Irish navy should finally become a reality as a result of the treaty's defense provisions which surrender British claims to the Irish naval ports of Bear Haven, Cobh, and Lough Swilly. These ports have been held by the British since the 1921 treaty which freed Ireland.

Victory for De Valera.

The defense question was marked up as a victory for Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, because the British wanted the Irish to declare they would coöperate in defense of their own territory if necessary.

A high Irish leader, who refused to be quoted, said there was no need for such an agreement, as the Irish are ready to defend themselves as valiantly against all interlopers as they had been against the English.

He said that America deserves much credit for the brilliant success of the treaty—pressure of American public opinion was of great help to De Valera during the negotiations.

The British are extremely anxious to cultivate the good relations of the United States and felt that hostility of Irish-Americans would be a great obstacle.

Price of Pact Is $50,000,000.

The price of the agreement for the Irish was $50,000,000. That is to be paid in final settlement of all claims arising from seizure of lands.

This is roughly one-twentieth of the amount still due under the original agreement on land annuities which the Irish have refused to pay since 1932. Ireland will continue to pay $1,250,000 a year to settle debts for property damaged during rebellions.

The treaty was signed by De Valera and his colleagues for Ireland. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer; Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary; Malcolm MacDonald, secretary for dominions, and W. S. Morrison, minister of agriculture and fisheries, signed it for Britain.

Three Parts to Treaty.

The treaty includes three parts:

1.—The British will hand over to Ireland coast defense stations.

2.—Payment of $50,000,000 by Ireland to settle land annuity claims.

3.—The British will remove special duties imposed to collect unpaid land annuities and the Irish will remove retaliatory tarifs.

The trade agreement itself was an Irish victory. It provides that all Irish goods enter Britain duty free while only "certain" British goods have the same privilege in Ireland. One Irish leader said that means the Irish can admit anything free they cannot make at home.

While Conservatives said the treaty was "another victory" for Chamberlain's policy of conciliation, other observers considered the British merely wanted Ireland's good will and were ready to pay the price it cost.

The English feared that unless they settled the age-old quarrel the Irish might open their ports to an enemy fleet.

There still are two hurdles to clear. Both the Irish and British parliaments must ratify the treaty, which has three years to run.

De Valera avoided a sure veto by not including the agreement on defense coöperation. The British wanted to make the Irish army virtually an extra British division.

It is understood De Valera promised the British they need not worry about the defense provision, though it is unwritten, and accepted a similar promise from the British that the hated border between Ireland and Ulster would eventually be abolished.

[British-Irish negotiations started Jan. 17, with De Valera eager for an accord which would include a union of Ireland with Ulster as envisaged by the new constitution he promulgated May 1, 1937. The constitution, declaring all Ireland an independent state, went into effect Dec. 29. On Feb. 10 the northern Ireland government of Viscount Craigavon was returned to power in an election which essentially was a vote against union of the two Irelands. There are several barriers between six county Ulster and her larger neighbor—racial, religious, and economic.]

Boy Gun Fancier Shoots and Kills Self in Home

Theodore A. Anderson, 18 years old, a freshman at Armour institute, shot and killed himself last night with a rifle in his home at 1821 South 2d avenue, Maywood. His father, Hans V. Anderson, chief accountant in the general office of the Cudahy Packing company, said the youth was a gun fancier. The father termed the shooting an accident.

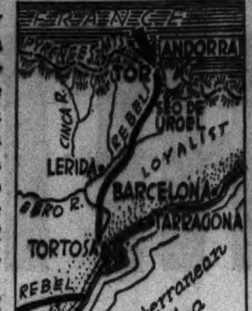
Loyalists Battle to Rescue 'Lost Division' in North Spain

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], April 25.—(AP)—Spanish loyalist fighters today launched a furious attack on the northern Catalonian front in an attempt to rescue their comrades of a "lost division," which was cut off by the rebels high in the Pyrenees mountains. Although hampered by snow, the government reported the capture of a number of important mountain positions.



Arrow locates region where loyalist division is isolated.

The government's "lost division"—the 43d—was camped in mountain passes in the Pyrenees from Montolui, in the Aran valley, to villages northwest of Tor, a village near the Franco-Spanish border, west of the tiny republic of Andorra.

While their comrades fought to reach them, the "lost division," fighting with its back to the French frontier, carried on bitter guerrilla warfare against the rebel flank. [This division reported Saturday it had killed 2,000 rebels in a surprise attack.]

Two rebel columns found themselves in much the same predicament as the beleaguered government division. One column moved toward Seo de Urgel, at the juncture of the Segre and Valira rivers, while the other drove south along the Andorran frontier. Both were harassed constantly by government guerrilla tactics.

At the southern end of the eastern Spanish front government troops, after relentless pounding from rebel artillery and tanks, withdrew to new positions, giving up Alcala de Chisvert.

Twenty-five rebel bombing planes carried out a systematic bombing raid on the rich port of Castellon and nearby town of Villareal.

Bombers Kill 50 in Valencia.

MADRID, April 25.—(AP)—Spanish rebel air raiders today attacked Valencia, former government capital on the Mediterranean coast, killing 50 persons and wounding 200 in one of the severest bombardments of the civil war.

Three British freighters were struck by bombs or shrapnel. One of the vessels, the Stanland, was sinking at the waterfront and it was believed she could not be saved.

One sailor was wounded aboard the Stanland and two were injured slightly about the Celtic Star. The freighter Isadora of Belfast was struck just outside the harbor, but was towed alongside the docks and unloaded quickly.

CHILD, 10, FINDS UNCLE'S PISTOL AND KILLS SELF

Eileen Talbot, 10 years old, died early today in the County hospital of a bullet wound accidentally self-inflicted yesterday when she fired a revolver in the home of her uncle, Frank Murphy, 516 South Kilbourn avenue, with whom she had been living.

The girl found the weapon under a pillow. A few minutes later the weapon was discharged and she was shot through the mouth. Dr. Harold Slutske, 4500 Harrison street, gave first aid and took her to the hospital. Police began a search for Mr. and Mrs. John Talbot, estranged parents of Eileen.

HITLER APPOINTS BUERCKEL AS HIS AID IN AUSTRIA

BERLIN, April 25.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today issued a decree appointing Joseph Buerckel "federal commissioner for the reunion of Austria with the German reich [nation]," thereby further curtailing the power of Arthur Seyss-Inquart, governor of Austria.

In a letter to Seyss-Inquart Hitler notified him of Buerckel's appointment and promised the Austrian governor a post in the Berlin cabinet after Austrian union was completed.

BRITISH AIR CHIEF UNDER FIRE OVER LACK OF PLANES

Production Delay Stirs Public Uproar.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

LONDON, April 25.—The storm over the alleged muddle and delays in Great Britain's aircraft production program came to a head today coincident with the arrival in the United States of members of the air ministry's delegation. The mission will seek to buy American planes to make up for the deficiency in air armament.

Members of parliament launched fierce criticism of the alleged inefficiency of the air ministry's program under Viscount Swinton, secretary of state for air and president of the air council. Their criticism also implied that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was keeping Swinton in office despite a recent adverse report on his department submitted by a committee headed by Lord Cadman, and an earlier attack against him by Lord Nuffield, automobile magnate.

Press Joins Attack.

A section of the press, led by the Daily Telegraph, also took up the cudgels against the air ministry's inefficiency.

Oliver Simmonds, Conservative, and Fredrick Montague, Laborite, and former undersecretary for air, will raise the question of why it was necessary to send a mission to the United States to buy planes in the house of commons tomorrow. Chamberlain is expected to explain that recent events have forced speeding up the program even beyond the goal set.

The departure of the air ministry's delegation for America precipitated public alarm over the results of air production which do not conform with government assurances. Part of the uproar is being raised by manufacturers who declare their plants can produce more planes but that they can not get orders because of red tape. They are furious at seeing the business going across the Atlantic.

Urge Mass Production.

The air ministry's critics are calling for mass production methods organized by men who understand such methods.

The detailed criticism also includes:

1. There has been no real coördination among the air ministry and industry.

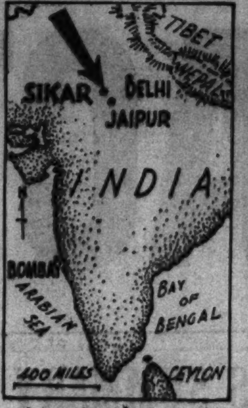
2. Opportunities for additional production have been ignored.

3. Old fashioned methods of production are insisted upon.

British alarm has increased over the fact that German plane production had greatly increased with the addition of Austria to the reich.

RAJAH REVOLTS; HOLDS TOWN AGAINST SIEGE BY INDIAN OVERLORD

JAIPUR, India, April 25.—(AP)—Two trainloads of troops, including a detachment, were rushed today to Sikar, a fortified town of northwestern India, which is under siege because the rajah of Sikar entrenched himself there in revolt against his overlord. Three hundred military police already were besieging the town.



Arrow locates town which is under siege.

The overlord is the 26 year old polo playing maharajah of Jaipur, a state in Rajputana. F. S. Young, British inspector general of Jaipur state, went to Sikar, a town of 18,000 population, to direct operations against the rebels.

The cause of the revolt was obscure. One report was that the rajah, the maharajah, and the premier of Jaipur quarreled over the question of a political marriage for the rajah's 16 year old heir. Another said the rajah was angry because his overlord intended to take the lad on a trip to England.

AIRLINER LANDS IN OCEAN; ALL ON BOARD SAVED

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 25.—(AP)—A twinmotored Pan-American flying boat was forced down at sea thirty miles from here today and its twelve passengers and four crew members were rescued. The plane encountered engine trouble while flying from Santiago, Cuba, to Kingston. The passengers and crew, along with mail and express, were transferred to the Elder & Fyffe steamship Cavina.

The vessel landed the plane passengers and crew and the tug Kellerig set out from Kingston to take in tow the flying boat, which was reported in a sinking condition.

Radio Marine corporation in New York picked up a wireless message from the Killerig several hours later which said the plane had sunk and that she was returning to Kingston.

DEMAND STATE'S 'SURPLUS' TO FILL RELIEF COFFERS

Added Taxes Also Part of Committee Plan.

The advisory committee appointed by Mayor Kelly to devise a fiscal program to continue the Chicago relief administration's present scale of expenditures yesterday submitted its plan after a two months' study. By the end of this month the city's money for relief will be exhausted.

The committee recommended that a major portion of the deficiency be taken from the state sales tax fund. To this the city would add revenue obtainable either from new nuisance taxes or from an increase of 1 cent in the state 3 cent sales tax. The increase to 4 cents would apply only to Chicago under the committee plan.

City Must Raise 14 Million.

The committee, composed of fifty business and civic leaders, agreed with the CRA estimate that $29,131,612 will be required for relief during the last eight months of the year. Chicago must raise $14,326,612 of this sum.

To carry out this program, the committee told Mayor Kelly, it would be necessary to obtain enabling legislation at a special session of the legislature. The report urges Gov. Horner to call such a session at once so that the additional relief funds could be made available by May 10.

The report asks that the legislature appropriate 9 million dollars from the state sales tax surplus. Chicago would get 7 millions, the balance going to downstate communities under the committee plan.

The Two Alternatives.

The remaining 7 millions Chicago must raise would be realized by one of the following alternatives: Through a tax on cigarets, tobacco, soft drinks, gasoline, and checks, or the 1 cent increase in the sales tax. This latter scheme would yield an estimated $1,300,000 a month, or $10,400,000 for the balance of the year, and if this alternative were adopted there would be a corresponding reduction in the amount to be appropriated from the state treasury by the legislature.

The committee estimated that a 2 or 3 cent tax on cigarets and other tobacco would produce 2 million dollars during the rest of the year; a 1 cent tax on bottled soft drinks, 1 million; a 1 cent per gallon local tax on gasoline, 3½ millions, and a 2 cent tax on all checks, $500,000.

Estimate 21 Million a Year.

The finance committee of the city council has been striving for a year to make miscellaneous taxes of this type produce all possible revenue. The estimated income from such taxes during 1938 was set at $21,200,000 when the 1938 appropriations were made by the city council.

City Controller Robert B. Upham said that he knows of no way in which the city can increase its revenue from additional taxes of this nature without special permission from the legislature. A request for such permission a year ago was turned down.

The governor is vacationing at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and is not expected back in Springfield before Wednesday. Mayor Kelly said he will submit the committee recommendations to the city council today.

LANDS IN JAIL WHEN HE SENDS CAB FOR POLICE

Donald Young was in jail at Wilmette last night because he sent the police a taxicab in which to come after him.

Young, who lives at 841 Wilson avenue, tried to cash a check for $24.75 Sunday in a grocery at 807 Ridge road, Wilmette, as the police tell the story. The clerk could spare only $4 change and so told Young to come back later for the rest. Since it developed meanwhile that the check was not of the best, Sergt. Herman Vance and Detective Joseph Schmidt went to the store to wait for young.

When a cab driver came instead, with a note from Young requesting the money, the detectives jumped into the cab and told the driver to take them to him. He was waiting at the Linden avenue elevated railway station. And was he surprised!

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—Reports that Horace E. Dodge, Detroit sportsman and speedboat manufacturer, would marry Mickey Devine, a New York showgirl, when he gets a divorce from his second wife, the London born Muriel Sisman, were revived today on information that he had filed suit in Wayne county, Mich. When the report first was circulated following the Dodge's estrangement in 1934 he said it was foolish. The former Lois Knowlton divorced Dodge in 1927 after he made a 10 million dollar settlement.

McCARL INSISTS 'PUMP PRIMING' IS BID FOR VOTES

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—An attack on the present "pump priming" program as an attempt to postpone the day of reckoning and as a desperate effort to get the Roosevelt administration safely past the November elections was contained in an address by John Ramond McCarl, former controler general of the United States, prepared for delivery before the spring conference of the Controllers' Institute of America tonight.

McCarl was unable to attend the conference due to a fall last week which resulted in a chipped vertebra. He is at a hospital in Washington. The address was distributed to members.

McCarl declared that the latest attempt at buying recovery would be as unsuccessful as the first and characterized it as a further attempt to create a "supergovernment" with the attendant death of democracy.

New York, April 25.—(AP)—Robert Irwin, 30 years old, a sculptor, was back in Tombs prison tonight after a fruitless hour in court listening to his attorney plead that he be tried immediately for the "Easter Sunday murders."

State Supreme Court Justice Julius Miller denied the request that Irwin either be freed or be tried at once on the charge he killed Frank Byrnes, a lodger in the home of Veronica Gedeon, artists' model, and her mother, who also were slain on Easter Sunday, 1937.

"He isn't going to be liberated, so don't worry about that," said Justice Miller in refusing the plea of Defense Attorney Samuel S. Leibowitz who had brought his client to court from the Tombs on a writ of habeas corpus, contending District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey had delayed the trial unreasonably.

CURB ON ICKES IS DEMANDED IN SENATE, HOUSE

Spending and Tirades on Business Assailed.

Washington, D. C., April 25.—[Special.]—On the eve of the appearance of Secretary Harold L. Ickes, head of the Public Works administration, before a house committee on the President's pump-priming program, a move was started in both houses of congress to curb the PWA spender in his distribution of a billion and a half dollars for loans and grants to city and state projects.

Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] sponsored a proposal to require congressional approval of public works projects, saying he was averse to voting blank check appropriations. In the house, Representative Leo E. Allen [R., Ill.] demanded that the house appropriations committee exact a pledge from Ickes that he would refrain from any more tirades against business before he was given any more spending authority.

Waste of Money.

"When the secretary appears before the appropriations committee tomorrow, I suggest that the committee should see to it that a definite promise is given by him to cease his attacks against business," Allen said. "We will get nowhere, and the spending of all this money will avail us nothing if concurrently with its expenditure, these violent attacks upon business by spokesmen for the administration are to continue.

"I believe the committee should have a definite understanding with the secretary as to whether or not he is going to continue his tirades against business in the same intemperate way he has in the past, in order that this congress may know what to expect if these appropriations are approved."

Ickes and Harry Hopkins, head of the WPA, conferred with President Roosevelt for an hour this morning on the spending program.

Temporary Palliative.

Representative John J. O'Connor, [D., N. Y.], who led the successful house revolt against the government reorganization bill, declared in a radio speech tonight that the Roosevelt program was merely a temporary palliative. "It is a hypodermic, administered to a badly smashed up victim who needs thorough medication and possibly amputation," he said.

Senator Burke and other conservative Democrats were said to have the secret approval of Vice President John N. Garner in their move to curb Ickes. Some of them talked about eliminating entirely the proposal for Ickes to handle 1 billion 450 millions in loans and grants. They contended, with Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.], chairman of the senate appropriation committee, that the Reconstruction Finance corporation, under Jesse Jones, could handle all necessary lending.

Officials of the Farm Security administration appeared before the house appropriations committee today, explaining how they would spend the additional 75 millions to be given them under the pump priming program.

DAWES IS RESTING AFTER OPERATION IN NEW YORK CITY

Former Vice President Charles G. Dawes was reported last night to be resting comfortably in Roosevelt hospital, New York City, where he underwent an emergency operation Sunday. Hospital officials said Gen. Dawes suffered an acute attack of appendicitis.

Gen. Dawes, who will be 73 years old on Aug. 27, went to New York with Mrs. Dawes last week for the wedding of Warren Pershing, son of Gen. John J. Pershing, war time colleague and superior of Gen. Dawes. Gen. and Mrs. Dawes live at 226 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston.

Dr. Henry W. Cave, the attending physician, withheld comment on the case until yesterday when he announced that bulletins on his patient's condition would be issued twice daily. Late tonight Dr. Cave said Gen. Dawes' condition was favorable.

NAME BERTRAND RUSSELL U. OF C. GUEST LECTURER

Joins Philosophy Staf for Two Quarters.

Bertrand Russell, who at one time occupied a British prison cell and at another a seat in the house of lords, who practiced and preached companionate marriage, and who is one of the most brilliant of living philosophers and mathematicians, will lecture at the University of Chicago next fall. President Robert Maynard Hutchins announced his appointment yesterday as a visiting professor for the autumn and winter quarters.

President Hutchins said the presence of Dr. Russell will give the university faculty the most distinguished group of logicians in the world. Dr. Hutchins also announced the appointment of Prof. Werner W. Jaeger, who came to Chicago from the University of Berlin in 1936 to teach Greek, as a professor of philosophy.

Rebuilds Philosophy Staf.

These and other appointments made during the last two years are considered to have completed the task of rebuilding the university's philosophy department, which was riddled by retirements and resignations following a controversy between President Hutchins and the department faculty in 1931.

Earl Russell served his jail term, six months, because of his opposition to conscription during the world war. The same activities cost him a lectureship at Cambridge and caused the British government to deny him a passport when he was offered a post at Harvard. He still is a pacifist.

He became a peer on the death of his brother, the second Earl Russell, in 1931. Lord John Russell, their grandfather and first holder of the title, was a British liberal prime minister whose friendship for the north did much to prevent war between the United States and England during the civil war.

Divorced by Second Wife.

In 1935 Earl Russell's second wife, herself a radical author and lecturer, divorced him, naming his present wife as co-respondent. In the course of the divorce proceedings it was disclosed that they had made a pact in 1933, absolving each other of previous infidelities. He had a child by his third wife last year, when he was 64.

Earl Russell, who in spite of his scientific attainments never received the degree of doctor of philosophy, a commonplace label of American educators, first gained fame as a mathematician. The logical-positivist school of philosophy, to which he has been a contributor, holds that words of spoken language carry such an overburden of contradictory meanings that they are unsuited for philosophical discussion, and has developed as a substitute language of mathematical symbols.

ALBANIA BEGINS 3 DAY FETE FOR KING'S WEDDING

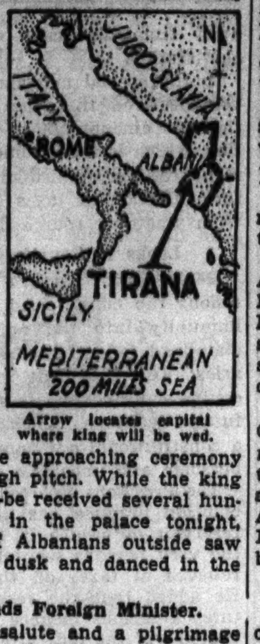
TIRANA, Albania, April 25.—(AP)—Albania opened today a three day national holiday in honor of the wedding Wednesday of King Ahmed Zog and Countess Geraldine Apponyi of Hungary, whose mother was an American.



Arrow locates capital where king will be wed.

Tirana, the dimly lighted capital, was in festive garb as jubilation over the approaching ceremony reached a high pitch. While the king and queen-to-be received several hundred guests in the palace tonight, thousands of Albanians outside saw fireworks at dusk and danced in the streets.

Italy Sends Foreign Minister.

A 21 gun salute and a pilgrimage to the tomb of the queen mother near the American legation on the city's outskirts began the day.

Foreign diplomats, guests from abroad and members of the government and parliament were invited to tonight's reception.

Among them were Hugh C. Grant, American minister to Albania, and Mrs. Grant of Birmingham, Ala.; Morris N. Hughes of Illinois, first secretary of the American legation; and Vice Consul Erich W. A. Hoffman of Wisconsin.

Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano was invited as Premier Benito Mussolini's envoy, and the duke of Bergamo, who arrived at Durazzo aboard a cruiser, came to Albania as the representative of the Italian royal family. Italy is Albania's strongest protector.

Marriage by Civil Ceremony.

The king's traveling sisters, Princesses Maxhide, Ruhije, and Myzejen, who had just returned by way of England and France from their visit to the United States, were present also.

The queen to be, who is 22 years old, was dressed in a smart Paris creation and stood in the receiving line beside King Zog.

King Zog tomorrow will receive congratulations of official provincial delegations at the royal palace and in the evening will go with the countess to a ball at the Officers' club.

A simple and short civil wedding ceremony will be performed Wednesday in the palace. The ceremony will be a civil one, since Albanian laws do not recognize religious marriages. The king, who is 42 years old, is a Moslem; the countess is Catholic.

OFT WED WIDOW WINS APPEAL OF NINETY DAY TERM IN COUNTY JAIL

A ninety day sentence in the county jail, imposed Oct. 23 on Mrs. Jean Anderson, oft-married widow of Hugh W. Thomasson, wealthy St. Louis real estate dealer, was reversed yesterday by the Appellate court.

Mrs. Anderson, who has had six husbands, was arrested Oct. 21 on charges of contributing to the dependency of her children, Jean, 14 years old, and Carl, 12. Judge John V. McCormick in the Women's court found her guilty.

The higher court's opinion, written by Justice John M. O'Connor, held that the bill of information against Mrs. Thomasson failed to show that the children were destitute, dependent upon the public for support or that their home was an unfit place.

Mrs. Anderson's claim to a widow's share of Thomasson's $800,000 estate was denied last month in St. Louis.

INFANT DIES OF BURNS.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 25.—[Special.]—Ninalee F. McGregor, 3 years old, died today of burns incurred Saturday when she fell into a pile of smouldering cornstalks while chasing a ball. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McGregor.

CAPITAL HOUSING VENTURE CLASSIC FEDERAL FIASCO

Rents Beyond Means of Intended Tenants.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—[Special.]—Two miles from the capitol in which congress has so blithely poured out the billions which have made Uncle Sam the nation's biggest real estate operator stand the apartment buildings and row houses of the Langston housing project for colored tenants.

There, at the expense of a short taxicab ride, congressmen can find an object of what Harold L. Ickes, as public works administrator, did with the 134 odd million dollar stack of chips handed him when he sat in on the federal housing game. If they will consult statistics, cost sheets, and rental scales they also may get a fair idea of how close he came to his announced objectives in that game.

With his 134 millions Mr. Ickes set out to provide emergency employment to clear slums and to provide low cost housing for low income groups—presumably for that "one-third of the nation ill housed," sometimes referred to by President Roosevelt and his followers.

Job Just Being Finished.

Mr. Ickes got his money in the summer of 1933. As an emergency employment measure ground was broken at Langston on the last day in 1935, and contractors are just now finishing it.

Langston was built on vacant land, so there was no slum clearance.

As to low costs, a five room dwelling unit at Langston bears an overall cost of $10,325, whereas half of all the owned homes in Washington are valued at less than $8,000.

Low rents are subsidized at Langston by writing off the whole cost of the project and 91 per cent of the taxes a private owner would pay, a public cost of $89,957 a year for the benefit of 274 families. Nevertheless, not a single one of the colored tenants in the lower third of the rent scale in Washington will be able to rent at Langston the number of rooms he now occupies without paying increased rents. The larger apartments presumably will draw their tenants, on an equivalent rental basis, from the upper 30 or 40 per cent of the colored tenant group in the city.

A Spendthrift's Dream.

A visit to Langston tends to confirm belief in the charge, frequently made against the PWA housing division, that it was dominated by architects, and by architects who for probably the first time since the pyramids were built had no one to watch the costs when they started spending money to bring their dreams true.

It is probable that not more than 5 per cent—certainly not more than 10 per cent—of the readers of THE TRIBUNE lives in homes of such expensive construction. There are no surface indications, to one unversed in construction methods, of shoddy building. The materials used appear to have been the best available—such items as metal sash, tiled hallways, copper screening and, in the way of equipment, excellent electric stoves, and refrigerators. The stoves cost $38.70 and the refrigerators $67.75 wholesale.

The apartments are very light, with large windows and buildings spaced well apart—only 13.4 per cent of the land is covered by buildings as against 50 per cent or more by most Chicago apartment buildings. Interior arrangements give evidence of careful design to make cleanliness easy for the housewife and to give the utmost practical use of available space.

Rooms Are Small.

In fact, the only detail to which a Chicago tenant accustomed to paying $50 to $60 a month rent might object is the size of the rooms, particularly of bedrooms approximately 10 to 11 feet square. This small room size is characteristic of almost all PWA housing projects in spite of their very high cost per room.

But if Langston was a paradise for the architects who planned it and will become a happy home to the subsidized tenants who are being selected for occupancy, it bids fair to be a headache to the taxpayers, both those of the District of Columbia and those of the nation at large. They have to pay for it.

They have to pay for all of it—the whole $1,864,946 worth. When Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing authority, took over the PWA housing projects, which his technical superior, Secretary Ickes, had built, one of his first announcements was that to get rents as low as possible he was going to wipe out the entire capital cost in figuring them.

Gift from Taxpayers.

To retire the capital cost over a fifty-eight year period, the amortization period set for the USHA housing loans, would cost $60,245 a year, figuring interest at 2½ per cent. That sum, equal to $18.63 a month to each of the 274 tenant families, is the indirect gift of the nation's taxpayers to the Langston tenants.

The District of Columbia has its own special headache. Taxes on the housing project, if it were in private hands, were computed by district officials at $32,637 a year. But since the project is federally owned they cannot tax it. The project managers offered to pay the district government $2,925 in return for the schools, police, and fire protection, sewers, and all other municipal services which Washington has to provide for the tenants. The district officials had to take the $2,935 and like it. The remaining 91 per cent of the annual tax bill, amounting to $9.04 a family a month, is the special gift of the district's taxpayers to the Langston occupants.

Because of its federal ownership, the project also is exempt from income taxes on its earnings and other charges which it would have to meet if it were privately owned, but the value of these subsidies cannot be computed in dollars and cents. However, as against their monthly tax and investment subsidies of $27.67, Langston tenants will pay an average rent of $24.92, or only 47.5 per cent of the rentals required to operate on the slimmest basis comparable with private competition.

Benefits Are Doubtful.

In spite of these subsidies, it is most doubtful that Langston homes will be of any benefit to real slum dwellers, of whom Washington has an appreciable number, or even to colored tenants who by any stretch of the imagination could be classified, comparatively, as belonging in the low income group of their race in the capital.

A real property inventory of Washington made in 1934 with Civil Works administration funds provided a distribution of colored tenants into the city according to the rents they paid and the number of rooms rented. Washington rents had their big jump when the influx of Roosevelt pay rollers made a boom town of the city in 1933, and since 1934 have been fairly stable. At present they are declining slightly, so that the 1934 figures are a reasonably accurate picture of present conditions.

Rents Beyond Reach.

These rent scales show that the lowest Langston rents, which for two rooms average $19.50, are beyond the reach of all but a very few families in the lower third of the Washington colored population, since 34.4 per cent of tenants renting two rooms pay less than $20. At Langston no more than three persons may live in a two room apartment.

As the number of rooms increases, the proportion of colored tenant families able to pay Langston rents, on a room for room basis, decreases rapidly. The average Langston rent for three rooms, $23.40, is more than that paid by 42.3 per cent of tenants for the same number of rooms. The four room average, $27.30, exceeds rent paid by 67.5 per cent of four room colored tenants, and the average five room rent, $31.20, is greater than that paid by 73.2 per cent of colored occupants of five room dwellings in the city.

Thus the subsidized apartments at Langston are available to that ill-housed one-third of the city's colored people for whom the professional housers are so solicitous only if they occupy fewer rooms than they now rent—in which course the occupancy standards of the project, limiting the number of persons to a room, probably would bar them—or if they stint themselves on food and clothing in order to pay higher rents.

Efforts Are Defeated.

Despite Administrator Straus' drastic actions in an effort to reduce rentals, typified by the capital write-off and tax remission, which together are equal to one and one-half times the carrying charges on the investment in the project, efforts to make Langston a real low rent project have been defeated by high costs of construction, reflected in the large sums necessary to operate and maintain so elaborate a group of dwellings.

The average cost of the 274 dwelling units at Langston is $6,806. They contain, altogether, only 903 rooms, an average of 3.3 rooms to the dwelling. The average cost of each room, on the basis of all expenditures on the project, is $2,065. This is approximately one and two-thirds times the room cost of privately built housing projects in the Washington area, constructed during the last few years as a result of the fedral employment boom, which command rents of $11 or $12 a room and make provision for taxes, amortization of debt, and owners' profits.

A High Rent City.

Washington is and always has been a high rent city, even before the 1933 influx of tens of thousands of extra government pay rollers. A Washington realty operator estimated that to meet expenses, obsolescence, and maintenance costs, and to provide a reasonable but not excessive profit, an apartment house, during the early years of its life, must yield as gross rents a fifth of its cost each year.

If Langston rents were fixed on this basis by some private operator who bought the property at cost, they would range from $69 to $172 a month. In the higher room sizes these rents would exceed those of the modern, air conditioned Kennedy-Warren apartments, one of the best known of Washington's apartment hotels on fashionable Connecticut avenue.

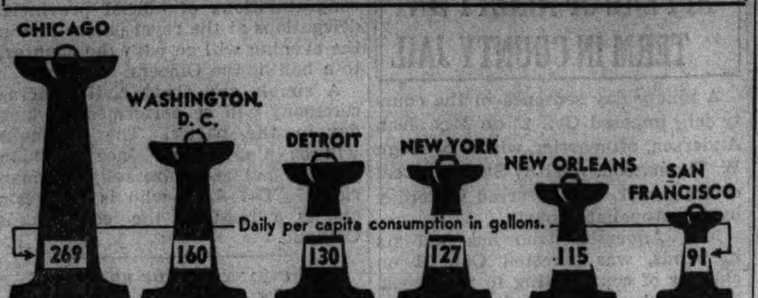
Chicago Highest in Water Use



Comparison of per capita daily consumption of water in Chicago and five other large cities in the United States. Mayor Kelly is seeking a federal loan to build a filtration system to eliminate waste in the city's use of water.

Mayor Leaves Tonight

Mayor Kelly will leave for Washington this evening to seek a federal public works administration loan for construction of Chicago's long planned water filtration system, he said yesterday.

The filtration plans, calling for an eventual expenditure of $60,000,000, were discussed at a three hour conference in the mayor's office attended by a group of aldermen, Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt, and City Engineer Loran D. Gayton. Mayor Kelly did not say how much PWA money he will ask, but a minimum request, it is expected, would be the $21,000,000 necessary to build the south side filtration plant at 79th street.

His request will be for funds on the present PWA plan of a 45 per cent grant and a 55 per cent loan. The city's constitutional debt limit, which its outstanding securities now exceed, does not apply to obligations of the water fund, which are retired wholly from water rates. Thus there will be no legal barriers to the proposal.

Filtration plans involve the necessity of metering water, to eliminate waste which now makes Chicago water consumption the highest per capita in the country. With the elimination of waste through metering, it has been estimated that the added cost of filtering water and retiring the debt on the filtration plants would probably not require a rate increase greater than one-fourth of the present rates.

PRESIDENT ASKS LAW TO ABOLISH TAX EXEMPTION

Would Make Public Bonds and Workers Pay.

away from discussion of action at this session.

In the special message Mr. Roosevelt declared that the language of the 16th amendment to the constitution, which is the income tax amendment, calls in unmistakable language for collection of taxes on "incomes from whatever source derived."

Looks to Courts to Help.

He conceded that in a series of decisions the courts read a reciprocal immunity into the amendment on state and federal securities and salaries. The President said that the courts could correct this situation in future decisions, which would make a constitutional amendment "a cumbersome and uncertain remedy."

The President asserted that the exemption practice has placed a vast reservoir of wealth in the hands of the very persons who should not be relieved of taxes on their incomes. He added that the reservoir constitutes a serious menace to the fiscal systems of the federal and local governments.

The presidential message came to congress at a time when the senate judiciary committee had before it a favorable report from a subcommittee on a proposed constitutional amendment offered by Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.,] designed to end the exemptions.

It came also as senate and house conferees were considering an amendment to the new revenue bill, offered by Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] and adopted by the senate, which proposed a tax on all future government securities. Such an amendment was adopted before by the senate, but was killed in conference.

An amendment which would have authorized taxation of state securities and state salaries by the government and government securities and government salaries by the states, was defeated in the senate during consideration of the revenue bill. For this reason it is believed that any attempt to seek legislation at this session would prolong its length.

Borah Discusses Amendment.

Senator Borah, the leading constitutional authority in the senate, said that he agreed with the President that the objectives may be obtained without a constitutional amendment. He was a member of the senate at the time the income amendment was proposed and approved.

He recalled that at the time leading senators such as Elihu Root and Henry Cabot Lodge intended that the amendment should permit taxation of salaries and securities now considered exempt. He was also of that opinion at the time, he said.

The President saw in the exemptions a temptation to men of great wealth to lock up substantial portions of their funds in tax exempt securities. These are the men, he continued, who are best able to assume business risks and yet their wealth is not employed in the expansion of business.

He asserted that "a fair and effective progressive income tax and a huge perpetual reserve of tax exempt bonds cannot exist side by side."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] said he agreed with the President down to the point of the constitutional question involved, which he said he would leave to the constitutional experts. He said he saw no reason why action could not be taken at this session.

Tax Plan Facts

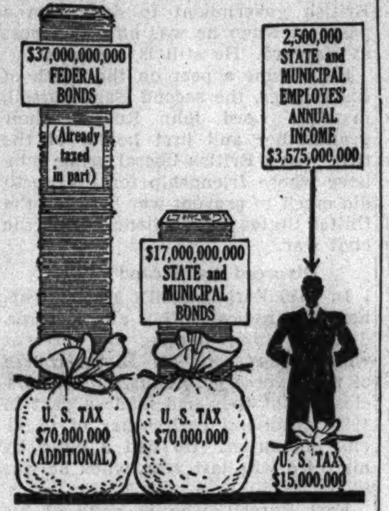
The estimated value of federal, state, and municipal bonds which are wholly or in part tax exempt, and the value of private corporation bonds that now are subject to taxes. The President's proposal to tax types of bonds now tax exempt would apply only to future issues.



What the treasury figures the federal government would realize if the President's proposal were now in effect. If government bonds were taxed, however, fewer probably would be sold. To sell more it would be necessary to raise interest rates, so that the treasury would not benefit as much as it might seem.

TWO BIG HORSES MUNCH A LUNCH IN HOTEL LOBBY

Visit City to Dispute Tractor's Superiority.

Two outstanding foes of the farm tractor pranced into the lobby of the Hotel La Salle at lunch time yesterday to demonstrate their superiority over mechanical equipment.

And if they didn't convert any tractor enthusiasts they drew a bigger crowd than the luncheon of the Agricultural club, which invited them in to tell their side of the story, because a speaker told the club three weeks ago that he thought, confidentially, the horse is losing favor with the farmer.

Evidence in the Flesh.

The horses which came to reply were King, a bay Clydesdale gelding owned by Thomas E. Wilson, the packer, and Mine Degas, a dappled gray Percheron mare from William R. Skidmore's Pine Tree farm near McHenry.

When they saw how many admirers wanted to greet them the big draft horses gave up the luncheon and remained in the lobby, where they had a snack of hay. King, who weighs 2,300 pounds, made considerable clatter in his big heavy shoes. Mine Degas, a mere slip of a horse weighing 1,900 pounds, tripped daintily along in no shoes at all.

The horses were invited for the program of one of the club's studies entitled "Streamlining Agriculture." Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America, did the talking. He told the business men farmers who constitute the club that there are 14 million horses working on farms in the United States despite the increasing use of mechanical equipment.

The Case for Horses.

When farmers change to tractors, he said, they increase the burden of the taxpayers by adding more workers to the relief rolls. He estimated that 800,000 more farm laborers would be required to drive teams if all farmers used horses. Horse power, Dinsmore said, would be more economical over a period of years because feed would be raised on the farms and surplus production would be relieved.

Ellis McFarland, secretary of the American Percheron society, said two-thirds of all the nation's farms are less than 100 acres in size and that horses will likely continue to be used on them.

Both speakers said the horse is here to stay. And King and Mine Degas looked as if they wanted to stay, too, when their chauffeur backed his truck up to the hotel door to take them away.

COUNCIL TO ACT TODAY ON SCHOOL APPOINTMENTS

Board Wins Court Victory on Principals' Test.

The city council will meet today to confirm four appointments to the school board made yesterday by Mayor Kelly.

The appointments were made as another event of major importance to the schools was being announced: The Appellate court upheld the examiners' right to make their own rules by reversing Judge Donald S. McKinlay's order to place the name of Raymond M. Cook of Hyde Park High school on the list of principals who passed last year's examinations.

The mayor's appointments consisted of James B. McCahey, president, and Frederick P. Siebel, board member, reappointed. Their terms expire Friday. The mayor appointed as new members Mrs. Walter F. Heineman and Wilson Frankland.

Some Opposition Expected.

While it was expected that the appointments would be quickly confirmed, it was said last night that some opposition may be voiced by aldermen who are more friendly to the state administration than to the mayor.

Mrs. Heineman, who lives at 10423 Seeley avenue, is the wife of an attorney and the mother of two adults. She is first vice president of the Chicago Woman's club and former chairman of its education and philosophy department. She received an A. B. degree with honors at the University of Chicago in 1926. The family has lived in Beverly Hills more than thirty years.

Educated in England.

Mr. Frankland, who was named to the other vacancy on the board, is vice president of the Chicago Metal Trades council. He lives at 2253 East 83d street. Educated in his native England, he came to the United States when 22 years old. After service in the Lake Forest university engineering department, he was for 10 years in charge of maintenance at the Palmer house. Later he became supervisor of apprentice training for Steamfitters' Protective association, local 597. Mr. Frankland has been active in labor legislation work. He is the father of four children.

Reappointment of Mr. McCahey brought praise from board members. He was appointed in 1933, they said, when school finances were at their lowest ebb. On July 1 of that year, the school board owed teachers $23,000,000, the schools were in arrears in tax warrant redemptions, and it was necessary to use 692 portable buildings.

Walker Praises Record.

"By applying business methods to the schools, Mr. McCahey has lifted the system to a solvent, going concern," said Trustee Irwin N. Walker, "with the salaries of teachers and other employés paid in full.

"School housing has been improved. Five new high schools and seventeen new elementary schools have been built. Twenty additions have been erected, and two more high schools are under construction. There are only ninety-two portable buildings in use today."

Trustee Harry Solomon said: "He has done much to benefit vocational and commercial schools."

Welcomed by Mrs. Hefferan.

Mrs. Heineman declined to comment upon the board's policies before confirmation of her appointment. Mrs. W. S. Hefferan welcomed her to the board.

"Maybe I'll have some one on the board to second my motions hereafter," said Mrs. Hefferan.

Friends of Mrs. Heineman said she would be an independent, with the experience and broad outlook necessary to view the school problems impartially. She is a friend of progressive education, they said, and has the support of the club women.

Examiners Given Authority.

In the Cook case, the Appellate court held that the board of examiners is in entire charge of examinations and is in no way answerable to the board of education, under the Otis law of 1917, which chartered the Chicago schools.

Cook's attorney, Cameron Latter, had contended that Cook ranked fourth among the 830 who took the principals' examination. He charged that the board of examiners had raised the oral examination passing grade from 70 to 75, contrary to school board regulations, and in so doing had failed to pass Cook.

The Appellate court remanded the case to Judge McKinlay's court.

TWICE REJECTED DAM APPROVED BY HOUSE VOTE

Many Change Stand Under Roosevelt Lash.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—[Special.]—The proposed 112 million dollar dam at Gilbertsville, Ky., twice voted down by the house as an extravagant experiment, won approval today by the close vote of 159 to 151.

The house thus receded and concurred in the senate amendment to the independent offices appropriation bill which restored an appropriation of $2,613,000 to start construction of the Tennessee Valley authority keystone project. Today's vote means that authorization for the dam will be in the bill when it goes to the White House.

Little more than a month ago the house voted, 187 to 157, not to yield to the senate amendment which was inserted at the request of Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.]. Barkley needs the project to help him in his battle for renomination in Kentucky against Gov. A. B. Chandler.

White House lobbyists swarmed through the house lounges today, urging Democrats to change their votes. Promises and threats were whispered into the ears of reluctant members.

The drive was highly successful. Twenty-six Democrats who voted against the dam on March 22 switched over to the administration side today and the Gilbertsville project was written into the bill by eight votes.

Opponents of the bill compiled what was sarcastically termed an honor roll. It listed those Democrats who jumped over the fence as a result of the administration's whip lashing. The list included two committee chairmen, Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the ways and means committee, and Lindsay C. Warren [D., N. C.], chairman of the committee on accounts.

Two Illinoisans Switch.

Two Illinois Democrats were in the list. They were Kent E. Keller and Hugh M. Rigney. A lone Republican, Karl Stefan [R., Neb.], also changed his vote.

Other Democrats on the so-called roll of honor of twenty-six who voted against the project on March 22 and for it today follow:

Alfred F. Beiter [N. Y.], Lawrence J. Connery [Mass.], Eugene B. Crowe [Ind.], Joseph A. Dixon [O.], Herman P. Eberharter [Pa.], Hampton P. Fulmer [S. C.], Stephen W. Gambrill [Md.], Clyde L. Garrett [Tex.], T. Alan Goldsborough [Md.], Paul R. Greever [Wyo.], George B. Kelly [N. Y.], Henry C. Luckey [Neb.], G. Heyward Mahon Jr. [S. C.], George H. Mahon [Tex.], John A. Martin [Colo.], Sam C. Massingale [Okla.], Thomas O'Malley [Wis.], Vincent L. Palmisano [Md.], Jennings Randolph [W. Va.], Michael K. Reilly [Wis.], Morgan G. Sanders [Tex.], Elmer H. Wene [N. J.].

Resent Lobbying; Vote No.

The administration lobbyists were alarmed in some instances. Certain Democrats, incensed at the pressure put upon them, changed their votes from yes to no in order to show their disapproval of the lobbying. They were only eleven in number, however. They were: Robert G. Allen [Pa.], Samuel Dickstein [N. Y.], Frank J. G. Dorsey [Pa.], Ira W. Drew [Pa.], William J. Fitzgerald [Conn.], Frank W. Fries [Ill.], Dow W. Harter [O.], James J. Lanzetta [N. Y.], William H. Larrabee [Ind.], Newt V. Mills [La.], Joe L. Smith [W. Va.].

For the dam—Democrats—Kent E. Keller, Leo Kocialkowski, Rigney; total, 3. Against the dam—Democrats—Harry P. Beam, Lewis L. Boyer, Edward A. Kelly, Raymond S. McKeough, James A. Meeks, Thomas J. O'Brien, Claude V. Parson, Edwin M. Schaefer, Chester Thompson; total, 10. Republicans—Leo B. Allen, Leslie C. Arends, Ralph Church, Noah M. Mason, Chauncey W. Reed; total, 5.

Not voting—Democrats—Lawrence F. Arnold, Edwin J. Champion, Lewis M. Long, Scott W. Lucas, James McAndrews, Arthur W. Mitchell, Adolph J. Sabath, Leonard W. Schuetz; total, 8. Republicans—Everett M. Dirksen.

TWILIGHT GOLF BRINGS TRAGEDY TO TWO PARENTS

A round of twilight golf brought tragedy last evening to Mr. and Mrs. Walter V. Vaurio of 223 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park. The Vaurios at the time were playing on the Maywood golf course in Hillside with their son, Philip, 4 years old, an excited spectator.

On the tenth green Vaurio sliced his ball 75 yards and it fell in a patch of rough bordering a deep stone quarry. A roadway and a fence separate the quarry and the fairway.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaurio moved toward the quarry to look for the ball. Philip ran ahead, eager to help. He crossed the road and approached the fence. Suddenly the Vaurios saw him disappear and they ran screaming to where he had been standing a moment before. It was the ledge of the quarry. Workers found the boy a few minutes later at the bottom, 125 feet down. He was dead.

Over $250,000.00 in advertising already run and scheduled in this one section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune . . . circulation now over 1,100,000

EACH new editorial development in the Chicago Sunday Tribune in the past has intensified reader interest and brought greater results for advertisers. Launched in rotogravure on April 18, 1937, the Coloroto Graphic has eclipsed former records . . . is the fastest growing newspaper section in the country.

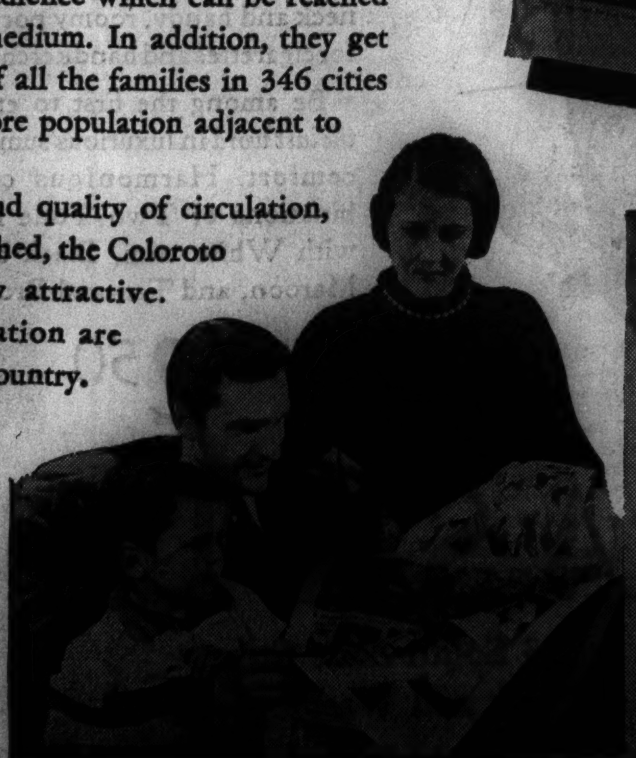
Now through its test-year period, the Coloroto Graphic is a proved success. Its fresh editorial technique, combining dramatic incident and pictorial punch, has clicked with readers. Contents are factual, presented in fast-moving, concise text and illustrated in rich color. The interrupting layout and variety of subject matter produce cover-to-cover reading.

The Coloroto Graphic is a vivid demonstration of the basic elements which build high reader interest. It has a positive identity of its own while fitting in as a harmonious, integral part of the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

To this single section can be given considerable credit for the past year's 49,000 increase in Sunday Tribune circulation. Its effectiveness as an advertising medium is witnessed by orders for more than $250,000.00 worth of advertising run and scheduled in this one section of the Sunday Tribune.

Through the Coloroto Graphic, advertisers get majority coverage of all the families in Chicago and suburbs . . . the largest constant audience which can be reached through any advertising medium. In addition, they get 20% or better coverage of all the families in 346 cities and towns of 1,000 or more population adjacent to Chicago.

Measured by volume and quality of circulation, and by cost per reader reached, the Coloroto Graphic is exceptionally attractive. Rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in the country.



PROVED BY THESE LEADING ADVERTISERS

Norge, Westinghouse, General Electric, Cohen Goldman & Co., Procter & Gamble, Lever Bros., American Viscose, Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., and Wilson Bros.—these are some of the prominent national advertisers who have seen in the Coloroto Graphic a new powerful approach to the buying power of the great Chicago market.

One grocery product manufacturer has run 28 advertisments in the Graphic in the past 31 weeks. Another ran 3 color pages last year and has scheduled 7 color pages this year. Another ran 13 ads last year and is following through with 13 more this year.

These instances are typical. With the record mail received from readers, they are satisfying proof of the reader interest and productivity of the Coloroto Graphic.

HORNER FORCES CHILLY TOWARD HARMONY MOVES

Democratic Convention to Be Postponed.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 25.—[Special.]—Peace with the Nash-Kelly organization of Chicago apparently is not now contemplated by Gov. Henry Horner and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, judging by the cool reception they gave reports of harmony moves undertaken by the Cook county Democratic central committee in its convention in Chicago today.

Each of the opposition leaders to the Nash-Kelly machine were asked for comment upon the action.

"I want only to point out," the governor said, "that neither committeemen Martin J. O'Brien nor Peter J. Brady of Chicago, nor any of the dozen country town committeemen aligned with our group attended the meeting."

O'Brien at Horner's Side.

O'Brien, public administrator of Cook county by Horner appointment, and Brady, Chicago city clerk and a Courtney follower, were the only two members of the committee who did not follow Nash-Kelly leadership in the primaries on April 12. O'Brien is vacationing here with Mr. Horner.

Prosecutor Courtney and Judge Jarecki said that they had not been advised fully of the action of the committee and reserved comment until a complete report has been made to them. Courtney may have something to say tomorrow.

The governor will leave here tomorrow night for Springfield to attend to details of the anticipated postponement of the Democratic state convention on Friday. He said tonight, after hours of discussion with Courtney, O'Brien, and Judge Jarecki that the question of postponement still was undecided, but it is known that he has not prepared an address for the convention, nor, it is believed, has a platform been drawn.

Old Committee Called.

There also seems to be some question in the minds of the governor's followers whether a new chairman of the state committee will be chosen Thursday. Word here was that the old, instead of the new committee had been summoned to the meeting in Springfield; in other words, that the call had not included those members elected on April 12.

How this reported mixup came about was not explained. Bruce A. Campbell of Belleville is the retiring chairman. The Horner faction, which hopes to name the new chairman, has not chosen a man, but is talking of four of five, among them Charles V. O'Hern of Peoria.

The governor did some work today on the call for the special legislative session he will convene early next month, with the advice of his followers. He is determined to seek a constitutional convention, and also wants a drivers' license law and authority to receive federal low cost housing grants.

Another subject reported discussed today was the expected candidacy of Courtney for mayor next year.

Bills for Personalty Taxes on Loop Property Mailed

County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer yesterday mailed to 25,000 taxpayers in south town, the taxing district which includes the loop, the first of the 1937 personal property tax bills. The penalty deadline for real and personal property taxes is June 1.

PARTY CHAIRMEN ARE ELECTED IN THREE COUNTIES

Political party chairmen were elected last night in Lake, Du Page, and McHenry counties. The Republican choices were all made harmoniously and unanimously, but the Democratic chairmanship in Lake county provoked a battle.

William M. Marks of Lake Villa was chosen Republican Central committee chairman of Lake county, succeeding Benjamin H. Miller. Dr. Robert R. Bosworth of Highland Park, arbitrator of the Illinois Industrial commission, was reëlected chairman of the county Democratic group after a bitter contest with Jack E. Bairstow of Waukegan.

C. Frank Daley of Woodstock, deputy treasurer of McHenry county, was reëlected Republican chairman of McHenry county, and Coroner Paul A. Isherwood, M.D., of West Chicago, was reëlected Republican chairman of Du Page county. State Representative Joseph Sam Perry of Glen Ellyn was reëlected Democratic chairman of Du Page county.

County Convention Cheers Attacks on Democrats.

adopted such a resolution as a bit of normal routine, but did it enthusiastically.

The Republicans, like the Democrats, also took action favoring the recessing of the state convention and the organization of the new state central committee.

The speeches of Chairman Moore and former Judge Ehler stirred enthusiasm seldom if ever seen in a meeting on the heels of a primary. Moore took up national issues because of the absence of Richard J. Lyons, the nominee for United States senator, who is resting so that he can open his campaign early in May.

Blast Roosevelt Administration.

"We have dispelled the defeatist attitude in the last few years," said the county chairman. "The people are coming out of the Roosevelt ether. The eleven million people who were unemployed when Roosevelt took office have increased to twelve million. The several million who were on relief rolls in 1933 have been multiplied manifold. The national debt has mounted to unprecedented proportions. The American standard of living has been rapidly sinking.

"Labor has been disillusioned by regimentation and interference. American industry and commerce have been intimidated and strangled to a point of stagnation.

"More bureaus, more pay rolls, more waste of public funds has been the theme song of the White House. Now he demands five more billions of our hard earned dollars, not to prime the pump of employment and industry but to prime his fast failing political forces to remain at the political trough.

"I predict that, to save himself from defeat and repudiation he will soon renew his war cry against 'aggressor nations' and ultimately involve us in foreign alliances and perhaps in foreign wars as did his Democratic predecessor who 'kept us out of war' to reëlect himself only to plunge us immediately thereafter into the world's greatest catastrophe.

Chance for Service to Nation.

"Fellow Republicans, this is your great opportunity for service to the nation. The average American is fed up on this New Deal hokum. He is tired of lightning changes and stupid experimentations. Those who are employed are underpaid and in constant fear of losing their jobs. Those who are unemployed see no hope of ever getting employment. Those who are on relief are famished due to mismanagement and corruption.

"The wage earners, the business men, and the investors are all ruined through unjust and confiscatory taxation. American wives and mothers are trembling from Roosevelt's recent threats to 'quarantine infected nations.' All are anxious for the opportunity to vote for Republican congressmen and senators who are violently opposed to America ever becoming entangled in foreign alliances or ever engaging in foreign wars."

Chairman Moore later referred to the Republicans' having had ringside seats during the April primary battle.

"It was a bitter fight," he said, "and the public has learned of all the crookedness and corruption that has prevailed during their administrations. They have convinced the people that there ought to be a complete and thorough house cleaning in every Democratic office in the city, county, and state, and there will be a house cleaning in November."

Gives Party Stirring Slogan.

Near the close of his speech, Moore said something that may become a slogan during the coming campaign.

"We're on our way!" he shouted, and the crowd cheered him deafeningly.

Former Judge Ehler read off his specific charges against County Judge Jarecki in connection with the recent primary as though they were the counts of an indictment. Then he voiced his demand that the present county judge surrender his control of the election machinery of Chicago and some of its suburbs until after the election.

"By his recent conduct," Ehler said, "Judge Jarecki disqualified himself to preside over the election in November. Never before has there been such flagrant violation of election laws by a county judge in the interest of his own candidacy.

"In the name of decency and honesty he should at least take a leave of absence as chief enforcer of the election laws while he is campaigning in his own behalf.

"In the name of fair play, let there be designated an impartial and disinterested judge to conduct the November election."

Ehler declared that Jarecki, to save his own neck in the primary, violated every section of the primary election law and directed his subordinates to do likewise. The Republican candidate listed the following specific charges:

"He [Jarecki] wilfully and illegally permitted to be removed over 100,000 registration cards from the files and thereby disfranchised a like number of citizens who were not permitted to vote.

"Registration files and cards were removed from the County building to private hideouts, where they were concealed and otherwise tampered with.

"He commanded Republican judges and clerks of election to vote Democratic ballots and to cast their votes for him in violation of the law.

"He appointed judges and clerks of election who were not residents of the precincts wherein they served and were otherwise disqualified.

Criminals as Poll Officials.

"Persons of ill repute and with criminal records were appointed by him to serve as judges and clerks of election.

"Posters bearing his name were posted in booths and polling places contrary to law.

"Hundreds of public employés served as judges and clerks of election contrary to the statutes.

"Public funds were expended by him to promote his personal campaign.

"Contrary to his own rulings previously made by him as county judge in numerous elections, to further his own selfish ends, he personally directed all of the judges and clerks of election to take the law into their own hands, ignore valid challenges, and disregard party lines and restrictions."

Neither the Republicans nor the Democrats adopted a county platform. Each authorized the appointment of a committee on resolutions which will be reported at a later meeting. Because of that fact each convention was recessed to meet at the call of its chairman.

WOMEN VOTERS MEET, TALK OF THOSE DAYS BEFORE THE BALLOT

St. Louis, Mo., April 25.—[Special.]—Conversational excursions back to those vigorous and colorful days when votes for women were a novelty today monopolized attention in the city where the National League of Women Voters was born nineteen years ago, as delegates arrived for the thirteenth convention of the organization, opening tomorrow.

Discussing that "American Phenomenon, the Pressure Group," Marguerite M. Wells, president of the league tonight urged her organization to emulate David and do its legislative fighting "with its own pebble and sling shot."

"The aim of the league," she explained, "is to improve the operation of representative government and foster the adequate functioning of government as a whole, and, in contrast with the pressure groups, representing nothing but the interests of good citizenship."

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

M. LE MENDIANT

By CALEB

"BONJOUR, bonjour, Papa Pierre!"

One or two heads turned toward the smiling gentleman who thus voiced his cheery greeting, for the place, surprisingly enough, was our fourth floor Doll Department. It was populated for the moment chiefly by little girls, none of whom faintly resembled a "Papa Pierre."

But the saleslady in charge knew to whom the visitor spoke. Smiling broadly, she opened a glass case and took from it an amazing doll—clearly Papa Pierre—startling in its vivid portrayal of an old French beggar.

"Bonjour, M'sieu," she replied in mock bass voice as she swung Papa Pierre to a bowing position before his morning visitor. "Bonjour—and how does M'sieu find himself this morning? In need of some slight service an old man might render—perhaps in return for a few sous, yes?"

"Papa Pierre, you shameless beggar," the visitor replied. "To be sure your services are desired; you're coming home with me!"

Their cryptic dialogue completed, the saleslady and the patron joined in a hearty laugh. "So you've finally decided to add Papa Pierre to your collection, Mr. P———," she said. "You are wise—he will earn his keep."

Thus has the land of dolls been invaded by adults, for Papa Pierre, the mendicant, was created by an artist in France, specifically as a collection piece. The doll's whole body is made of cloth, skillfully filled and moulded to lifelike contours. His weather-beaten face has twinkling eyes, and is seamed with wrinkles made with heavy threads. No doubt of it—Papa Pierre is a personality, a portrait. He is the creation of a Parisian artist named Ravca, and is only one of many characters in the group.

In the past few years the hobby of collecting character dolls has become increasingly popular. Some of those who regularly visit us have, we are told, two or three hundred in their collection.

It is a fascinating hobby. Prepared with consummate art, the dolls present character studies from nearly all the European nations, many in Asia, Central and South America. They will miss Papa Pierre, but we understand that another member of his profession (with a distinct personality of his own) will replace the old fellow here.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys—How To Get Happy Relief

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

3 JAP COLUMNS PRESS DRIVES TO REACH RAIL LINE

Smash at Chinese Along 50 Mile Front.

SHANGHAI, April 26 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Three Japanese columns advanced today almost within striking distance of the vital Lunghai railway.

A Japanese army spokesman said that Japanese forces were "systematically occupying outlying Chinese positions surrounding Pihsien," twelve miles north of the Lunghai, and that another column to the east had captured Tancheng, eighteen miles from the railroad.

A third column was reported engaged with the Chinese in a furious conflict at Likwoyi, twenty miles north of Suchow. Suchow is the junction point of the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow railways.

Strike Again at Taierchwang.

While these columns were strung out over a fifty mile battle front in the biggest drive of the nine months old undeclared war, a force of avenging Japanese warriors were striking savagely at Taierchwang, where the invaders suffered a smashing defeat April 6.

The column at Pihsien is aiming at Yunho, where the Lunghai line crosses the Grand canal fifty miles east of Suchow. The column at Tancheng is aiming at Sinanchen, just to the east of Yunho.

Should the Japanese succeed in severing the Lunghai at Sinanchen, foreign military experts believe the Chinese might be forced to abandon Taierchwang in a general retreat westward.

U. S. Missionaries Leave.

The Japanese column advancing toward Sinanchen faces the danger of having its communications cut unless it can clean out the area to the west. In anticipation of a possible direct attack on Suchow, the four remaining American missionaries there were evacuated.

On the Tientsin-Pukow front northwest of Nanking, where the Japanese offensive has been stalemated for many weeks, an attempt was made to renew the drive.

Japanese shock troops from Pengpu and Hwaiyuan launched a strong attack against Chinese positions on the north banks of the Hwai and Kwo rivers. After a night of attacks and counterattacks, ending in bayonet charges, the Chinese reported, the Japanese force was wiped out.

One man was shot and killed and two others were wounded last night when a frenzied patron returned to the tavern at 8558 Mackinaw avenue after a trivial dispute and fired half a dozen bullets at random.

Jacob Andrusek, 47 years old, 8547 Mackinaw avenue, was slain. A bullet pierced his abdomen. Those wounded were: Steve Zbur, 48 years old, owner of the tavern, and Michael Stanko, 38, who lives above the tavern. Both were wounded in the abdomen, but Stanko's injury was light because the bullet first struck his belt buckle. Zbur's wound also was minor.

South Chicago police seized Jose Reyna, 35 years old, a Mexican, 8546 Mackinaw avenue, as the gunman. Police said Reyna had been in the tavern a few minutes before the shooting,

U. S. ASKS TOKIO TO REPORT WHY FLYER IS HELD

Elwyn Gibbon.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—[Special.]—Joseph C. Grew, American ambassador in Tokio, has asked the Japanese foreign office why Elwyn Gibbon, 27 year old American aviator, is being held by Japanese authorities, the state department was informed today.

Gibbon was arrested Friday when he arrived at Yokohama on the liner Empress of Asia en route to Vancouver, B. C. Japanese claimed he retracted his first assertion that he served only as a flying instructor with China's air force and admitted he took part in a bombing raid on Japanese forces in China.

However, because of the delicate international relations between Japan and America it was reported Gibbon will not be indicted for violation of the Japanese criminal code. It is expected he will be released in a day or two. Gibbon will be instructed to dictate and sign documents detailing his activities in the Chinese air service.

DROP KIDNAPING CHARGES AGAINST FOUR POLICEMEN

Four Woodlawn policemen charged with kidnaping the white wife of a colored man from New York were freed by Judge Oscar S. Caplan of the Municipal court yesterday when they were arraigned in the city hall. Judge Caplan said that if he had understood the facts and had been informed that the men were policemen, the warants for their arrest would not have been issued.

The policemen freed were Timothy [Little Tim] O'Connor, Emil Sedlak, John Krikava, and Timothy [Big Tim] O'Connor. They had aided in sending back to New York the former Sylvia Lazarus whose marriage to William W. H. Stewart was said to be bigamous. Stewart, who obtained warants for the arrest of the policemen, was taken to New York and booked there yesterday on a charge of bigamy.

Uphold Refusal to Grant Citizenship to Preacher

POSTPONE TRIAL OF FAKE MONEY ORDER PLOTTERS

Charges of forgery and conspiracy against Frankie Parker, former bootlegger, and George [Bugs] Moran, prohibiton gang leader, were continued until May 10 yesterday by Judge John J. Rooney in Felony court. They were among six persons arrested in connection with a plot to cash hundreds of thousands of dollars in counterfeit American Express company money orders.

The state's attorney's office asked for the delay because police are still hunting for the plant where the bogus orders were printed. Attorney Harold Levy, representing Parker, objected to the continuation on the grounds that the good name and reputation of his client were being threatened.

Frank Pusatani, assault to rape, sentenced to 1 to 14 years by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Three officials of Hoagland & Allum company, Inc., defunct La Salle street brokerage house, will be arraigned today before Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court. Two indictments charging embezzlement and conspiracy were returned yesterday by the grand jury.

Previously the defendants' attorneys indicated a postponement would be asked before pleas are entered. Representatives of the state's attorney said that further action against the three would depend on whether they fight the case or plead guilty. A federal investigation also is being conducted by the Securities and Exchange commission.

The three officials, who are held in the county jail in failure of bond, are: George F. Allum, president; Henry A. Engel, secretary treasurer; and Olaf Andrew Larsen, vice president. Yesterday their elaborate office equipment and furniture was sold at auction, bringing $2,000 for the receiver. Losses to investors in the collapse of the company are estimated at $725,000.

TAX JOB STILL TO BE DONE.

The crying need of today is the restoration of conditions which will encourage capital investment freely to be made in enterprise. Standing in the way of that is a system of taxation, adopted in a spirit of vindictiveness against business in 1936. The tax law attained its objectives of punishing business and collecting a large revenue. But in doing so it reduced business to a state of depression.

The money to extend and modernize business comes either from plowing earnings back in a business or from the investment of new capital. Both wells are dry. The surplus earnings tax has prevented corporations from accumulating funds out of their own earnings. And the tax constituted such a limitation upon the management of corporations that the flow of investment funds into them virtually stopped.

Ever since the enactment of the first corporation income tax law government has been a partner in business, but in the past it has been a silent partner. It has taken its cut and let the management decide whether to pay dividends or use earnings to pay debts, for increasing working capital, or for expansion. When the government, under the surplus earnings tax, began to dictate corporate policies, investment stopped. The rate of taxation was burdensome, but it was the intrusion of government into the affairs of corporations which made business men and investors apprehensive.

That it was the nature of the tax rather than the amount of the tax which was causing the trouble has been clearly established. The tax bill which recently passed the senate would have required corporations to pay 90 million dollars more in taxes than the house bill. The treasury department is authority for the figure. Despite the fact that the senate bill would result in larger exactions from corporations, they much preferred it to the house bill, which retained the surplus earnings tax principle.

Since the significant issue was not one of revenue, the change in the rates provided in the bill agreed upon in the conference committee does not accomplish the desired objective. The penalty tax on surplus earnings is an instrument of control over corporations. Capital is not free in this country so long as the government insists upon telling corporations whether they can retain earnings in a business to build up working capital or for improvements. Until capital can be freely employed, private investment will not be made in the volume to insure prosperity. That will only come about if every vestige of the vicious tax is stricken out.

CITY PLAN LEGISLATION.

The governor is asked to include in his call for a special session the city manager plan for Illinois. The request is supported by civic and business organizations throughout the state, indicating an extent of interest in the plan which it would seem fully justifies the governor and legislature in giving attention to the subject at this time. The legislation proposed, it should be noted, would not impose the city manager plan on any community. It would simply permit cities to adopt the plan by popular referendum.

We think this permission should be granted. Opinions differ as to the merits and limitations of the plan, but its adoption should not be foreclosed by law. The communities should be authorized to adopt the plan if they wish.

We favor permissive enabling legislation not only as a community right but also because the discussion of the plan, entirely apart from its adoption or rejection by communities, will bring about a highly desirable consideration of municipal government and municipal politics. Neither is satisfactory. Both need more definite and critical attention from citizens.

Without presuming to say whether the request is compatible with the governor's plans for the special session, we think the subject deserves his favorable consideration.

THE HENNEPIN PARKWAY.

Thanks to the wise decision to stop throwing federal money away on the maintenance of that obsolete waterway, the Illinois and Mississippi canal, known as the Hennepin, the way is open for another important public improvement which will add substantially to the recreational facilities of the state and the midwest. The project contemplates the development of a parkway averaging 300 feet in width from the Mississippi near Rock Island on the route of the old canal to Hennepin in Bureau county, to be continued east on the banks of the Illinois river, the Des Plaines, and the old Illinois and Michigan canal, the bed of the last to be utilized as a depressed boulevard from Willow Springs to Western, Damen, or Ashland avenue.

Congress will be asked to turn over to the state for recreational purposes the 75 mile right of way of the abandoned waterway. The public interest supporting this project is not confined to Illinois. Chicago, of course, will benefit, and northern Illinois, but motorists of the nation will have a new resource. The region through which this highway will be carried is one of great charm and beauty. It has had too little appreciation. People of the east and mountain west think of Illinois as a region of monotonous prairies, but northern Illinois is a region of fine valleys and rivers, of hills and heights clad with fine groves. Many traveled Americans know the beauty of such a region in England and the eastern states of America and they will discover by this route that northern Illinois possesses the same qualities.

We trust this parkway will be added to the nation's resources of beauty and healthful recreation.

LA FOLLETTE'S GPU.

Senator Robert La Follette of Wisconsin wants $60,000 to continue the work of his subcommittee of the senate committee on education and labor. This inquisitorial body is known as the civil liberties committee, which is fraud number one. Under such a name it is supposed to be an impartial defender of the constitutional rights of American citizenship. It is an official partisan of John Lewis and the C. I. O.

It got under way in 1936. The senate resolution giving it authority and an appropriation anticipated the attack upon industries released by Lewis immediately after the election. La Follette was ready when Lewis was. The C. I. O., with its communists, was to break into the plants and hold them. La Follette was to attack the corporation managements. The part the communists took has been denounced by Gov. Murphy of Michigan and Homer Martin, C. I. O. head of the automobile workers, and admitted by Browder and Hathaway of the communist central committee.

While La Follette was endeavoring to prove that motors and steel were depriving the workers of the rights of free speech and free assembly the C. I. O. had physical possession of many of the plants and had the protection of the National Guard of three states, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Michigan, where the fight was hottest and where civil liberties were almost completely lost. Lewis stopped the mails. He stopped court processes. He drove local law officials off the scene. He barricaded railroad tracks and interfered with interstate commerce.

In some plants the workers who had not joined the C. I. O. were besieged. Where the C. I. O. was in lawless possession of property the owners were required to furnish heat, light, and water, and the delivery of supplies was forced with state troops guarding the delivery line. Where the C. I. O. was besieging a plant mails could not be delivered. The postoffice department permitted mail trucks to be turned back and refused to accept parcel post packages at local delivery stations. Local authorities could not protect supplies going in and they could not protect men coming out.

This was the status of civil liberties and property rights while La Follette used his civil liberties committee as a partisan organization to hear only such evidence as would indicate that employers had been guilty of hiring spies and keeping the C. I. O. under espionage. Big Steel and General Motors were licked from the start, but an agreement did not protect Motors from a recurrence of disturbances, strikes and riots which made Murphy of Michigan say that the communists were producing a state of anarchy and encouraged Hathaway of the communist central committee to say that Homer Martin would find himself beyond his heft if he tried to get the comrades out of the Automobile Workers' union.

The federal government having given Lewis the assistance of state troops under three New Deal governors, the coöperation of the postoffice, the department of labor, and the tacit aid of the attorney general's office, then threw the partisan labor relations board into the scales, trying to pay off the debt to Lewis. La Follette also has been trying to pay off the debt. One item in it was a half million dollar campaign fund contribution which was being made about the time La Follette was putting his committee resolution through the senate. The enterprises were timed well together and in preview of what was to happen.

La Follette's committee is an organization to do congressional strongarm work for Lewis' political scheme of control of both government and industry. If opposition to them stiffens they'll be in a third party with Browder of the communists joining them. Senator Bridges, who is opposing the $60,000 appropriation to extend La Follette's committee, has evidence indicating that the La Follette committee was born at a meeting of communist organizers and sympathizers in Washington in February, 1936, shortly before the resolution was introduced in the senate.

"Civil liberties" is a mask worn by the La Follette investigators to conceal a grossly unjust attack upon the rights of citizens. It defends no constitutional rights. It subverts them. It already has spent $90,000 in this boring in. The senate ought to stop it in its tracks.

WARNING TO CONNOISSEURS.

[Detroit Free-Press.]

Americans have so frequently been taken in by the hoary and malodorous "Spanish prisoner" trick that it is not unlikely that some of them have already been taken in by another "trick" coming out of Spain.

An American correspondent sends word from Paris that the police of the whole continent have been trying to run down forgeries of paintings and other art objects supposed to have come out of the Spanish churches looted in the civil war that is still going on there.

The French capital is said to be the center of this trafic in fake ecclesiastical art.

Americans in Peking in 1900, when the imperial palaces were to some extent looted in the Boxer uprising, were able to pick up genuine "bargains" from Chinese and foreign soldiers.

And it is not denied that some of the Spanish art that is being offered for sale in Europe today is authentic.

The point which the correspondent makes is that much of it is the work of forgers and copyists and never saw the inside of a church in Spain or anywhere else.

ORCHARDS IN SPRING.

(A memory.)

Now, mile on mile, the orchards slope away—
Soft seas of dreaming pink and white that shine
Like jewels set against green banks by day;
By night a fairy and translucent line.
What harbingers of plenty are these fleet
Fair blossoms! What largesse of purple plum,
Of pink-gold peach, red cherry, bitter-sweet,
And ruddy apple from this bloom shall come!
Here man and nature have in union tended
A common task. Man offers all his skill
To be with nature's rain and sunlight blended;
And spring holds not another scene more gracious
Than orchards blooming fragrant, bright, and

"Mr. J——— K——— brought a curious skull to this office Tuesday morning which has been exciting the wonder of those who have seen it. The skull was found on his place south of the house in the pasture by Mrs. K——— when she went after the cows a week ago, and since then it remained about the house until questions began to be raised about it, and Mr. K——— set out to learn what he could of its history.

"The skull is about four or five inches long with a depth of about three inches, and, apparently belonged to some animal that either crawled or walked. It contains the brain cavity and the upper part of the skull with the lower jaw evidently gone. At the sides are two curiously shaped horns which curve and point forward with sharp points. Apparently the ears, if any, were immediately back of these horns. But a very odd thing about the whole object is the absence of any eye sockets, unless they were where the nose ought to have been."

THE VALUE OF INSULIN IN UNDERNUTRITION.

EXTREME thinness is sometimes hereditary and a tall, lean figure may be passed on from generation to generation. Although, like Cassius, these men and women may possess a "hungry look," yet many are large eaters. What becomes of the nourishment? It apparently is not laid down as fat, neither is it held in the liver or other structures.

As a rule slenderness has little to do with general health, as most of these victims are energetic, carrying on vocations that cover a wide range of commercial and professional pursuits. They are not prone particularly to contract pneumonia or other respiratory diseases. In fact, life insurance statistics show that some advantage accrues to the underweight as contrasted with the overweight as far as longevity is concerned.

We do not understand all of the principles governing metabolism—the breaking down of foods and the building of tissues therefrom. We do know, however, that fat people tend to retain and store a small percentage of each meal. Even on a reducing diet poundage may be difficult to displace. Those who are spare, on the other hand, appear to be unable to manufacture fat, although the ingredients are supplied in generous quantities; neither are they able to build up substantial reserves of glycogen [body starch]. Some step in the physical process seemingly is missing. The result is that materials which should be conserved by the system, since they are not in proper form, are therefore excreted. In consequence no gain in weight occurs.

Occasionally, for cosmetic or other reasons, one of these individuals will wish to become heavier. This can be accomplished sometimes by drinking milk between meals—a pint at 10 o'clock in the morning and a like amount in midafternoon.

A few years ago the suggestion was made that insulin would accelerate the digestion of starches and aid in increasing avoirdupois. Boltner reports on 54 women and 46 men, most of whom were chronic lightweights. A few were fatigued constantly, nervous, lacking in energy, and some presented digestive symptoms. No sugar was found in the urine. In other words, none had diabetes.

In order to change the metabolism and to raise the storage of glycogen, ten units of insulin were injected three times daily before meals. Without exception, appetite was increased and the gains averaged three pounds per week. One patient jumped nine pounds in seven days. There was a marked deposit of fat with no retention of water. Seventeen maintained the extra flesh after one year, six lost it within the year, and three within a few months; four held the weight one year and then dropped it gradually; ten continued to pick up ounces after stopping the injections. The behavior of these patients further indicates the many variable forces which have to do with nutrition.

Apparently we have in insulin a valuable remedy for those who, as an accompaniment of a thin habit, have nothing organically wrong, but suffer nevertheless from a finicky appetite, weakness, and excessive nervousness. While some of the patients cited failed to keep the gains, the majority did so with an enhanced sense of well being. We can look upon this plan as hopeful in those cases of malnutrition which food alone is not able to influence.

BETTER GET LEAFLET.

1. Does wearing a hat cause falling hair?
2. Does staying in the sun in the summer without a hat cause any trouble?
3. Does oil harm the hair?
4. What causes dandruff?
5. What can be done to cure it?

REPLY.

1. Some physicians believe that a tight fitting hat, which interferes with circulation, favors the loss of hair.
2. A hotbox in the head—sunstroke—is a possibility.
3. If the hair is very dry, oil treatments are beneficial.
4. Cause unknown; probably deficient circulation.
5. We have a leaflet with a number of suggestions. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for a copy.

SKILLED EFFORTS NEEDED.

L. O. writes: How is sinus trouble contracted? Is it curable after one has had it for six years?

REPLY.

The mucous membrane of the air passages, through repeated colds, may become chronically inflamed. This usually extends into the sinuses. Cure is possible if you are in skilled hands and if you will be faithful to treatment.

DIET FOR UNDERWEIGHT.

R. T. writes: Do you have a diet for underweight persons?

REPLY.

Yes. Send a stamped, addressed envelope. Diet, of course, is only one factor in underweight.

SIGNING OF DEED.

Peoria, Ill., April 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Where property is in the wife's name in Illinois should the wife sign the deed above the husband's name?

2. If the property is in the wife's name and the husband signed the deed above the wife's name, would it be illegal?

3. If a husband and wife wish to deed their property to their children and they make out a deed and hold it to be put on record after their death, would this be legal? L. R. L.

1. Both parties should sign. Where the wife is the owner and the husband is merely signing to bar dower, we would say in general, that the wife's name should come first, but this is merely a matter of preference rather than of necessity.

2. Probably not, but we cannot advise to advantage without having the deed before us.

3. No, since as we understand your facts, there would be no valid delivery of the deed during the lifetime of the grantors. In general, we advise against relying on an unrecorded deed as a substitute for a will.

GETTING NOWHERE FAST.

Dade City, Fla., April 22.—While basking in the sunshine of Florida I have been thinking seriously of our underprivileged lower third.

We gush, sob, weep, croon, and shed crocodile tears, issue bedside chats, rabble-rouse, but do nothing except kill or bury a few pigs, ably assisted by the C. I. O. with a sitdown strike. The New Dealers started out five years ago with ten million unemployed and today we have, according to their figures, some fifteen million unemployed. That, I would say, is progress toward the paternalistic state.

In filling up the hole of the depression through the "make-work policy" we dug a larger hole, which we call a recession. What will we call the next hole we dig to fill up the recession hole? The New Dealers will have a name or excuse for it.

Our President says the "economic royalists" caused it, but the facts develop that our "labor oligarchy" ably seconded the plan. There is too much monkeying with our economic machine—too much "I planned it that way." Let business and labor do their own planning. More monkeying and we shall all go on relief; then who is going to furnish the where-withal to support those on relief?

Our problem is to get goods from producer to consumer. If we locate the desire, that is the spot to work on to convert the desire into demand by creating purchasing power. Destroying production will never fill an empty stomach.

Citrus fruit in our southland is rotting on the ground because the various costs are too high to enable growers to transport it. Railroads are going into bankruptcy for lack of business. Yet the New Dealer has never attempted to solve that problem. He takes the shortest cut—destroys through restrictions and puts millions of people on relief.

W. H. WHIGAM.

WHERE'S OUR CIVIC PRIDE?

Chicago, April 23.—Observations made in one hour in 5300 block S. Cornell avenue:

Dog scratching up large patches of lawn while owner looks on and is highly insulted when objection is made.

Delivery boys on bicycles detouring over freshly made lawns.

Boys evidently thinking lawn fences were made to jump over.

THE DISTRESSED CITIES.

Chicago, April 20.—With inflation again on the way, we can expect the $15 per week city folks to "take it on the chin," as they seem to be forgotten in congress. Where is all the poverty today? In the cities, not on the farm. Why? Because their pay does not move up with the cost of living. Result: Cessation of buying power and depression. Congress better wake up and give the city people a New Deal or else "Republican in the Fall" will be the theme song.

FIVE YEARS IN WINNEMAC PARK.

Chicago, April 25.—Isn't it about time for good citizens to demand that the WPA grading project in Winnemac park be closed up? For five years 300 or more men have toiled there almost continuously, doing nothing but move dirt from one spot to another, because there is nothing else for them to do. They scrape it up, trundle it, six shovelfuls at a time, for a block or two and heap it into mounds ten feet high. Later they spread this out somewhere else. This they have done, over and over and over again, since 1935, and if public opinion does not interfere they will be doing it for another three years.

In the center of the park there used to stand a grove of trees, offering practically the only shade in the whole forty acres. This was fenced in for a little children's playground. Needing more dirt to dig up, this spot was selected and the trees cut down a few at a time until they are all gone. In their place a deep pit was dug and the dirt lugged to distant parts. Later more dirt was hauled in to fill up the pit. Who but a politician would care to assume responsibility for such irrational management? It helps to explain why the national debt grows bigger every minute of time.

These WPA workers have to live, of course, but why not have them clean up the filthy streets or do something honestly useful? H. H. SLAWSON.

TOTTERING CAPITALISM.

Chicago, April 22.—The Tribune editorial, "The Abuse of Asylum," is based on a false assumption and thus is a good example of what is technically known in logic as "the fallacy of equivocation," which is often used to win an argument which has no truth to support it.

The false assumption was that capitalism is the same thing as Americanism. Modern capitalism was born several centuries before the birth of Americanism. Capitalism is that system of economics which is established in nearly every country in the world. How, then, can capitalism be the same thing as Americanism? Americanism is predominantly the product of political and social concepts; capitalism is predominantly the product of economic concepts, many of which are undoubtedly false and thoroughly unjust. The old cutthroat capitalism will soon destroy every vestige of true Americanism, unless it is reformed, just as President Roosevelt has said over and over again. ERNEST BRADSHAW.

FOR THE CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, April 17.—May we take this method of thanking one of your employés for a great service he did for us? On Thursday, April 14, at about 4:15 a. m., a severe fire broke out on our rear porches and destroyed the back portion of our two-flat building located at 6753 South Honore street. The helper on your truck was making his early delivery at a store located at 6759 South Honore street and he discovered the fire, rushed to the front of our home, broke a window, injuring his hand, and warned us to get out.

Two families live in this building, and as we were all asleep at the time we were saved from injury and perhaps death because of the great kindness of this young man. We were so excited at the time that we did not thank him or even learn his name, but know your records can identify him. Will you please convey to him our deepest thanks and gratitude? In view of our loss we are unable to reward him financially but want The Tribune company and the young man to know that we appreciate his kindness.

KNEEL-DOWN; NOT SIT-DOWN.

Chicago, April 25.—Why not move to abolish the sit-down strike and replace it with the kneel-down strike? I believe more would be accomplished.

Instead of unfurling the banners of hatred toward God the Creator, we need to get down on our knees and invoke God to lead us out of the sea of ungodliness in which we are now floundering.

EXAMINE TITLES TO BLOCK FLAWS IN AIRPORT DEALS

Hope to Forestall Any New Troubles.

Determined to anticipate every possible contingency and to make certain that no future complications threaten the Chicago airport enlargement program, the city council yesterday asked the Chicago Title and Trust company to study titles to several important parcels of land that must be purchased for the purpose.

A preliminary report on title findings will be made today to Leonard Grossman, acting corporation counsel. If it is shown that the titles are clear the expansion of the air port can proceed rapidly. If, on the other hand, titles are clouded or the possibilities of purchase or condemnation of the land are complicated by other factors, these matters can be dealt with in time.

Need Titles for Trade.

"The expansion depends upon our shifting the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks off the airport and to a new right of way," said Grossman. "Our agreement with the railroad demands that the new land we are to trade them for their strip across the flying field have a clear title."

Several aldermen said they have been told there is a possibility that a number of property owners hold reversionary rights to pieces the city wants to acquire for the C. & W. I. deal. The city has already engaged in a dispute with Raymond E. Herman over the price of 2.78 acres of land to which the latter holds reversionary rights, and if other owners hold similar rights it will be well to discover these as soon as possible.

"I can't say that we will have other situations like Herman's or that we will not," Grossman asserted last evening. "I don't know."

Council Waits on Search.

Meanwhile the council yesterday postponed for the second time the passage of the ordinance that was to provide machinery for the clearance of the flying field. The measure was held in abeyance pending the findings in connection with the title searches.

The city's dispute with Herman is considered virtually settled since he has agreed to have Federal Judge Evan A. Evans, who has been ill three weeks, fix a fair price for his land, and the city has agreed to pay whatever the judge decides is proper.

MALONE LOSES LAST APPEAL TO ESCAPE PRISON

William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois tax commission, lost his fight to escape serving a two year federal prison sentence for evasion of income taxes yesterday when the United States Supreme court refused to review a decision of the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals which upheld Malone's conviction.

The indictment against Malone was returned by a special federal grand jury in 1933 while he and his wife were traveling in Europe. He remained there until December, 1936, then returned to face trial. He was sentenced by Judge William H. Holly in federal District court last July 29.

Attorney John Weaver, who represented Malone at his trial, declared yesterday that the defense probably will take no further action. Malone, in that case, would be taken to prison shortly. He is at liberty on an appeal bond of $25,000.

STATE APPEALS GAS RATE BOOST TO HIGH COURT

The Illinois commerce commission filed notice in Circuit court yesterday that it would appeal an order under which the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company increased household gas rates in Chicago last February. Circuit Judge Stanley Klarkowski on Feb. 4 issued an injunction restraining the commission from interfering with the rate increase. The higher rates boost the company's revenues by an estimated 3 million dollars annually.

Harry R. Booth, commission counsel, said the appeal will be taken directly to the Illinois Supreme court. It is expected the case will be argued at the October term.

Miss Maxine Gray, 22 years old, singer appearing here with a dance orchestra, yesterday filed suit in Superior court for $100,000 for injuries received Feb. 22 when the Wabash railroad train on which she was a passenger collided with a truck in Worth and was derailed.

Miss Gray was among several passengers who were injured. Her bill accuses the railroad of failing to erect a warning sign at the grade crossing as ordered by the Illinois commerce commission.

SUED FOR SELLING LIQUOR TO DRIVER IN AUTO FATALITY

Suit for $25,000 under the dram shop act was filed yesterday in the Du Page Circuit court at Wheaton by Ralph W. Le Beau, of 127 South Summit street, Villa Park, against Arno Wilde, tavern proprietor, and Margaret Gray Morton, owner of the tavern property at 338 Central boulevard, in the suburb. Le Beau is the father of Edward Le Beau, 12 years old, who was fatally injured March 20 when he was struck by the automobile of Willian Rude, 18 years old, of 523 South Summit street, Villa Park.

Le Beau's suit charges that at the time of the accident Rude was intoxicated, having purchased liquor at Wilde's tavern. Wilde was arrested soon after the accident and was charged with selling liquor to a minor. He is at liberty in $5,000 bonds.

Fire in Apartment Hotel Drives 100 from Rooms

More than 100 persons were driven from their apartments early today by a fire which started in the basement of the four story Gladys apartment hotel, 4640-42 Drexel boulevard. One man, affected by smoke, was helped out of a third floor apartment. His name was not learned. No one was injured. The fire started from unknown causes and shot up an air shaft to the third floor, according to First Deputy Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney. Marshal William Brown of the Fourth division, first on the scene, sounded a 2-11 alarm and the flames were soon brought under control.

ORGANIZE CLUBS TO GIVE YOUTHS FLYING LESSONS

C. Y. O. Promotes National Aviation Movement.

The Catholic Youth Organization has joined with other civic, philanthropic and patriotic groups, national in character, to promote establishment of a nation-wide flying club system. This was announced here yesterday by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, founder and director of the C. Y. O.

At a meeting of minister and pastors of all faiths at the loop Y. M. C. A. auditorium yesterday, Bishop Sheil outlined objectives of the flying club organizers, and added that two of the flying clubs are now being organized among C. Y. O. youths in Chicago. Members of these two clubs will begin flight training this summer.

Nonprofit Organizations.

All the flying clubs are to be nonprofit corporations, directed and supervised by a national advisory council. All flying instruction will be given under the strictest supervision.

"We of the C. Y. O. regard the formation of these clubs as a wonderful opportunity for vocational guidance and for the protection of American youth that naturally turns to flying to satisfy the lust for clean sport and adventure," said Bishop Sheil.

Details of the program, said the bishop, have been worked out during the two years the project has been under consideration. Every aviation organization, including the federal bureau of air commerce, has approved it. It is hoped that between 20,000 and 40,000 young men and perhaps young women in the late teen ages and early twenties will be able to receive training through the clubs.

35 in Each Club.

The Chicago C. Y. O. clubs will be primarily for underprivileged youths whose training will be assured by benevolent sponsors. Their organization is in the hands of Walter Clinnin, one of the plan's originators. Thirty-five boys in each of the two clubs being formed will get instruction at the Lewis Holy Name School of Aeronautics at Lockport, Ill.

Each club will be equipped with two airplanes and each member will be assured of 35 hours of actual flying time during the first year. Instruction in the air and on the ground will be in the hands of John Wilson, dean of the Lewis school.

NOYES RETIRES AS HEAD OF A. P. AFTER 38 YEARS

New York, April 25.—(AP)—Frank B. Noyes said farewell today to the Associated Press after 38 years as its president. The only survivor of the band of three who formed the Associated Press, he stood before his colleagues to ask that they dedicate themselves anew—"just as we dedicated ourselves nearly fifty years ago"—to the principle of a news stream controled by the newspapers alone.

"I pray," he said, "that the time may never come when any individual can dictate to the newspapers of the United States the nature of the reports that they give."

In introducing him, Paul Bellamy, editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, pledged the membership again "to the cause of truth in the news."

His successor will be selected by the board of directors. He will continue his presidency of the Washington Star and also his membership of the Associated Press board.

TELEGRAMS TELL OF RISING REVOLT AGAINST AAA REIN

Farmers Wire for Places at Protest Meeting.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Macomb, Ill., April 25.—[Special.]—Revolt is spreading among farmers in this area against the AAA and centralized government crop control. They will give expression to their revolt Wednesday night at a district meeting of their newly formed Corn Belt Liberty league in the Macomb armory. Plans are being developed by league officials here today to entertain the farmers who have been invited to the meeting from seventeen Illinois counties.

Letters and telegrams received by Tilden Burg, a farmer of near Sciota and president of the league, indicate that farmers from all sections of the central west will attend the meeting Wednesday night. Burg was placed at the head of the league when it was organized a week ago today.

Compared With Communism.

John E. Waters of Madison, Wis., a lecturer and authority on communism, will be the chief speaker at the meeting, it was announced today by Burg, who said Waters had been invited to give first hand information on what farmers may expect under a centralized farming plan run from Washington.

From 1929 to 1933, Waters was employed by soviet Russia as an instructor in power farming. Burg said Waters would compare Russia's controled system of farming with the AAA program authorized by the new farm law, bringing out the similarities.

"This movement against government crop control has been talked about for several years among local farmers, but our opposition came to a head recently when we received our corn acreage allotments," said Burg, who is a member of the McDonough county farm bureau.

Surprised by Turn-Out.

"I knew many of our farmers were against the control plan, but I am surprised that the idea has spread so rapidly. Last Monday night we set out to hold a small meeting to talk things over. We accepted only about 200 or 300 farmers at our meeting. At least 1,500 gathered in the courthouse and on the lawn."

League officials explained that the movement is not sponsored by any political organization, or any of the general farm organizations. The Corn Belt Liberty league is organized to be the sole sponsor.

"It is a spontaneous movement that has grown up among farmers who sincerely believe we should do something about the attempt that is being made to put farmers under control of the government," added Burg.

SAMUEL INSULL HOME AFTER TEN MONTHS ABROAD

Samuel Insull returned to Chicago yesterday from a ten months' trip abroad. He and Mrs. Insull spent most of this time in London, Paris, and Rome, whence the return voyage was made economically on an eighty passenger American mail steamer.

"You know, this is my longest absence from this country since I arrived here as an immigrant from England in 1892," Mr. Insull said, cheerfully overlooking his eleven months' of self-enforced exile in 1933 and 1934 after the collapse of his utilities empire.

As meticulously dressed as ever, with high stiff collar and shirt cuffs, Insull appeared to be in better health than before his departure last July 1. He celebrated his 78th birthday in Paris last Nov. 11. The Insulls again are living in a small apartment in the Seneca hotel.

JUDGE LIFTS BAN ON PICKETING OF 200 MILK STORES

Judge James F. Fardy yesterday dissolved an injunction that for three years has prevented picketing by the Milk Wagon Drivers of Chicago, local No. 753, of 200 retail stores served by the Meadowmoor Dairy company. The original injunction banned violence and picketing. Judge Fardy yesterday struck from the injunction the restraint on picketing, but made final the ban on violence. Attorney David Riskind, for the union, said he believes the decision is the first of its kind in Illinois, since it involved what is called secondary picketing, or demonstrations at business houses not directly involved in the strike. The trouble between the union and the dairy arose over the company's use of nonunion labor.

SUIT TO COLLECT SWEITZER BOND SET FOR MAY 23

Cook county's suit to collect $533,817 from the United States Fidelity and Guaranty corporation, which furnished the bond for the late Robert M. Sweitzer during the twenty-four years he served as Cook county clerk, will go to trial May 23. The date was set yesterday by Judge Walter J. LaBuy after Assistant State's Attorney Jacob Shamberg asked a delay. The amount asked represents money withheld from the county by Sweitzer while he was clerk, the suit states. Sweitzer died early this month.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or upset stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Bell-ans is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

PENNSYLVANIA IS DICTATOR RULED, SAYS MARGIOTTI

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., April 25.—[Special.]—Summing up administration scandals in a state-wide radio address, Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti tonight declared that Pennsylvania under the present régime was ruled by "a dictatorship as ruthless as ever despoiled any foreign nation."

The attorney general struck at both the Democratic factions which are tearing into each other for control of the party at the primaries—one wing headed by Gov. George H. Earle and the other by Senator Joseph F. Guffey.

Harks Back to Huge Loans.

Margiotti's attack on the administration, in which he is an important figure, was based on revelations that Gov. Earle borrowed sums totaling $26,500 from Matthew H. McCloskey, Philadelphia Democratic leader who later received 10 million dollars worth of public works contracts, and the coercion of WPA workers under the direction of Senator Guffey.

Earle, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for senator, is opposed by Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia. Wilson has the backing of Guffey and John L. Lewis, czar of the C. I. O. Earle's running mate for governor is Charles Alvin Jones, a Pittsburgh lawyer. His opponent on the Guffey-Lewis slate is Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kenndy, secretary-treasurer of the C. I. O. controled United Mine Workers of America.

Dubs Contractor Real Boss.

In his address tonight Margiotti referred to McCloskey as the "political satchel man and chief wielder of the political mace." He also lit into David Lawrence, state Democratic chairman, who is supporting Earle. Lawrence had been allowed to take over many of the powers of the governor, he charged. Then he lashed out at the state's Democratic senator.

"Joe Guffey has been a part of this vicious system of boss rule," asserted Margiotti. "Now he has been dealt out by Lawrence and McCloskey. So he has his own slate in the field and is trying to nominate his candidates by clubbing the federal WPA pay rollers."

The Democratic primary battle continued to rage on all fronts. Mayor Wilson, campaigning in western Pennsylvania, sent a telegram to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes demanding that construction jobs on contracts awarded to McCloskey be suspended.

Probe Guffey's Acts.

At the same time Wilson's mentor, Senator Guffey, who controls a mighty political machine of WPA administrative personnel and other federal patronage jobs in the state, was the principal figure in an investigation centering at Philadelphia.

Field agents for the WPA were examining witnesses on charges that the senator's organization was threatening the dismissal of WPA employés who did not support the Guffey-C. I. O. ticket.

Here in the state capital Margiotti launched a similar investigation into reports that the Earle crowd was "macing" state employés for money and doorbell ringing. The Earle faction will throw the weight of 27,000 state pay rollers against Guffey's federal machine at the polls on May 17.

Esther Ralston as she appeared yesterday in Los Angeles court.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 25.—[Special.]—Depicting her husband as cruel and intemperate, Esther Ralston, the screen actress, today won a divorce from Wilburt Morgan, film player, in Superior Judge Samuel Blake's court. Known professionally as Will Morgan, the actor was pictured by Miss Ralston as neglecting his business. "I was afraid of him most of the time," Miss Ralston testified. "And he had me worried continually."

The couple were married June 5, 1935, and parted March 19, according to the complaint. Miss Ralston in 1934 divorced George W. Frey.

DEMAND OUSTER OF SCHOOL HEAD AT MENDON, ILL.

Mendon, Ill., April 25.—(AP)—Aroused townsfolk tonight clamored for the resignation of School Superintendent Charles S. Bilderback after spokesmen for 109 striking students had announced settlement of their dispute with the school board.

When James Miller of the student committee read terms of the settlement to a crowd of 300 he was greeted by a storm of objections. Petitions were circulated calling for Bilderback's resignation. Miller then announced the students would not show up for classes tomorrow.

The agreement provided for restriction of Bilderback's authority; an election to select a board member or some other citizen to serve as clerk for the board instead of Bilderback and to relieve him of his functions as supplies purchasing agent, and a promise to reconsider the cases of two teachers to whom the board had not offered contracts for next year.

MUST FIGHT FOR OUR DEMOCRACY, EDUCATOR FINDS

All Weapons Ethical, Says Ohio U. Head.

Urbana, Ill., April 25.—[Special.]—Any country that will not fight for the preservation of its democracy will not endure, President Herman G. James of Ohio university, Athens, O., told the conference on the problems of higher education here tonight.

Addressing several hundred state educational leaders in the University of Illinois auditorium, President James discussed the obligations of state universities in the battle against the philosophy of the totalitarian states, including Fascism, Nazíism and Communism.

"The state university is one of the most important agencies of the state and of the nation," he said. "As such it must assume the obligation to fight for democracy. It should fight for the preservation of democracy by appeal to the emotions through propaganda, as well as with all other weapons."

President James said that belief in democracy must be felt not only in the mind, but in the heart as well.

"It is of the essence of belief or faith that much more than intellectual agreement is involved," he said.

Dr. Arthur C. Willard, president of the University of Illinois, warned the conference that if governmental subsidies are to be handed over to educational institutions, such action must be done without interference with their "unique position of freedom."

RITZ INSISTS HIS FAMED FATHER WAS NOT RITZY

Charles Ritz, son of Cesar Ritz of Ritz hotels fame, here from Paris on a good will tour, is a little hurt that his father's contribution to American slang, the word "ritzy," should mean what it means.

"As I understand it, Americans mean 'high hat' by the word," he said in his suite in the Blackstone hotel last night. "Although my father died in 1918, and never heard of it, I am sure he would say that his service meant comfort and luxury, but never anything overdone. 'Ritzy' implies obtrusive splash, whereas my father preferred natural good taste."

Although his father had 54 fancy waistcoats and always changed his clothes three times a day, he began life as a thirteenth child and a poor boy. A friend of the late King Edward VII. when he was prince of Wales, Mr. Ritz in 1898 opened the first hotel in France with a bath to every room because his royal friend had complained about the difficulties of bathing in Paris. In the 70s the prince, stopping at the old Bristol, always required the bath. This meant that a horse drawn truck dragged a tin tub and water through the streets to the hotel.

ELDERLY COUPLE EVICTED; CAN'T PAY HOLC NOTE

Unable to make the payments on their mortgage, a woman of 72 and her husband, a year older, were moved out upon the sidewalk yesterday on an order which they said was obtained by the Home Owners Loan corporation.

The evicted couple are August and Anna Szypelbaum, whose home is an old brick bungalow at 2234 Wayne avenue. They said eight men and a bailif forced them out and then moved their furniture to the sidewalk. Neighbors gave the couple shelter for the night.

A son, Alex, said the HOLC took over the $1,400 mortgage three years ago. They fell behind in their $12.50 monthly payments, he said, because they are on relief. But he said they received no warning that they were to be evicted.

TIGER RUNS WILD; MIDGET IN CIRCUS SMACKS IT DOWN

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—A tigress ran wild at the matinée of Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus in Madison Square Garden today. A midget finally smacked her on the nose and she was captured after several circus employés had been injured.

The 200 pound animal, Lady, escaped when Franz Wanka, menagerie boss, dropped her leash as she was being led from the arena after she had paraded in the opening procession. The Bengal tigress bounded down a long runway, scaring camels and horses. Several horses threw and kicked their grooms.

Turned back in the passage by the shouts of attendants, Lady ran under a tier of seats, out of sight of the audience. She started toward the arena, but was diverted in the direction of a group of clowns made up as Snow White's Seven Dwarfs. One of the clowns, 3 feet high, struck the tigress with a stick. She backed into a corner, scared and snarling, and at that moment an animal trainer seized her leash.

C.I.O. COLLECTORS FORCE SHUTDOWN OF CASE PLANT

Rockford, Ill., April 25.—[Special.]—The J. I. Case company closed its factory here this morning when the United Automobile Workers of America attempted to collect dues from delinquent union members at the factory gates.

Members of Federal Labor union 21,196, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, charged that the C. I. O. was attempting to force them and non-union members to join the United Automobile Workers of America before permitting them to go to work.

"The plant is not operating today because free entrance of all employés into the plant was interfered with by some employés," said A. W. Leland, manager of the plant. "Work will be resumed at 7 a. m. tomorrow, provided there is freedom of entrance and exit for all employés."

The U. A. W. A. has a contract with the company covering only its own members.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCK.

There's versatility in this pattern. If you've been wishing for a pretty house frock or a house coat, or both, here's your design! Both garments are as feminine as current fashions demand, which is really feminine! Notice that the otherwise tailored frock for the home has beruffled shoulders. This is a wraparound garment, long a favorite with women who spend much of their time around the house. It may be slipped on over one's dressier frocks when the hostess is preparing a snack, or it may be worn only over one's underthings and used as a dress. The V neckline is modish this season.

Select any cotton or linen that washes in a jiffy. You will find this frock as practical as it is pretty. And don't forget the June brides in your circle of friends and relatives. How the girls love to receive such frocks at showers!

The house coat is styled exactly the same as the dress except that the skirt is floor length. Darker shades are, of course, preferred, but you may have a gay print, if you choose. Both silks and cottons are perfect.

Style No. 3065 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards of 35 inch material, with 4 yards of ruffling for the house frock.

Choral Tribute Paid Swedes on Tercentenary

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Just 300 years ago the first Swedish colonists landed in North America and settled in what is now Delaware. The admirable choir of Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill. [traditionally a Swedish institution] is assisting in the nation-wide celebration of the tercentenary by including in the programs sung on its spring tour this year a generous amount of music which is Scandinavian in origin or in spirit.

Appearing in Orchestra hall last night the choir offered as one of the high points of its concert the hymn, "O, Fader var," which was sung by early colonists at the dedication of Old Swedes church in Wilmington. The song was performed last evening in a pure and austere manner, fitting perfectly the purity and austerity of the music.

A piece by Ole Bull, Stenhammer's "Sverige," the "Tonerna" of Sjöberg" and some Scandinavian folk songs helped to preserve the tercentenary character of the program. There was plenty of other music also—sacred and secular songs by composers as far apart in time as Orlando di Lasso and Noble Cain, as different in spirit as Bach and Schubert.

Henry Veld, director of the Augustana choir, not only presents his seventy-odd voices as a unit but breaks them up into the Jenny Lind [woman's] chorus and the Wennerborg [men's]. Thus the program has even more interest than the remarkable qualities of the large choir would alone be able to insure.

The Jenny Lind chorus sang Schubert's "Wohin" with a soft, sunny tone and with a flexibility which always stopped short of actual looseness of tempo. The granite-like address of the Wennerberg group [which followed the Linds to the stage] proved capable of changing into a delicately beautiful pianissimo when the music required it.

All of the womanly qualities of the first chorus and the virility of the second were fused a little later to form the large choir. The blend is splendid. There was a lofty and ethereal quality in the Schütz "Song of Praise" and in Bach's "Komm Süusser Tod," but the listener sensed throughout the underlying solidity of the male voices.

The program was not devoid of lighter things. The Di Lasso "Echo Song" was done so daintily that it had to be repeated. It could have been offered even a third time, so voracious is the public appetite for echo songs. Both here and throughout the evening the large audience was more than cordial.

Much of Mr. Veld's success as director is due to his interest in staple vocal and musical values. He does not try to imitate instruments nor to work out tricky tonal effects. Neither does he sacrifice nobility of line to the desire for vividness.

BLAKE ANSWERS

Studying Hard Is Important.

"Dear Miss Blake: A boy I know is a very good student, and I'm quite stupid. He acts very superior. Would he change his attitude toward me if I studied harder? PERPLEXED."

Swedish Americans to Launch Museum Campaign on May 3

Swedish Americans throughout the country will gather around the smorgasbord on Tuesday, May 3, launching a campaign to raise a $750,000 endowment fund for the American Swedish Historical museum in Philadelphia. The campaign has been made a major feature of the celebration of the first Swedish colonists' landing in the new world 300 years ago.

Mayor Kelly yesterday appointed a committee of Chicagoans to coöperate in the observance during June of the 300th anniversary of the first Swedish settlement in this country near Wilmington, Del. It is to be known as the Chicago New Sweden Tercentenary committee. The members are Gotthard A. Dahlberg, Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], Charles S. Peterson, Carl O. Beroth, George W. Borg, C. E. Wickman, Dr. Julius Lincoln, and Herbert R. Hedman.

BY JUDITH CASS.

The latest June wedding to be announced is that of Miss Leslie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Earl Wilson of Winnetka to Roger Sherman, which will take place on Saturday, June 4, at the Congregational church in Winnetka. The wedding will be a large one, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, but there will be no reception. Only the families and the wedding attendants will return to the Wilson home to drink a toast to Mr. Sherman and his bride.

Miss Wilson will have her younger sister, Miss Eleanor Wilson, for her maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will include Mrs. Francis Moore of Cambridge, Mass., the former Laura Bartlett of Winnetka; Miss Fidelia Richards, Miss Henrietta Boal, Miss Tayloe Hannaford, Mrs. Herbert N. Woodward [Adele Sandman], and Miss Joan Guiou of Omaha.

Miss Guiou, who attended the University of Chicago with Miss Wilson, will be married in June to Joseph F. Page III., son of some former Winnetkans, the Joseph F. Pages, who now live in Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Young Mr. Page and his bride will live in Minneapolis instead of here, for he has been transferred in business from Chicago.

Mr. Sherman's niece, Patsy Bennet, who is 11, will be the flower girl, and his brother, James Sherman, will be the best man. Ushering will be the bride's brothers, John and Morris Jr., who attend the North Shore Country Day school; Donald Eddy, Russell Palmer, Bradford Tobey, Rollin Keyes, and William Rymer.

Mr. Sherman is a son of Mrs. Roger Sherman and the late Mr. Sherman of Evanston.

Patterson-Applegate Nuptials on June 4.

June 4 already has been announced as the wedding day of Miss Julia Patterson and Ralph W. Applegate, and they are having the same type of a wedding as Miss Wilson and Mr. Sherman, a large church service and no reception following. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock at St. Chrysostom's church. Just the families and the bridal party will return to the Scott street apartment of Mrs. Wayne Wills, mother of Miss Patterson, to drink to the health of the bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Giuseppe Fantacci, the former Marjorie Moore, will be matron of honor for her cousin, and Mrs. Fantacci's sister, Hattie Ogden, who attends the Girls' Latin school, will be a bridesmaid. Other bridesmaids will be Miss Joan Ford, Miss Carlotta Lagorio, Miss Eleanore Thompson, Miss Mary Dowlen of Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Clair Tovey of Pine Bluff, Ark.

Colin Campbell will be Mr. Applegate's best man and Mr. Campbell's cousin, the Hon. Cecil John Arthur Howard of London, will be among the ushers. Also ushering will be Cyrus H. Adams III., Lincoln S. Harris, Harger Rollo, Robert A. Cavanaugh, Hamilton Washburn Wright III. of New York, James Robert Sowder of Wichita, Kas., and Washington, D. C., and William T. Kemper Jr. of Kansas City.

Mrs. Fantacci is arriving from New York probably next week to stay until after the wedding. Miss Tovey will arrive about two weeks before the wedding and Miss Dowlen will come a week later to attend the parties. Mr. Howard is in California and will come east next month. Mr. Harris, whose business keeps him half the year in Havana, is in Chicago now for just a few days.

Mr. Applegate and his bride are going to Honolulu on their wedding trip, with plans to be away for five weeks. Upon their return they will be at home at 1433 State parkway.

Mrs. Gordon Lang New Junior League President.

At the spring meeting of the Chicago Junior league held yesterday at the Drake hotel Mrs. Gordon Lang was unanimously elected president for the 1938-'39 year. Other new officers are Miss Honor Merrell, first vice president; Mrs. Cyrus R. Smith, second vice president; Miss Martha Borland, secretary, and Miss Lois Truesdale, treasurer.

The new officers will assume their duties in June and until then Mrs. Charles H. G. Kimball, who has been president for the last two years, will continue to direct the league. The new officers will be congratulated, however, at the league's next gathering, which will be an informal one on May 6 at the Drake hotel to see its annual art exhibit, which will hang in the Tower room. A hobby show is being held in connection with the art exhibit. Thomas Hart Benton will speak at 3:30 o'clock on May 6 and tea will be served.

Tavern Plans Party for New Members.

Wives who saw the announcements their husbands received yesterday from the Tavern club are sorry that the party announced is a stag, for it sounds as though it would be a very jolly one. Perhaps if enough wives complain the club will have a "repeat," such as it did last year! The announcement for this year's party reads:

"Freshmen of the Tavern club,

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

With Their Hair Down

Hollywood, Cal., April 25.—Few performers have received so much nice publicity as Barbara Stanwyck, and perhaps she rates it. However, you can judge a person only as he or she behaves with you. I made a date to interview La Stanwyck, a luncheon date. At the last minute her secretary called: "Miss Stanwycky has decided it would be too nerve wracking to be interviewed at lunch." So your correspondent made another date for an interview, this time at 1:15 p. m. on the set where she was working. Miss Stanwyck was not there, had not left any word of explanation. Your correspondent, stifling a hasty temper, decided to sit and wait. He waited until Miss Stanwyck returned. "I can't be interviewed now. Perhaps in another hour or so I will be able to grant a few minutes." That is a portrait of Barbara Stanwyck, with her hair down. They tell me she's a nice girl. I'm telling you this is RKO's Stanwyck as I found her.

Barbara Stanwyck breaks a date.

Joan Crawford often is accused by Hollywood of acting when she is in public. More power to her, because La Crawford always acts like a movie star. She can be interviewed at breakfast, lunch, or dinner, on the set or off the set. . . . Kay Francis will tell you cheerfully that her father was so broke, at the time of her birth, that he was lucky to get a hotel job in Oklahoma City. . . . Carole Lombard powders an interview with "hells" and "damns." . . . Loretta Young is lovely off screen, as she is on screen. . . . Academy Winner Spencer Tracy, if you're in a hurry, will hang on to a phone for twenty or thirty minutes to answer questions. . . . Katharine Hepburn, instead of being ultra, will tell you in detail of the shows in which she laid an egg.

I interviewed Joan Blondell one morning at her home, had coffee and toast with her while she poured out her career. That night I met her with Dick Powell and she stared right through me. "I interviewed you a few hours ago," your reporter said, helpfully. But she was very vague about the whole thing. . . . Walter Wanger is a nice guy, but he is a gum chewer and nobody ever made as much noise as he makes. It would nearly drive you nuts. He's fair about it, however, offering you gum the minute you arrive in his office. . . . Clark Gable is more like Jack Dempsey in his ability to get along with people, and is nobody's chump. . . . It's 10 to 1 that you'll find W. C. Fields on his front lawn, hitting cotton golf balls which his secretary retrieves [he calls his secretary Mickey Mouse]. Fields is very quiet, very courteous, very appreciative, nothing at all like the character he projects on the screen. . . . Alice Faye is moody, sensitive. . . . Ginger Rogers is modest, quiet, tremendously ambitious.

Norma Shearer is intelligent, poised and charming with a grand sense of humor. . . . Robert Taylor is a nice, unaffected kid, appreciative of anything that appears in the public prints about him. . . . Claudette Colbert is witty, wise and practical, and extremely self-critical. . . . Connie Bennett will admit to you that she has difficulty in concealing her frank dislike for people who annoy her, but she is a stanch friend and generous with her dough. . . . Bob Burns is just about the same off screen as he is on, a real vaudeville trouper. He rarely talks about himself, but talks often about Bing Crosby, telling you that Crosby is the nicest white man he ever met. . . . Ray Milland is very boyish, very proud of his young wife.

Recently I had lunch with Paul Muni at La Venta inn, thirty miles from Hollywood. On the way out three girls were snapping pictures. One of them called timidly: "Mister Muni, would you pose for a picture?" So Paul posed with the girls, and suddenly the one operating the camera let out a cry of dismay. Only one unexposed frame of film had been left on the roll, and in her nervousness she had moved it halfway between No. 7 and No. 8. On the way back in the car Muni referred three times to the kid's unlucky break, apparently feeling just as bad about it as she did. Uh-huh, he's just a very nice human being, this Muni, with all the sensitiveness that tags along with a September birth date.

The weekly strain of radio [Crosley poisoning] has taken some of the gayety out of Jack Benny, but he's still the same absentminded professor type. He still dozes off placidly at parties, still doubles up in paroxysms at other comics. Success has dented him less than any other Hollywood celeb. . . . Martha Raye is a delightful screwball at all times, slap-happy in swing time. . . . Edgar Bergen is serious and thoughtful, always pleasant. . . . Groucho Marx is the champion of the Hollywood kids, and they all turn to him for advice and counsel. Of all professionals, he prefers Irving Berlin and he likes to play his guitar and sing songs that Berlin penned a quarter of a century ago. . . . Bette Davis is very matter-of-fact, and in the course of an interview asks you as many questions about your work as you ask her about hers. . . . Patsy Kelly is shy off screen and blushes if you praise her work.

Chico Marx is the town's vagabond, who doesn't care whether school keeps or not. He has a telephone mania, constantly calling up people to say hello and ask them how they are. His daughter Maxine is his only serious interest. . . . Brian Aherne, very British, prefers Eddie Moran as a pal, because Moran always is telling him American jokes. . . . Joel McCrea and Gary Cooper, who are great pals, are much alike in their easy going dispositions, but neither one of them will take any pushing around. . . . I'll tell you about some of the others in another column.

MOVIE CLOSEUP

During the week beginning next Friday, to be known as Will Rogers Memorial week, a Warner Brothers one reel subject titled "For Auld Lang Syne" will make the rounds of the movie theaters. Featured are Dick Powell, Paul Muni, James Cagney, Donald Crisp, and the Benny Goodman orchestra. Mr Muni makes a plea to audiences, soliciting donations which will be used to aid crippled children and needy members of the theatrical profession.

Greek Dramas Great Bores to Modern Critic

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The ancient Greek drama, an exceedingly rare article on the American stage in this period, rears its head and manifests its lung power at the Goodman theater this week. The work selected for revival is "Electra," by Euripides, in Gilbert Murray's version; the earnest revivalists are the students of the Goodman school of acting under the direction of their headmaster, Maurice Gnesin.

The design for the stage setting is based upon Mycenean archæology, with terraces, platforms, and stairways for modernistic groupings and poses. This permits an effective little theater treatment of a tragedy that was written to be acted with a hillside for its auditorium. The chorus of Argive women, twenty-four in number, chants or intones its interpretive contributions to the story, and is, as customary, quite unintelligible.

The principals are spirited mouthpieces for Euripidean eloquence, and the applause which followed the first act curtain last night suggested that patrons of the Goodman are passionately fond of the ancient Greek drama. This state of mind is, no doubt, a cultural delusion, for the masterpieces of Euripides, Sophocles, and Æschylus, although milestones of literary history and valuable in classical language study, are the greatest bores that can be inflicted upon modern American audiences.

Performances of "Electra" will be given every night this week and on Monday and Tuesday nights of next week.

"I Married an Angel," a new musical comedy which has been announced for an opening at the Grand Opera house on May 23, may not fulfill its promises. Present plans are for a Broadway opening on May 9. If it fails to arrive, "Three Waltzes," an operetta of recent popularity in New York, will be substituted.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Victor McLaglen has a new screen friendly enemy in Brian Donlevy, who replaces Edmund Lowe as the big fellow's sparring buddy. . . . Louise Hovick [Gypsy Rose Lee] is positively sensational as the leading woman in "Battle of Broadway."

These two items I feel to be of particular interest for those about to see the Oriental's current feature. However, the picture as a whole is an entertaining opus, lusty, lively, but, even in its most slapstick moments—and it sports quite a few—never lousy.

The story is staged in New York at the time of the American Legion convention. . . . Victor and Brian are seen as steel workers employed by a genial and sort of helpless Bundy, who once had served as a buck private under Sergt. Big Ben Wheeler.

Though he's boss, Bundy prefers a buddy status and is never so happy as when fraternizing with his boys at a noon hour. . . . Bundy sends Ben and Chesty to the Legion convention, handing them a little commission on the side. They are, at any cost, to break up the romance between Bundy's son and show girl son is set on marrying. . . .

Lovely Linda Lee, entertainer at the floor show of the hotel where the Legion boys are putting up, is mistaken by them as son's sweetheart. . . . This error leads to any number of mixups and ere long Papa Bundy is whirled into the eddies it has caused. . . . Developments come fast and are often funny. . . . Dialog elicits many a chuckle.

Messrs. McLaglen and Donlevy have a happy, hard boiled time getting even with and ahead of one another. . . . Raymond Walburn is amusing as Bundy. Other players were intelligently chosen. BUT—as I look back over the picture with my mind's eye I'm sure that what made "Battle of Broadway" outstanding to me were the smooth work, gracious manner and dulcet voice of the Gypsy Rose who, I'm sure, wears clothes quite as intriguingly as she could ever take them off.

"LENIN IN OCTOBER."
Produced by Mosfilm Studio.
Directed by Mikhail Romm.
Presented at the Sonotone.
Featuring Boris V. Shchukin as Lenin.

KIND—Soviet propaganda dealing with the activities of Lenin on the eve of the armed uprising which he inspired and guided.

ACTING—Fine. Schukin's Lenin takes its place among the greatest of screen character studies. Another splendid portrayal is that by the man who plays his strong, quiet, determined, humor appreciative guard. Splendid cast all the way through.

PHOTOGRAPHY—The best. There are some great panoramic views and a number of marvelous groupings.

DIRECTION—Intelligent.

AUDIENCE APPEAL—A great deal for soviet sympathizers. Fond laughter and enthusiastic applause greeted words and acts of Lenin and the revolutionists. . . . As history the film seems authentic and as cinema it is noteworthy.

See you soon.

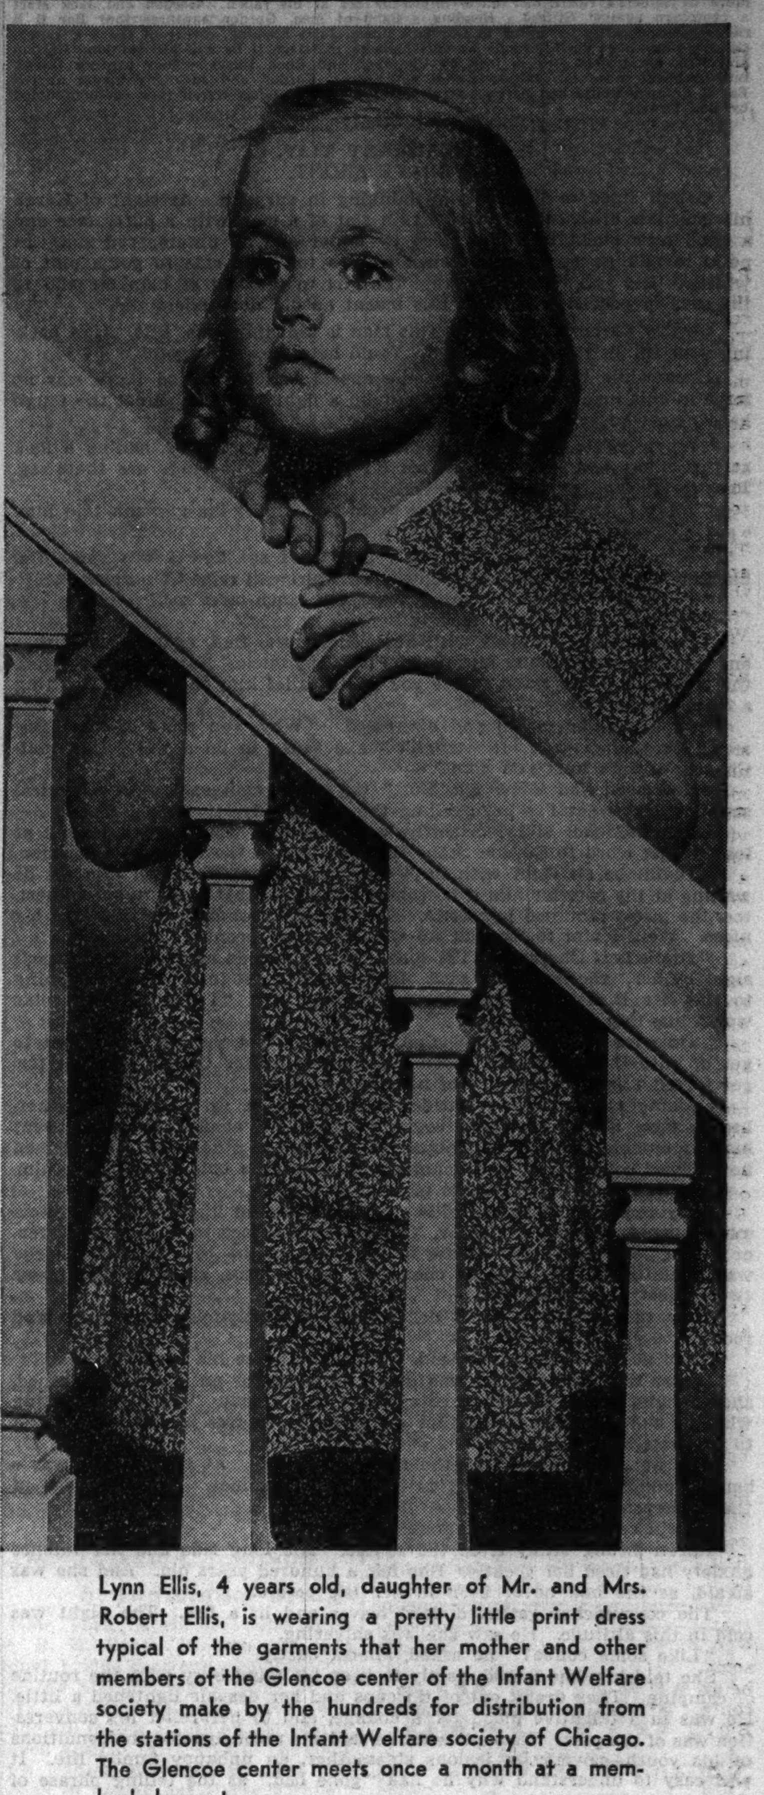
Dresses for Infant Welfare



Lynn Ellis, 4 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellis, is wearing a pretty little print dress typical of the garments that her mother and other members of the Glencoe center of the Infant Welfare society make by the hundreds for distribution from the stations of the Infant Welfare society of Chicago. The Glencoe center meets once a month at a member's home to sew.

Infant Welfare Leaders Enjoy Annual Party

There are hundreds of Infant Welfare meetings each year, but seldom is there one that is just for pleasure, for usually the women meet to sew or to make plans to raise money to support the 18 stations that the Infant Welfare society maintains. Once a year, however, the presidents and publicity chairmen of the 33 centers meet for luncheon, purely for pleasure. Yesterday the party was given at the Arts club.

Some interesting facts about Infant Welfare work came to light at the party when Miss Jeanette Townsend, extension secretary, spoke briefly. She told, among other things, that 22,036 pints of cod liver oil were used by the society last year and that 22,745 garments and 350,000 diapers were distributed. The woman's auxiliary, of which Mrs. William Fuller Gregson of Beverly Hills is president, raised $94,643 in 1937.

Among the Infant Welfare benefits of the near future are a rummage sale at 151 North Michigan avenue that the North Side and Kenwood centers will have on May 2, 3, and 4; an all day bridge, luncheon, style show, and dance to be given by the La Grange center at the Western Springs Country club on May 6; a tea and a reading of "Susan and God," by Ann Burke Cooper, sponsored by the Glencoe center on May 10; a bridge tea on May 14 at the Twentieth Century club given by the Oak Park and River Forest circle, No. 28.

Other parties are a style show at Marshall Field's on the 16th, given by the North Side Juniors; a tea given by the Wilmette center on the same day at the Exmoor Country club; a dinner-dance on May 20 at the Villa Moderne given by the Kenilworth center; a card party, also on the 20th, at the Barrington Hills Country club, and on May 25 a luncheon and style show at the Orrington hotel given by the Infant Welfare Service League of Evanston.

The Housewife

If you're puzzled over the gift problem, wondering what to give a special friend on an anniversary or at the time of her engagement or marriage, consider a set of charming little decorative spoons we saw the other day. Each one has a gold bowl, the rest being of beautifully carved silver, and each one has a different design.

They're called harlequin spoons and are cut in the shape of a wild rose, a violet, a lily, a daisy, golden rod, and other flowers. The set of eight makes quite a bouquet!

Use them for dessert or afternoon tea.

SYNOPSIS.

Gordon Stone returns to Barranca after eight years in prison. Gordon was framed by Lyn Gilbert, owner of the Bar B B ranch, and his foreman, Curt Ford. Because Gilbert's niece, Karen, warns Gordon and Jack Turnbull in time to save them from a posse of Gilbert's riders, her uncle imprisons her at his ranch. Gordon and Jack start a campaign against Gilbert. Heading a band of men, Gordon captures four Bar B B riders rustling cattle belonging to Gordon's uncle, John Fleming, owner of the J F ranch. Gilbert offers his rider Cheyenne Karen's hand in marriage if he will kill Gordon. Gordon and Jack are tricked into a trap by Cheyenne and Buck Hayes. They capture Hayes, but Cheyenne rides off, taking Karen with him. Gordon and Jack investigate at the Bar B B ranch house and barely escape alive. Cheyenne takes Karen to a cabin occupied by Bud Cowell.

INSTALMENT XLIV.
A BRAVE FRONT.

Cowell stood in the doorway blinking in surprise. At sight of Karen his lank jaw dropped. He was a thin slat of a man with a putty face and a snub nose burnt to a shiny red by liquor and an untempered sun. In point of fact he had just returned from a ten mile ride to get a pint of whisky. His gaze wandered from the girl to the roll of blankets and to the sack of provisions. What this meant he did not understand.

Swiftly Karen explained. "This man is kidnaping me, Bud. He's packing your things to take with him. You'll help me, won't you?"

Even while she was making the appeal Karen realized there was no force in this man. He would not put up a fight for her against the tough hard man who was taking her with him.

"Why, Cheyenne wouldn't do that, miss," he explained, sliding a look at the other man. "It's one of his li'l joshes. Cow hands are thataway. They're always loadin' someone."

"We're borrowing a few things from you, Bud," the gunman told him. "No objections, I reckon."

"If you aim to take that bed roll I don't see how I can spare the blankets, Cheyenne. Or that grub either. Curt will raise Cain about it.

"You ain't figuring on leaving."

"He is taking me away with him somewhere, Bud, against my wishes and by force, without any instructions from my uncle." Karen walked across the floor to the line rider. "Are you going to let him do it without lifting a hand for me?"

Bud was embarrassed and distressed. "Why, you must of misunderstood Cheyenne, miss. It wouldn't make sense to do a thing like that. Cheyenne won't hurt you none."

"How well you know me, Bud," the other man said with a cynical smile. "Just what I've been telling the young lady."

Karen told her story, urgently, with emotion. She begged Cowell at least to get word to Gordon Stone that she was in the hands of Cheyenne.

"That'll be all right with me," Cheyenne assented. "Tell him I'll be waiting at the gate for him if he comes. And give that word to old Gilbert, too, the mealy mouthed hypocrite. He claimed he wanted me to marry his niece. Well, I aim to fix that up with her muy pronto."

"That's fine, Cheyenne. I'm sure you wouldn't do anything that wasn't right by her," the line rider said. He wanted to get in a word of warning to the Bar B B bad man without offending him. "I don't reckon folks would like that, would they?"

"Time for us to burn the wind," Cheyenne told the girl. "We got to get up into the hills." He added a jeering word for Cowell. "Don't forget to tell Lyn I'll take care of his niece proper."

Looking at Cheyenne's broad-shouldered frame, at his stony weather-beaten face, Karen knew she could not hold out against him. He went his way outside the laws that regulated the lives of other men. She guessed he admired courage. It was important to keep up a bold front before him.

They rode deep into the hills. As they climbed higher the way grew more rugged, the slopes steeper. Cheyenne rode knee to knee with Karen, or if the path was narrow close to the heels of the bay upon which she was mounted. There was no chance of escape here, since he was never twenty feet away from her.

They turned into a black defile that led precipitous up a steep and rocky trough.

"You go first," Cheyenne said. "Give the horse his head."

It was the first time she had heard his voice for an hour. He seemed, she thought, to be immersed in a sullen resentment. Was he regretting what he had done and looking for a way out? Or was he nerving himself to go through?

The horses clambered to the top of the slide. At the summit was a bare sloping scarp terminating in some scrubby pines. Near the edge of these Cheyenne drew up.

"We'll camp here," he announced.

Karen swung stiffly from the saddle. The long ride and her intense anxiety had tired her greatly. She felt a hundred years old. And she was afraid, as she had never been in her life before.

The cowpuncher gathered dead leaves and lit a fire. The night was cold in this altitude. He saw she was shivering.

"Like some coffee?" he asked, almost curtly.

She told him she would, partly to keep his mind busy with the routine of camping. They drank out of tin cups and her despair lightened a little. He was in a talkative mood for a change, and to her relief his conversation was of the past. Through what he said she reconstructed the conditions of his youth—poverty, a jealous stepmother, an unhappy family life. It was easy to understand why he had "gone bad," as the telling phrase of the west has it.

She found herself asking questions and even sympathizing with him, though that was the last thing in the world he wanted from her. He told her of his first essay into crime. While riding for an outfit in West Texas he had gone on a spree at the nearest cow town. An older man had proposed they rob a train, and almost before he knew it the lad had become involved in a holdup during which the express messenger had been killed. From that day the stamp of the outlaw was on him.

"You're tired," he said at last, and rose yawning from in front of the fire where he had been sitting tailor fashion.

He warmed the blankets and arranged them for her. Karen thanked him, her heart pounding.

The eyes in his stone wall face told no stories. What he was thinking she did not know.

"Your first job is to sleep," he told her. "Don't worry about anything till morning."

Was that a promise? She was not sure. The intention in her mind was not to sleep a wink. He suggested that she would be more comfortable with her boots off, then strolled away into the darkness. The plateau was on a great promontory from which there was no descent except by the way they had come. She knew he would not leave that unguarded.

From the provision sack she slipped the carving knife. When she went into her blankets it lay close to her hand.

For years she had forgotten her prayers, but she went back to them now. The cry her heart flung out was to the personal God of her childhood, and she made her petition much as she had done when a very small girl. If He would save her now and if He had kept Gordon alive she would be good. Her faults trooped to her mind. She would amend them all. She would say her prayers every night and go to church on Sunday.

Cheyenne came back to the camp fire. He sat on the other side of it from her and smoked a pipe. His dark immobile face told her nothing of what he was thinking. From the bowl of the pipe he knocked the ashes deliberately. Furtively the girl watched him. He did not once look at her. When he rolled up in the blanket his face was turned away.

The lump of fear in her throat began to ease. In the pleasant warmth of the blankets she grew drowsy. More than once, with a start, she made herself open her drooping eyelids. She must stay awake all night.

Very quickly after that she must have fallen asleep.

La Rabida Campaign Passes $21,000 Mark; Goal Set at $105,000

The campaign to raise $105,000 for the La Rabida-Jackson Park sanitarium has passed the $21,000 mark, it was announced yesterday at a meeting of workers in the Hotel Sherman. The women's division has obtained $3,351 of a $12,000 quota; the men have raised $5,871 of the $22,500 sought, and the executive committee, whose goal is $70,500, has raised $12,185 to date. A few teams failed to report yesterday.

The nonsectarian sanitarium, with facilities for 100 patients, cares for only forty each year at present due to lack of funds.

Blind, Needs Baby Walker.

A worker in a south side hospital has requested a baby walker for a very needy case. The child is 15 months old and has been in the hospital since birth because of various ailments. It is additionally handicapped by total blindness and has never learned to walk. The nurse in charge feels that a circular walker would be of great assistance in training the child to take steps.

If He's Nagger Scream Louder Than He Does

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I will state right off that my husband has never met my family, as they live in a far-off state. I am telling you this so you will know that it is not in-law trouble, and certainly there is none with his side of the family, for I adore his mother and his sister. In any trouble between my husband and me they side with me, for they know him to be a nagging one.

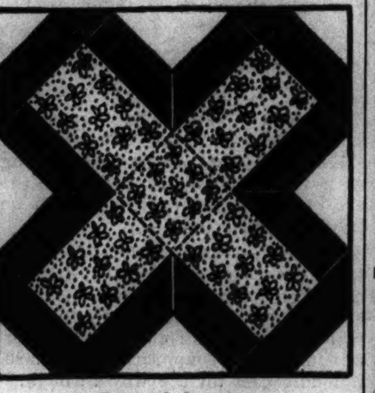
"I have suffered many a black eye, swollen mouth and bruised face simply because I dared to voice an opinion of my own. He tells me how I should clean house, wash the clothes, care for the baby, cook, etc. I didn't marry my husband as a girl ignorant about housework. My mother taught me how to do everything and do it well. His own mother and family call him the kitchen pest. He is that.

"I am only 27 and when I married this man he was sweetness personified. I was sure I was getting the prize of the year. And, of course, money troubles ensue. He gives me twelve dollars a week to include milk bill, food for us, everything baby needs [cod liver oil, etc.]. We are in debt on rent, furniture, gas, electricity, everything, and I don't know what he does with the rest of the salary he earns. I want to leave the man. I haven't a cent and he won't let me have the baby and his people beg me not to leave."

There's more to the communication, but we print enough to give an idea of what some women draw out of the matrimonial bag. Also, we print the communication to show the complete lack of fight in the makeup of some of our women.

It is a sorry spectacle, in our judgment, for a woman to put herself in the position described above. Oh, yes, she can put the bully in his place—by outbullying him. It is his only corrective treatment. Scream louder than he does. Chase him out of the kitchen with a broom, if necessary. One grand burst of fireworks is needed—recommended to wives of naggers and bulliers early in their career.

TODAY'S QUILT



Cross of Geneva.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A block synonymous with beauty and antiquity is the lovely old Cross of Geneva. It first was pieced many years ago in Virginia in red, red printed material and white, when it was made from material which was spun and dyed on the plantation. In 1867, three years after the founding of the Red Cross society in Geneva, every one made at least one coverlet in recognition of the society banded together to aid the distressed and wounded in every country. This twelve inch pattern is set together in a coverlet to form an all-over design and surrounded by a three inch border and a half inch bias binding.

elected to membership during the last year, attention! The time for your formal initiation into our mystic fellowship is at hand. . . .

"Monday evening, May 9, has been fixed as the date. Prepare yourselves with fasting, for the buffet tables will contain a Lucullan array of viands. Come with parched throats, for your thirsts shall be copiously quenched. . . . Cocktails about 6:30, dinner when you feel like it, and ceremonies when every one is in the mood. Members elected during the last year will be guests of the club."

Glenn Frank to Give Benefit Lecture Today.

Thorne hall on Northwestern's downtown campus will be the destination of many dinner hosts and their guests tonight, for there, at 8:30 o'clock, Dr. Glenn Frank is speaking under the auspices of the Woman's Aid society of the Passavant Memorial hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk are entertaining at dinner for Dr. and Mrs. Frank before the lecture, the subject of which has not been announced.

Among the many other dinner parties that have been arranged to precede the lectures is one at which Mrs. Laurance H. Armour and John T. Pirie Jr. will act as hostess and host for the latter's sister, Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. As Mrs. Harold Beacom she planned the party, but since she and Mr. Faurot left Saturday night after their marriage for a motor trip she asked Mrs. Armour and Mr. Pirie to take over her party.

Birth Control League Will Meet Today.

Mrs. Alexander B. Dick will be the principal speaker today at the annual meeting and luncheon of the Illinois Birth Control league at the Woman's Athletic club. Mrs. Dick will talk about "Asiatic Adventures in Birth Control." Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter, president, and Mrs. Willoughby G. Walling, treasurer, will give reports, and officers will be elected.

Between 3 and 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Fortnightly the committee that runs the Rummage shop for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital will be receiving their friends, each of whom will bring a white elephant to be sold at the shop.

Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, just back from a long vacation at Castle Hot Springs in Arizona, will resume her active chairmanship of the woman's committee of the Chicago Symphony orchestra today at the second meeting of the season.

Dr. Horace J. Bridges will give the second in a series of four lectures for the benefit of the Cradle at 8 o'clock this evening at the Georgian hotel. Dr. Bridges will discuss "Discontent with Modern Education."

Reveal Engagement of Barbara Oleson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Price Oleson of Kenilworth, who still are at their winter home, Mar-Ba-Fran, in Sarasota, Fla., announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Merrell, to Owen Burns of Sarasota. The wedding will take place in Sarasota early next month.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. McDonough are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Jean Anne, on Sunday at the Passavant hospital. The baby is the first child of Mr. McDonough and the former Anne O'Brien, and the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. O'Brien of Highland Park.

A son, Henry Raymond Hamilton McAllen, born on Saturday in the Presbyterian hospital, is the fifth generation of his family born in Chicago. He is the first child of the former Mary Louise Hamilton of Winnetka and Donald K. McAllen. Richard Jones Hamilton came to Chicago in 1831.

Honor Stewart as Delegate of Church Unity

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A sole American member of an international interchurch committee of fourteen meeting in Utrecht, the Netherlands, on May 9 to draft plans for a world council of churches, Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Chicago Episcopal diocese last night outlined principles on which the council will be developed. The appointment of Bishop Stewart was made by the archbishop of York.

Bishop Stewart spoke at a dinner in his honor at the Hotel Sherman. A tempest in a teapot was the way he described a petition of 1,406 Episcopal clergymen against open communion between Episcopalians and members of other creeds before reunion of Christendom is effected. About half of the Episcopal clergy of Chicago signed the petition, while only one-fourth of the clergy of the whole Episcopal church were signers.

"These petitioners should not get excited," said Bishop Stewart, who explained his belief in intercommunion was limited to those enjoying the true Christian fellowship. "When we are not in communion we should not take communion together only to return again to divided and divisive policies," he explained.

Bishop Stewart said the Utrecht conference has no authority to vote church unity but will make recommendations. The conference, he added, is tangible evidence that Christian forces are lining up for battle against the totalitarian state whether in its Nazi, Fascist, or communistic form.

They're Going to Make Better Man of Charlie

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A double barreled campaign to make a new and better man of Charlie McCarthy is in full swing. A board of strategy representing his radio sponsor and his movie studio, with Edgar Bergen giving a helping hand, has laid out a plan of action which, if successful, will improve both the physique and the morals of the Cedar Casanova.

First item: Without benefit of anæsthetic Bergen's brat will undergo an operation to give him knee action. For 14 years Charlie's legs have dangled uselessly off Bergen's lap. If the surgeons' [carpenters on the Universal lot] job is successful Charlie will be able to move his legs, perhaps even kick Bergen in the chin.

While this is of little concern to radio listeners—other than to holders of Hollywood studio passes—item No. 2 it: Charlie's associations with wine and women are to be drastically restrained. That recent picture in a national magazine showing him almost chinning himself on a bottle of liquor brought in a lot of protests. And there has been too much talk about Charlie's talents with the fair. The sponsor is reported to be aware now that those encounters with Mae West and the champion-kissing Andrea Leeds were a little too, too. His exploits with the ladies almost reached the how-to-keep-it-out-of-the-papers phase.

All that is to be changed. In place of women, Charlie will have as broadcast playmates more of such sterling youngsters as Tommy Kelly, the film juvenile, who did such a refreshing job Sunday evening. You may expect to see more guests whose influence on Charlie will be for the better. While there is no direct aim to make a Boy Scout out of McCarthy, the sponsor is said to be determined to get him out of the boudoir. And if any drinking is done it will be coffee, nothing stronger.

It's really quite an ambitious project. When the carpenters have planed Charlie into new streamlines and his character is scrubbed a little, Snow White probably will chuck Prince Charming down that [wishing] well.

Pat Flanagan, veteran baseball broadcaster, is in Passavant hospital for treatment for a heart ailment. Russ Hodges of WIND relieved at WBBM Saturday, and France Laux came up from KMOX, St. Louis, Sunday, to help Val Sherman broadcast Dizzy Dean's opener against the Cardinals. Jimmy Dudley, who alternates with Russ Hodges, is handling the WIND airing alone, Hodges having been called on again yesterday. Flanagan must rest at least six weeks, his physicians ordered.

Erect, Graceful Carriage Puts Actress at Top

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

When one stands, literally, head and shoulders above other Hollywood beauties, as Loretta Young does, there must be a reason. Not that Loretta exceeds them in height, for she is quite the average—5 feet 4 inches.

It's something else again. It is the graceful, gorgeous poise of her cameo-like head upon her shoulders; her exquisite carriage and the expressive way she uses her hands and arms that call for admiring "Ahs."

Loretta is the particular pet of smart couturiers. I've heard them say: "That girl in one of my gowns would get me places." I've heard a famed milliner say: "Give me that head of Loretta Young's and any hat I'd make would bring me fame!" Pose the girl in a new style creation in a smart fashion publication and you start a vogue. This was true of the wide-brimmed, off-the-face hat with its dramatic veil, first sponsored by Miss Young.

Yet, Loretta distinctly draws the line on being thought of as a "clothes horse," a popular expression formerly used to describe certain picture stars of silent days whose claim to fame was the ability to model bizarre costumes.

But there is a reason for her clothes distinction just the same. Clothes-sense, in part but more than the selection of attire, which is well nigh flawless, is the lovely star's manner of walking, shoulders erect, head held high, graciously, not disdainfully, and the warmth of her expansive smile which is no prop smile, but one that seems to say: "I'm really glad to know. I like you and I hope you like me, too!"

Like many others, Loretta had a handicap to overcome when she first started in pictures. Aside from her extreme youth, for she was barely 14, she was then, as now, extremely thin. Like overweight, extreme slenderness may make for awkwardness, which Loretta combatted with extensive training in dancing. She found that tennis and badminton helped one gain poise and to use one's hands with grace and charm.

A MATCH-POINT CONSIDERATION.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Duplicate players must take into consideration factors that never enter the picture at rubber bridge. When I am "hooked" at the latter game I do no pressing in a desperate effort to "get even," because there is no logic in such a course. Each additional point that I lose costs me just as much as the points already lost and if, instead of ending up the evening with a 3,000 point loss I increase this to five or six thousand, I cannot console myself with the thought, "Well, I had to lose no matter what I did." In rubber bridge every point won or lost has a definite bearing on the condition of my pocketbook. In duplicate it is just the reverse. The great objective is to win, and your victory will be just as conclusive if you nose out the second team by one-half match-point as though you had swamped the rest of the field. Thus, in a duplicate game, going into the last few rounds with the knowledge that my score to that point has not been good enough to win, it is perfectly logical for me to take all sorts of liberties. If my "fanciness" turns out well I may come out with top score. If it falls flat I will simply have removed myself further from the top position. Let us consider the following hand, using the proper match-point duplicate philosophy.

I sat South. My partner, a fair player, opened the bidding with one heart. There was no point in my "stretching" to respond with two diamonds. In all probability such a bid would result in partner playing the hand at no trump. If no trump was to be the final contract I wanted to be the declarer. So I made the tentative response of one no trump, which, incidentally, happened to be the correct bid. West passed and my partner rebid two hearts. Now, after a pass by East, I really had no right to make another bid. If the hand had come up in the early stages of the game undoubtedly I would have passed and permitted the two hearts to play. But this was near the end and I knew that our match-point score was not very good up to that point. With nothing to lose, therefore, and much to gain, I decided to overbid deliberately in an attempt to snatch a few extra match points. Hence I rebid two no trump. My partner promptly raised to three and every one passed.

West opened the spade jack and I surveyed the dummy. Without the semblance of a club stopper in either hand I dared not let the opening lead ride to my queen. There was too much chance that East held the king and would shift to clubs. Moreover, I was not inclined to "look a gift horse in the mouth." I felt lucky enough that clubs had not been opened and saw such a good chance to make nine tricks, and contract, without risking the spade finesse on the spot, that I clattered up with dummy's ace. I then led to my heart queen and returned the jack of diamonds. Of course this lead was a feint on my part. I hardly dared hope that if West held the queen he would be so kind as to cover, and my intention was to put up dummy's diamond ace and, after running as many heart tricks as possible, finesse diamonds on the return. To my complete satisfaction, however, West, probably hoping that his partner had something like K-9 of diamonds, covered the jack and my troubles were over. The heart jack did not drop, but I was assured of three top hearts, five diamonds, and the spade ace.

Obviously I had to be lucky and also had to receive the coöperation of an opponent. It is all right to play for this luck and coöperation in a match-point game when it is vital to improve one's position, but I should not care to take the same risk when playing total points, or when starting out in a match-point duplicate.

Yeast Coffee Cakes Always Big Favorites

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Quick coffee cakes made with baking powder may be delicious, and usually are, but no matter how much we pretend we can't convince ourselves that they're anything as good as the old fashioned yeast coffee cakes. The latter take much more time, of course, but no one who has watched a hungry family gleefully devour a yeast-raised coffee cake, fresh from the oven, would regret the time expended.

German coffee cake with a topping of streusel crums, and English tea ring with a fruit filling are two of the most popular breakfast and luncheon hot breads.

This "English tea ring" is similar to the more familiar Swedish tea ring. The filling may be changed to suit the taste, of course.

English Tea Ring.
3 tablespoons shortening
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cake compressed yeast
1 beaten egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
3 cups flour

Scald milk and add shortening, sugar, and salt. Cool to lukewarm and add crumbled yeast. Stir until dissolved. Add egg, reserving 2 tablespoonfuls for brushing the rings. Stir in vanilla and flour enough to make a soft dough. Turn out on a lightly floured surface and knead lightly until satiny. Place in a greased bowl and let stand until doubled in bulk. Divide the dough in halves and roll each into an oblong shape about ½ inch thick. Spread with filling and roll. Place each roll in a greased 10 inch cake pan, pressing the ends together to form a ring. With scissors slash the outside edge at 1 inch intervals, twisting the sections to expose the filling. Brush with reserved egg and let rise until light. Bake at 375 degrees, moderately hot oven, for 25 minutes.

FILLING: Combine ¼ cup sugar with 2 teaspoons cinnamon, ¾ cup chopped walnuts, and ¾ cup mixed candied fruit [orange peel, citron, candied pineapple, candied cherries, etc.].

German Coffee Cake.
[2 9 inch cakes.]
¾ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 cake compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 egg
3½ cups flour
Streusel crums

Scald milk and pour over sugar, shortening and salt in a mixing bowl. Cool to lukewarm and add yeast softened in lukewarm water and beaten egg. Mix well. Add half the flour and beat thoroughly. Add remainder and mix well. Roll out dough to ½ inch in thickness, in two portions. Place each in a well greased layer cake pan. Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Prick the top of the cakes with a fork, brush with melted butter, and sprinkle with streusel crums. Let rise about ½ hour longer and bake in a 400 degree oven for about 20 minutes.

STREUSEL CRUMS: Cream together ¼ cup butter and ¼ cup sugar and mix in ½ cup flour, ½ cup dry cake or bread crums, ground fine, and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Mix until crumbly.

Half of this dough may be used for coffee cake and half may be made into rolls if only one coffee cake is wanted. In that event, make only half the recipe for streusel crums.

APPLE COFFEE CAKE.

Apple coffee cake may be made from the same dough. After the dough has been placed in the pan, brush the top with melted butter and sprinkle with sugar. Let rise about 1½ hours. Press sliced apples into the dough, arranging them close together. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and let the dough rise for ½ hour longer. Bake for the first 10 minutes with an inverted cake pan over the top of the coffee cake so that the apples may be thoroughly cooked.

Spring Wafts in Delectable Robes of Lace

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Inexpensive finds among the spring showings of negligees offer such confections as superlace robes, out to catch the attention of brides with limited allowances. Princess lines, gored to reveal long slender outlines and finished with a nice, soul satisfying train to slither around as you walk, they're slick buys for around $12.

A soft, shirred chiffon scarf starts out as a deep V-neckline, winds around as a sash or can be tied in front. Star sapphire blue, a ravishing pink and a honey beige or natural color are the three available colors. The lace itself is flat and delicate, nothing coarse to remind you of long gone lace window curtains. A floral design resembling a wild rose will please all.

In the same spot, look and lose your heart to the "million dollar princess" house coat, one of the grandest white dotted silk robes we've ever raved about. The dots are as big as a 50 cent piece, spaced about six inches apart. The skirt is gathered around the waistline in a double shirred cord effect that ties in a bow and long ends, also covering a front zipper. The bodice fits snugly, has a deep square cut neckline and fitted short sleeves. What makes it so devastating is the demure four inch white fluting of crisp sheer that outlines the square neckline and makes the deep cuffs to the sleeves.

Colors are bright red, a vivid blue, and a subtle quaker gray tint. Priced around the $12 limit, these look far more luxurious and are so different. Any one will cheerfully go without lunch money to own any one of the trio.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Fresh from France, an elegant new perfume!

This is the kind of a perfume we like. It has that precious touch of zip. Not vulgar. Heaven forbid. But it has a nice little punch all its own. As it dries it takes on more and more quiet charm, but that little undertone of punch is still there. This is what makes it interesting.

There is a faint oriental note to this, which shouldn't frighten you a bit. It's that breath of mystery that gives it its depth. Of course no perfume ever strikes one person exactly as it strikes another, but this seems to us a find because it blends a slight bang with the orthodox formula for perfume beauty.

This perfume takes its name from the French potteries founded by Louis XV. You can buy it in bulk—and when you do take a look at the exquisite Sevres porcelain bottle from which drams are dispensed. The regular bottles aren't so ornate, but they're charming too. Although it is sealed and packaged in France, the price isn't extremely high.

This has a companion piece in cologne—marvelous stuff, too. It has all the "lift" of the perfume. We can recommend it as a summer friend. You'll like its big bottle; it's the kind you can get a healthy grip on and it contains plenty. We like to use colognes lavishly. Don't you?

Age Disparity Makes Trouble for Youngster

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"It's just as well for Bill to be away," said a mother the other day. Bill is 20 and has taken a job in a distant city. "Being the youngest and the only boy hasn't been good for him. His sisters won't take him seriously and in spite of the fact they love him dearly they make fun of him constantly. I believe it keeps him from growing up."

A big gap in ages sometimes produces real problems in a family. The continued babying of the youngest may result; or a sort of bullying—perhaps due to an unconscious jealousy, or too much close association between young people far apart in age.

Here are quotations from a letter that ties up with this subject: "Sixteen, 13, and 5 are the ages of my children. My 5 year old is becoming the proverbial torment; a kid brother. He is brilliant, but his behavior worries me. His brother and sister have no patience with him and are always at him. Of course, he is irritating to them, but it's gotten so they try to bully him. Have you any suggestions?"

Part of my reply to this letter follows: "I can understand how trying the gap in ages is in your family and, in fact, the general assortment of 16, 13, and 5; so don't think me an idealist when I suggest I believe one really practical way out of one part of your problem with your 5 year old is to enlist the understanding, protectiveness, and coöperation of the older son and daughter. This would not only do a lot for you and your little son, but would be a really fine experience in tolerance and self-control for the older children.

"I am sure, from the quality of your letter, you can put it to them so they can see how hard it is for one small one among a lot of adults and older sisters and brothers; and since they have a great deal of freedom of action they have actually the power to make a small boy not only miserable, but make him feel powerless. Also, if you think there may be a latent jealousy existing toward your small son deal with it wisely, but be sure it is done indirectly.

"It is quite true that an unusual and highly intelligent child requires more careful handling, but at the same time he is often so much more satisfactory kind of child to have, being unusual himself. I shouldn't be at all surprised but you could get a few of your ideas over to him, too, although I must admit that with the younger children I put most of my stock in the indirect approach to their personality and behavior."

In winding up let me say that there is almost nothing that a child of any age responds to more than being treated as an intelligent companion, instead of as a pest or a baby.

EUROPE'S BEST BOXERS READY FOR TOURNEY

Bouts Friday Decide Golden Gloves Team.

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VENICE, Italy, April 25.—Two of the four representatives the European Amateur Boxing association will send to Chicago to supervise the training of the team for the International Golden Gloves bouts in Chicago on May 18 are veterans of the world war. They are Dr. Franz Metzner of Germany and Arthur Kankovszky of Hungary. Both fought on the side of the central powers and both were wounded on the Russian front.

Arthur Kankovszky.

Kankovszky held the rank of captain of infantry. Three days after he reached the battle lines he was shot in the hand but was back in action a week later. He was wounded in the arm several months afterward but was incapacitated only for a short while. He served four years and now holds the rank of major in the Hungarian army. Metzner was shot in the leg and he still suffers from fatigue when he stands for a considerable time.

Others to Accompany Team.

Other representatives who will sail with Europe's boxing champions are Oscar Soderlund of Stockholm, president of the International Boxing federation, and Count Gerardo Leonardi of Milan.

Boxers from all over Europe today are preparing to invade Berlin where, Friday night, will take place the tournament that will decide the personnel of the squad for the trip to Chicago. Italy, Germany, and Poland appear to have the strongest candidates but Sweden, Ireland, France, and Hungary all are hopeful of placing at least one man.

This will be Kankovszky's sixth trip to the United States. Against the wishes of his mother, he and a friend sailed for Canada when he was a young man. They worked in lumber camps and with railroad section crews for a few months, when they decided to set out for Chicago. Their money gave out in St. Paul and they made the rest of the trip on freight trains. They were detected twice and had to seek refuge in the woods to escape the wrath of train officials.

Misjudge the Market.

Upon their arrival in Chicago, Kankovszky's friend fell heir to a few hundred dollars. They were determined to become Chicago business men. They rented a store on the west side and laid in a heavy stock of Christmas trees. They were disappointed when they attracted no customers. Further inquiry revealed they were operating in a Jewish neighborhood, where there was little demand for Christmas trees. They disposed of their business and returned to Hungary.

Kankovszky, whose coöperation has made possible the arrangement which annually brings to Chicago Europe's greatest amateur fighters, was heavyweight boxing champion of Hungary before the war. He also holds records for marksmanship and swimming.

Reading in an English newspaper about a man who jumped off London bridge into the Thames with his hands tied behind his back, Kankovszky waged 60 pengos [about $12] that he could duplicate the feat. With his hands tied behind his back, he leaped into the Danube from the highest bridge in Budapest and swam to shore safely. His record for endurance in underwater swimming still stands.

Over the Counter!

Over the counter sale of tickets for the seventh international Golden Gloves bouts in Chicago Stadium the night of May 18 is going on now. Tickets may be obtained between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. in the lobby of Tribune Tower and in the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Ailing Tiger Limps His Way Out of Derby

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 25.—This has been a sad afternoon over at the head of the Churchill Downs mile chute, where a barn full of horses owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago lazily are nibbling hay.

Mrs. Mars' trainer, Bob McGarvey, was there. At fifteen minute intervals he walked down the row of stalls to peer in at the door of one of them, in which a likely looking horse with a woe-begone expression on his face was standing. The horse was Tiger. He limped as he made his way feebly about his spacious bedroom.

Two weeks ago McGarvey and a great many others believed Tiger would win the Kentucky Derby, come the afternoon of May 7, but crippled horses don't win Derbies. They don't even run in them and for a week now Tiger has been a crippled horse, the result of a stone having become wedged in his foot.

He's Out of the Derby.

McGarvey tonight announced definitly that Tiger will not start in the Derby.

How would you feel?

Ten months ago McGarvey had a 2 year old colt which everybody acclaimed the best of the year. He had every right to win this year's Derby. That colt was Sky Larking. He was so badly crippled in a race in New York that he had to be destroyed.

How would you feel now, with Derby day racing rapidly near, if a colt which could have carried on nobly in Sky Larking's place, as Tiger could have done, had pulled up lame so close to Derby day?

That's how McGarvey feels.

McGarvey feels he still has a 100 to 1 chance to send a Derby winner to the post for his wealthy Chicago boss.

He's not at all discouraged by Mountain Ridge's failure in the Ben Ali handicap at Keeneland last Saturday.

"We," he was referring to himself and Mrs. Mars' jocky, Alfred Robertson, "simply tried the wrong system in that race.

"Had we attempted to have him come from behind, instead of running in front during the early stages, there would have been a different story. Maybe we couldn't have beaten the older Main Man, but we would have been in front of all the others. Mountain Ridge is a good horse. He will prove it to everybody before long."

Other Candidates Best.

The other candidates on the Derby scene, all rapidly nearing peak form, loafed out the day, except for their customary setting up exercises.

Track Superintendent Tom Young was putting fresh straw bedding on the floor of a stall along Derby row. It is to be occupied by the Louisiana Derby winner, Wise Fox.

He will come from the Aurora track in Illinois in charge of his owner, A. G. Tarn of Canada. He has been freshened up at Aurora following his unexpected victory in the annual 3 year old special in New Orleans a month ago.

Mrs. Rosa Hoots, Owner of Black Gold, Dies

Tulsa, Okla., April 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Rosa M. Hoots, 70, Osage Indian woman, whose horse, Black Gold, won the Kentucky Derby in 1924, died here yesterday.

SEABISCUIT ENDS LONG TRIP TO BELMONT TRACK

Trainer Makes Plans for $100,000 Race.

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit, monarch of the handicap division, today completed his long trip from California, arriving in Belmont Park in company with sixteen stablemates and a pony shortly after noon. Trainer Tom Smith made the journey, but Howard will not arrive until a few weeks before Seabiscuit's race against Glen Riddle farm's War Admiral in the $100,000 special on Memorial day.

Two cars were required for the shipment of the Howard horses, and the greatest care was provided by railroad officials. When they arrived on Long Island a special engine was hooked on for the short haul from there to Belmont Park. The unloading of Seabiscuit was witnessed by a large crowd.

A Good Traveler.

When Seabiscuit stepped from his car he looked none the worse for the arduous 3,000 mile trip that got under way at San Francisco last Thursday. Smith was in the same car and said that the horse was quiet and acted as if he enjoyed the ride. "He is a grand traveler," said the man who has developed Seabiscuit from an $8,000 purchase into one of the outstanding thoroughbred winners of all time. "Nothing bothers him, and the beauty is he never suffers ill effects from a trip such as this one."

A quick glance at Seabiscuit revealed that the Howard horse has not lost an ounce of flesh, despite his steady campaigning over two straight years. In fact Seabiscuit looked more attractive to the eye, as his coat gleamed in the sun. His two hind legs were bandaged as a precaution. He will occupy special quarters in Joseph E. Widener's private barn. A guard will be placed in front of it 24 hours a day. War Admiral will be guarded the same way.

May Pass Up Pimlico Race.

Trainer Smith has no plans for Seabiscuit beyond getting him limbered up in a day or so, but he did intimate that the horse might try one preliminary before the mile and a quarter special.

Howard decided to ship Seabiscuit direct from California to Belmont Park instead of sending him to Pimlico. He changed his mind at the last minute and this is taken to mean that Seabiscuit may pass up the $20,000 Dixie handicap at Pimlico, in which he would carry only 130 pounds.

In his last start Seabiscuit set a new track record of 1:49 for a mile and an eighth, winning a $15,000 handicap at Bay Meadows. Prior to that he was beaten a nose by Maxwell Howard's lightly weighted three year old Stagehand, now the Kentucky Derby favorite, in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap.

No Price Raises.

Regular ticket prices, ranging from $1.50 for general admission and $2.50 in the unreserved grandstand to $8 and $10 for box seats, will prevail for the $100,000 race.

"This is the public's race and we want to make it available to the largest number of racing enthusiasts," said Cornelius V. Whitney, vice president of the Westchester Racing association.

These prices contrast with the admission charges, ranging from $5 to $22, for the famous match race at Belmont in 1923 between Papyrus and Zev, respective winners of the English and Kentucky Derbies.

AILING LEG PUTS RUPPERT UNDER PHYSICIAN'S CARE

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, was confined to his home tonight under the care of his physician. He was suffering from an inflammation of the veins in his left leg, but his condition was said not to be serious.

"I have prescribed complete rest for Mr. Ruppert in order to avoid serious consequences," his physician said. "There is a blood clot which might become aggravated with activity, and to avoid this it is better he remain off his feet for a few days."

The Yankee owner, who will be 71 years old next Aug. 5, became ill immediately after he signed Joe Di Maggio in the Yankees' downtown office.

The illness has forced Ruppert to cancel a proposed visit to Kansas City, where he was to attend the home opening ceremonies of his American association farm club Friday.

ROSS KNOCKS OUT VENNER IN SEVENTH ROUND

Des Moines, Ia., April 25.—(AP)—Barney Ross, welterweight champion, tonight got in six and one-half practice rounds for his title match with Henry Armstrong next month before he stopped Bobby Venner of Hastings, Neb.

The fight, scheduled for ten rounds, drew 3,000.

Ross, after putting the 23 year old Nebraska boy on the floor four times, wound up his night's work with a vicious crack to the jaw which sent Venner spinning into the ropes and down to the canvas. Before the referee could start his count Venner's second threw in the towel.

Tony Galento Is a Father; Son to Learn to Write

Orange, N. J., April 25.—[Special.]—Tony Galento, the heavyweight boxer, was the father of a son today, and Tony proclaimed to the world that "the kid" is going to learn to read and write, so he can give out his autographs faster than his dad does.

The son, who weighs six and one-quarter pounds, was born to Mary Galento in Orange Memorial hospital yesterday, and Tony gave out plans for the boy's future at once.

"The kid ain't gonna be no dope like me," he said. "I can't write my name so fast. When a bunch wants me to sign autographs when I go out of town, I can't do it quick enough. But I'm always practicin' up and now I'm better. That kid of mine is gonna learn lots and be real smart. Maybe he'll be a sawbones."

Tony was simultaneously collecting bets at his side street spaghetti spot. He bet all comers that the bany would be a boy.

Cain Is Picked to Pitch Against Whitehill.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The .500 White Sox this afternoon will see what they can do about slowing down the .833 Cleveland Indians. It will be a delayed series opener in Comiskey park, yesterday's scheduled affair having been postponed because of unsatisfactory weather.

Earl Whitehill, one of Cedar Rapids' pioneer citizens, and Merritt Cain, the pride of the Georgia silo belt, will pitch. They were to have worked yesterday and their respective managers said after the postponement that they would be held over.

Sox Games Are Close.

The Indians haven't lost a game since they dropped the opener to the St. Louis Browns. Unlike the White Sox, they have a flock of pitchers capable of going nine innings. They have won five games in a row and, of course, are hungry for more, especially while they are meeting the soft touches such as the Tigers and Sox, who have shown themselves pitiably behind schedule in the conditioning process.

The Sox are just a little short of being a good ball team after six games, three of which they won by a margin of one run. While they won by the skimpiest of margins, two of their losses were suffered by a margin of one run. Not a Sox pitcher has pitched a complete game, however, and Clint Brown has finished five of the six games played.

Sox in Good Spirits.

The Sox are in good spirits, something that could not have been said of them as the start of the season was approaching. The panic over the absence of Luke Appling has abated somewhat with the excellent fielding of 'Boze Berger. Boze has hit only .143 and perhaps never could hit more than .200 as a regular, but his light work with the bat has not made him a man apart. The entire outfit is batting only .238, with a pinch batter and two pitchers topping the list. The only .300 hitters among the regulars are Hank Steinbacher with .444, Gee Walker with .333, and Marv Owen with .304. Most of the others have looked rather ridiculous at the plate.

LOUIS-SCHMELING BOUT BOOKED FOR YANKEE STADIUM

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—The world heavyweight championship fight between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling, scheduled for June 22, will be held in Yankeee stadium, it was learned today.

Although no official announcement was made by Mike Jacobs, president of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, which is promoting the battle, it was revealed from a reliable source that preparations already are under way for the fight at the Yankee ball park.

Speculation on where Promoter Jacobs would decide to promote the struggle between the colored champion and his German challenger has existed for more than a year. Several cities, notably Chicago, Detroit, and Philadelphia, came to the fore with attractive offers for selection as the site.

Last June, when Louis won the heavyweight crown from James J. Braddock in Chicago it was estimated that upwards of $3,000,000, in the form of expenditures for transportation, lodging, entertainment, and necessaries was attracted to Chicago.

Mungo Again Consults Specialist About Arm

Philadelphia, Pa., April 25.—[Special.]— Van Lingle Mungo, Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, was in Philadelphia today consulting a physician about his right arm, which has not functioned in the real Mungo style since last July. The consultation was the second Mungo has had with a Philadelphia specialist. He saw him after failing to finish the season's opener in Philadelphia last Tuesday and was told to return after he had hurled again.

HAMMER FOUR PITCHERS FOR 7TH STRAIGHT

Lazzeri Hits Homer with One On.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 25.—The Cubs put on one of their 1937 fainting spells this afternoon and upon reviving discovered they had been robbed. Up to the time of the big swoon they were riding proudly out in front on a two run margin with only two innings to go. The currently boistrous Pirates didn't need the last of the two innings. They did it all in the eighth by hammering four runs across the counter and thus maintaining a clean slate of seven straight triumphs in their season's chores. The score was 8 to 6.

Al Todd.

The eighth inning debacle was the second of the afternoon for the Cubs. They built up a two run lead in the second inning. That looked ample until the fifth, when Clay Bryant suddenly collapsed and Al Epperly's rescue act was ruined by an error on the part of Stan Hack. Four runs grew from this outbreak. Then, with Bob Logan apparently in control of the enemy, the Cubs stepped up with four runs of their own in the seventh, but Logan wilted in the eighth and away went the decision.

Pirates Strike in Fifth.

Bryant was a great pitcher for four innings, during which he allowed only two hits. He also assisted in hitting his team into the two run lead in the second. Five hits, which included doubles by Lloyd Waner and Rookie Johnny Rizzo, finished him without warning in the fifth. The Pirates didn't need five hits in the eighth to complete their second four run episode. Four sufficed, three were made off Logan and the other off Bill Lee, who finally ended the disastrous inning with a double play which erased a full house.

The Cubs got their original two run lead off Russ Bauers in the second because of hits by Galan, O'Dea, and Bryant. The lengthy youngster then stopped them on one hit per inning until the seventh. Galan also was in on this assault, driving in two runs with a double. A moment later Tony Lazzeri applied the punch which looked good enough to flatten the giddy Pirates for the day. The ex-Yankee, playing short because of Bill Jurges' infirmities, clouted the ball over the fence to account for the Chicagoans' 6 to 4 edge, which vanished eventually.

Cubs Go to Work

After the quiet first inning the Cubs got down to business in the second and hammered out three hits for a two run lead. Galan started it with his first hit of the season—a single to center—after Marty had popped out. Lazzeri also popped out, but O'Dea smashed the first pitch for a line double off the right field wall, scoring Galan. Bryant shot a two bagger down the left field line and O'Dea ran home. When Hack

TWO TEAMS OF FAMOUS TWINS TO RUN AT PENN

North Texas Teachers to Send Rideouts, Browns.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 25.—[Special.] — The famous running twins, Wayne and Blaine Rideout, and Elmer and Delmer Brown, and their teammates from North Texas State Teachers college, of Denton, Tex., will arrive here tomorrow to complete their workouts for the 44th annual Pennsylvania relay carnival which starts Friday afternoon on Franklin field.

One set of twins, the Browns, demonstrated to eastern track followers last year that they can match their speed with any sprinters or quarter milers in the country.

Along with Alvin Chrisman, who returns again this year, and Dave Stovall, who has graduated, the Brown boys won for Texas Teachers, the quarter mile and the class B one mile championship races. In the half mile the Texans finished first by a good margin but were disqualified for twice running out of the passing zone in transferring the baton.

Twins to Run.

Wayne and Blaine Rideout will appear on Franklin field for the first time when they run in the sprint and distance medley championship races on Friday afternoon. The following afternoon they will run the third and fourth legs of the four mile relay.

Chock Sportsman, coach of the Texas State team believes that his team has an excellent chance to break the relay carnival record for the distance medley and may come close to smashing Indiana's world mark.

Under adverse weather conditions, the Texans were clocked in 10.14.4 seconds in winning the distance medley in the annual University of Texas relay games. The time is 10.3 seconds slower than Indiana's relay record and 14 seconds slower than the world's record.

How They Will Line Up.

In this event the Rideout twins will pair with Delmer Brown and Henry Morgan, the latter champion miler of the Lone Star conference. In the sprint medley Wayne Rideout will run the anchor leg with Alvin Chrisman, the first leg; Elmer Brown, the second, and Delmer Brown, third.

The half mile and mile teams will be the same. In the former Elmer Brown runs first; Alvin Chrisman, second, James Phillips, third, and Delmer Brown, last. Claude Everett replaces James Phillips in the quarter mile with the Brown twins and Chrisman completing the team.

The one mile team, with the exception of James Phillips for Stovall, will be the same as ran the fastest mile relay of last year's carnival, 3.19.6, breaking the former record for the class B mile by eight-tenths of a second. The Brown twins and Alvin Chrisman complete the quartet in the mile.

3,000 to Compete.

The four mile team will have Jack Sahling, a sophomore; Henry Morgan and the Rideouts, Wayne and Blaine, running in that order.

The Texans will be the first of more than 3,000 athletes from 500 colleges and schools, to arrive for what, judging from the caliber of the athletes and teams represented, promises to be one of the greatest in the long history of the relay carnival.

With Glenn Cunningham and Gene Venzke running in a mile special; Don Lash and Joe McCluskey heading a field in a 3,000 meter special; star sprinters and hurdlers in the 100 yard dash and the 120 yard hurdles, and the largest entry list in history in the American championship relays, the competition on Friday and Saturday should be the best in many years.

PURPLE ELEVEN ENDS DRILL WITH GAME SATURDAY

An intra-squad football game in Dyche stadium Saturday heads a busy week for Northwestern athletic teams. The game will wind up six weeks of spring practice.

Other events on the Wildcat calendar include a tennis match with Marquette and a baseball game with Lake Forest today in Evanston. Most of the seventy-five players who will take part in the intra-squad football game are freshmen. Only twelve of the twenty lettermen who return in the fall took part in the spring drills. They will be divided equally between the two teams.

Eight Lettermen for Line.

The presence of eight lettermen made the going harder for the freshmen linemen. Veterans on hand were John Haman, center; Frank Young, tackle; Don Guritz, Dick Wells, Hal Method, and Fred Heitman, guards, and Bob Daly and Tom Eby, ends.

In spite of these veterans, several yearling linemen attracted notice. Among them were James Smith, colored end of Aurora; Corne Aarts, tackle of Oak Park; Art Niedbalski of South Bend, and Joe Lokanc of East Chicago, and Paul Heimenz of Buffalo, center.

KIRBY'S RETURN PUTS TROOP TRIO AT FULL POWER

The Chicago Black Horse Troop polo team will be intact for its game Saturday with Culver Military academy in the 124th Field Artillery armory with the return to the lineup of Lieut. William F. Kirby.

Lieut. Kirby two months ago suffered a broken wrist. He saw action for the first time since the accident when the troop met Fort Sheridan last Thursday night in the Washington park arena, and won, 11 to 8. His performance revealed that he was none the worse for the mishap.

Strauss Fills Position.

During Lieut. Kirby's absence from the lineup his place was taken by Lieut. Richard K. Strauss, who will be an alternate Saturday. The troop team will be rounded out by Capt. Roy D. Keehn Jr. and Lieut. Harry O. Owen Jr.

Also on the program for the ninth annual Black Horse Troop show Saturday will be a high goal polo game, in which a team of all stars will oppose the 124th Field Artillery trio which captured the Metropolitan league senior title and then won the 6 to 12 goal championship against the Ridgewood, N. J., Polo club.

Closes Indoor Season.

The Black Horse Troop show will close the indoor polo season. Three other features on the program include a precision jump drill, a performance by the troop mounted band, and a jousting contest by two armored knights on horseback.

IN NATION-WIDE TRUCK POLL
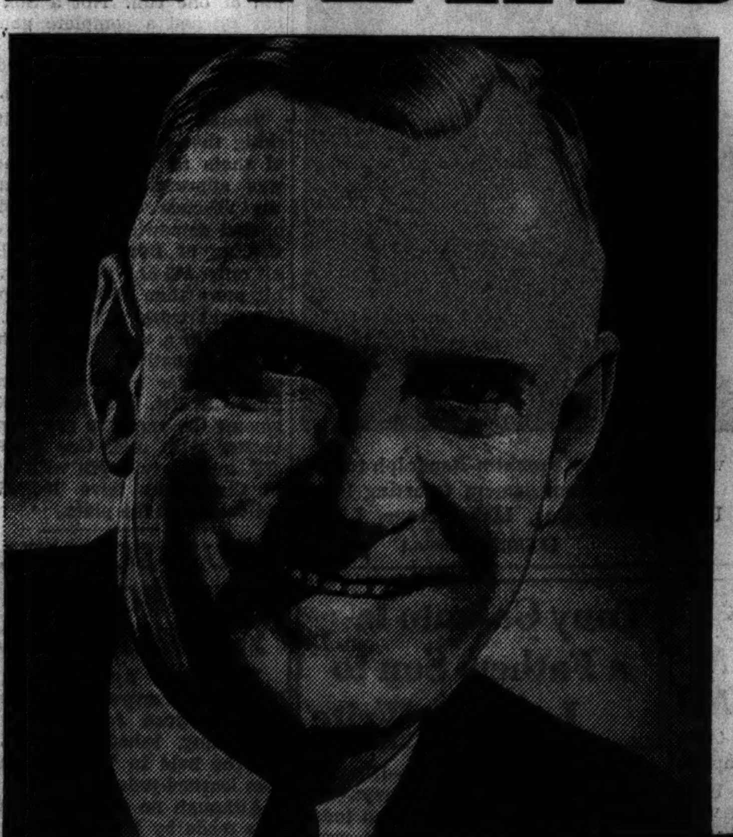
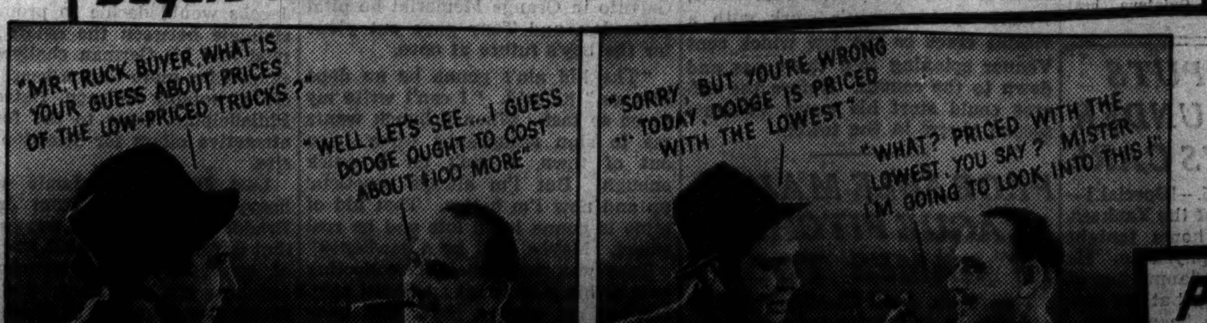
GUESS DODGE PRICE
UP TO $135 MORE.. Yet Dodge
Is Priced With the Lowest!



So Much Extra Value in Dodge Trucks... That Buyers from Coast to Coast Over-estimate Price



"MR. TRUCK BUYER, WHAT IS YOUR GUESS ABOUT PRICES OF THE LOW-PRICED TRUCKS?"
"WELL, LET'S SEE...I GUESS DODGE OUGHT TO COST ABOUT $100 MORE"
"SORRY, BUT YOU'RE WRONG TODAY. DODGE IS PRICED WITH THE LOWEST"
"WHAT? PRICED WITH THE LOWEST, YOU SAY? MISTER I'M GOING TO LOOK INTO THIS!"

Hundreds of truck buyers from New York to California were asked in personal interviews to estimate truck prices in the low price field. A surprising percentage over-estimated the Dodge truck prices.

Many buyers over-estimated Dodge truck prices $100 and more. When told the Dodge price, some immediately checked on the phone with local Dodge dealers. The answer they got was, "Dodge is priced with the lowest!"

A RECENT national poll of truck buyers reveals astonishing price news. Questioned from coast to coast, hundreds guessed wrong on the price position of America's low-priced trucks. Many answered that they believed Dodge trucks "cost up to $135 more than the others." A few actually thought Dodge "cost as much as $200 more." Yet Dodge is now priced with the lowest!

Best Proof of Extra Value!

Maybe we have told America too convincingly about the sensational extra-value features built into the new 1938 Dodge trucks. Perhaps people simply can't believe that Dodge can give so much extra for your money. Perhaps it is hard to believe Dodge trucks can include dozens of money-saving features and still be priced with the lowest. Yet it's the truth!

Dodge has genuine hydraulic brakes and any truck driver will tell you they are the best. Dodge has four piston rings instead of the usual three. Dodge has four main bearings, not three. Dodge has roller bearing universals, exhaust valve seat inserts, Amola steel springs and axle shafts. Anywhere you look...in the cab, under the hood, from front bumper to rear axle ...you will see feature after feature, each one of which obviously indicates "extra-quality" construction.

Test a Dodge...Be the Judge!

Possibly you, too, have thought of Dodge trucks as being "worth more"..."higher priced." Today, in most cases, there is only a few dollars difference in the prices of the low-priced trucks. And Dodge is priced with the lowest!

Remember, Dodge makes a truck to fit your needs in its complete line ranging from ½-ton commercial cars to heavy duty trucks. So, before you buy any truck, ask your Dodge dealer to send a 1938 Dodge truck for you to try. Phone him today.

ROOKIE'S BATTING HELPS ATHLETICS BEAT YANKS, 6-1

Lodigiani Hits Home Run and Two Singles.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 25.—(AP)—On the combination of Lee Ross' seven hit pitching and Dario Lodigiani's consistent hitting the Philadelphia Athletics today routed the New York Yankees, 6 to 1.

All of the champions' hits were singles, three by Flash Gordon, Pitcher Joe Beggs, and Red Rolfe giving the Yanks their run in the fifth. Meanwhile Lodigiani, recruit second baseman from Oakland of the Pacific Coast league, was pounding out a home run and a pair of singles in four trips to the plate.

His homer, in the second, put the Athletics in front to stay. Lodigiani's first single, in the fourth, drove home Hasson, who had doubled. He scored the final run himself in the eighth on a double by Hayes.

In the seventh the Athletics got three runs on two singles, a base on balls, and an infield out. Mule Haas' smash to left brought in two of the runs. Score:

DETROIT, 10; ST. LOUIS, 1.

St. Louis, Mo., April 25.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers, in a batting slump since the start of the season, unloosed a mighty attack in the opening game of their series with the Browns today and won easily, 10 to 1.

The Tigers pounded three hurlers for 13 hits, two of them home runs. The last one by Chet Laabs came with the bases loaded in the fourth. Vernon Kennedy went the distance for Detroit. Score:

CARDS SHUT OUT IN 3D STRAIGHT BY REDS, 5 TO 0

Cincinnati, O., April 25.—(AP)—Hurling three hit ball, Paul Derringer inflicted a third successive shutout on the St. Louis Cardinals today, Cincinnati winning, 5 to 0, to shove Frankie Frisch's men into the National league cellar.

It was the second victory of the season, both for the Reds and for Derringer. Last Thursday he pitched four hit ball to beat the Cubs, 6 to 2.

Cincinnati got to Bob Weiland for four runs on six hits in the first two innings, including a homer by Kampouris in the second, and was well on the way to other scoring in the third until subdued by Roy Henshaw, who yielded no hits and walked only one through three innings.

Henshaw gave way for a pinch hitter in the sixth, however, and the Reds resumed their bat work at the expense of Bill McGee and Guy Bush. Enos Slaughter, Cardinal right fielder, collected two hits off Derringer. Score:

Pirates Come from Behind Twice to Defeat Cubs, 8 to 6

drew a walk it looked as if the rally had only started. Instead it ended right here on Herman's fly to P. Waner.

The Cubs had Bauers staggering in the third, but he revived in time to keep himself in the game. Collins led off with a single to center on the first pitch and jogged down to second on Demaree's sacrifice. A pass to Marty complicated the situation for Bauers, but only for a few moments. He climbed part way out of the mixup when Galan popped to Young and got away entirely when Lazzeri was the victim of a tall foul back of the plate.

Clay Gets Out of Trouble.

Bryant, who was slowed down only by a lone pass in the first two innings, fell into such a ticklish spot in the third that the relief corps got up and went to work. Bryant, however, didn't need their help. The jam was precipitated by a pass to Bauers after Lazzeri had thrown out Berres. Lloyd Waner whistled a single into center, but the other half of the Waner menace was disposed of by Herman. Rizzo also walked, thus bringing up the dangerous Vaughan. The latter fouled to Collins and the disturbance ended.

O'Dea opened the fourth with a single to right for his second hit, but was on second base when the inning closed. The Pirates' fourth also opened with a hit, the second off Bryant. It was a long low single to right center by Suhr. Bryant and Marty handled the remainder of the inning. Bryant made a few pitches and Marty caught successive flies from the bats of Brubaker, Young, and Berres.

Pirates Finally Revolt.

Bryant's downfall in the fifth started with a single to left by Bauers, Lloyd Waner doubled to right center. Paul Waner hoisted a short fly to Galan. Rizzo picked on the first pitch and doubled into the left field corner, Bauers and Lloyd Waner scoring. Vaughan helped to lessen the tension by popping to Collins. Suhr singled to right and Rizzo scored. Brubaker pushed a single through Hack's hands and away went Bryant. Epperly came in and the inning should have ended immediately, but Hack fumbled Young's grounder, filling the bags. A pass to Berres forced Suhr to score. Then Bauers fanned.

A single to center by O'Dea—his third hit—was the means of getting Epperly out of the game in the sixth. Thinking a rally might be built up, Manager Grimm ordered Cavarretta to bat for Epperly. Phil, who hadn't appeared in a box score since he was hit on the right wrist by a pitched ball in an exhibition with the Browns April 13, struck out. Hack fouled to Berres for the third out.

The Boys Get Four.

The Cubs' seventh started mildly enough. Herman was thrown out by Young and Collins caromed a single off Suhr's glove, but Demaree struck out. Marty kept a spark of life in the inning by walking. Galan brought it back into the bloom of health with his double against the right field wall, Collins and Marty scoring the tying runs. Lazzeri then boomed his homer over the distant left field fence, followed Galan across the plate to put the Chicago troops ahead, 6 to 4.

The Pirates became a bit boisterous in the seventh, but were subdued by Logan. Brubaker walked with two out and sprinted to third on Young's single to left. Tobin, a pitcher who is fairly handy with a bat, swung for Berres but was stopped cold on a pop to Herman.

Todd Starts Trouble.

Todd, who took over the catching when Brown became the Pirate pitcher, started the decisive eighth with a single to center. Dickshot batted for Lloyd Waner and Logan walked him. Lazzeri made a neat pickup of Paul Waner's hard bounder to force Dickshot. The bases were loaded with a pass to Rizzo, whereupon Vaughan singled over short, Todd and Paul Waner scoring. Suhr singled to center, scoring Rizzo and knocking Logan out of the act. Brubaker greeted Lee with a double to left center and Vaughan counted. The bases were refilled with an intentional pass to Young. Brown then grounded to Lazzeri for a double play.

The Cubs' ninth was brief. Brown dropped Demaree, Marty and Galan in order.

Iowa Plays Annual Spring Football Game May 14

Iowa City, Ia., April 25.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa's annual spring intrasquad football game will be held May 14.

CARLETON FACES BRANDT, PIRATES IN SECOND GAME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 25.—Tex Carleton, who was trimmed by the Reds in his first start of the season, will pitch for the Cubs tomorrow. The Pirates will use Ed [Dutch] Brandt, the southpaw.

Dizzy Dean didn't rest today on the four hit shutout honors he captured in his Chicago debut on Sunday. Before the game Diz was in the outfield, running from one side to the other in pursuit of fungoes which were aimed where he couldn't reach 'em. It's the orthodox stunt for improving a player's legs and endurance.

Bill Jurges, whose right thumb was dislocated when Owen slid into him in last Saturday's game, tried to get back into the lineup again today, but found himself unfit for work. He may need another couple days' rest.

Between the Pirates' customary early splurge in the race and the possibilities of the Cubs as pennant contenders there was an unusual outpouring of customers for a Monday game. The attendance was 9,235. Some of them gave Dean a healthy boo when he walked across the field from the clubhouse to the bench in the first inning.

BONTHRON HOLDS DAILY DRILLS FOR COMEBACK

Princeton, N. J., April 25.—[Special.] — Bill Bonthron, formerly Princeton track captain, is planning a comeback by going through a program of light workouts in Palmer stadium. Bonthron hopes to enter the two mile race in the fifth annual Princeton invitation in June.

Bonthron also would like to be in the 5,000 meter run in the 1940 Olympics. He plans to test himself in competition in two meets early in June.

Bonthron has never won an invitation event. In 1934 he lost to Glen Cunningham when the Kansas flyer set a world record of 4.06.7 for the mile.

MILLS AND COALS OPEN SEMI-PRO SEASON SUNDAY

The Mills and the Spencer Coals, Chicago semi-pro representatives in the recently organized Tri-State Baseball league, will open their seasons Sunday afternoon, the Mills meeting the Madison Blues and the Coals playing the Sheboygan Chairs.

The Mills will play in Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, while the Coals will be hosts in Spencer park, 4200 North Central avenue.

Coals' Lineup Substantially Same.

Manager Nate Shyer of the Coals will use substantially the same team which won the city and state semi-pro title last year, while Bill Harley, Mills pilot, promises surprises in new players. Newcomers in the Mills' lineup will be Eldon MacLean, a pitcher once with Washington; Milton Carman, a first baseman; and George Caithamer, who once was the property of the White Sox.

Harley also has found promise in three other pitching rookies. They are Berger Larson, who went from the University of Michigan to Davenport; Roy Malstrom, who is graduating from the Midwest league, and Connie Mack Berry from North Carolina state.

Coals Lose Stevens, Lindquist.

Blacks Lead by a Single Point in Roller Skate Derby

The black team led the whites by one point, 57 to 56, at the conclusion of last night's racing in the roller Derby in the Coliseum. The Gertie Scholl-Jack Cummings and Ivy King-Johnny Rosasco combinations were tied at 21 points for first place in the individual team competition.

HEMSLEY TAKES 'TWO DRINKS' AT $125 A SNIFTER

Rollicking Rollie Also Is Handed Suspension.

The many Chicago friends of Rollie Hemsley, former Cub catcher, will have no opportunity to hold a "day" for him during the current stay of the Cleveland Indians, his present owners, in Comiskey park. The Indians arrived in Chicago yesterday, but Rollie, who had caught Bob Feller in the latter's triumph over the Tigers in Detroit Sunday, was in Cleveland, pondering misdeeds which had led to another suspension.

Vitt Announces Fine.

Manager Oscar Vitt of the Indians said Hemsley had been fined $250 and taken off the pay roll until such time as he feels he can behave.

In Cleveland, C. C. Slapnicka, general manager of the club, said Hemsley faces an indefinite suspension and President Alva Bradley concurred. Hemsley, who lost $5,000 in payless suspensions while a member of the St. Louis Browns last season, said the suspension was welcome as an opportunity to rest his left hand, which was bruised by Feller's fast pitching Sunday.

Says He Had a Couple.

DOUBLE AGAIN TO BE ON 2D AND 3D RACES AT AURORA

Daily double betters at the Fox Valley Jocky club's meeting in Aurora, which opens May 2 for a four week run, again will be asked to pick the winners of the second and third races in their attempts on the extra payoff.

Aurora, which instituted the daily double on Chicago tracks, has gained quite a reputation for its yield in this form of wagering. Three of last year's payoffs have helped build up that reputation.

On May 19 the combination of Polanto Seth and Canusee was worth $1,663.60 to the winners. Nine days earlier Runaway Target and Super Luck combined to produce a $1,285.50 ticket, and on May 8 Poppinalong and Beryl King paid off at $937.60 for each $2 invested.

Among Best of Year.

In addition to the daily double the Fox Valley Jocky club again will feature the quinella on the last race of the day. The quinella is an exclusive Aurora feature and the one-two or two-one picking has proved popular.

On opening day and on each of the four Saturdays of the meeting, the quinella will be on the eighth race. On week days there will be but seven contests each afternoon.

Choose Staf Thursday.

The staf to man the giant totalizator will be chosen on Thursday of this week, according to Witfield Brooks of Madison county, Ill., who is in charge of the tote department. Brooks has set 2 p. m. Thursday as first roll call for the mutuel clerks.

By the end of the week the official family will be complete and awaiting the bugle call for the opening of the season.

AMBERS KNOCKED OUT BY PUNCHING BAG IN WORKOUT

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—Lou Ambers, lightweight champion of the world, was knocked out today. This first flattening in Lou's career was perpetrated by a punching bag—not the kind of a punching bag that walks and gets paid for being slapped around, but a real, honest to goodness punching bag.

The champion was whacking one of those bags that are fastened to the ceiling and to the floor at Stillman's after a four round workout with human punching bags. He blasted the bag with a right and the top hook loosened and the heavy chain fell on Lou's skull, knocking the champion cold.

RIGGS UPSET BY HENDRIX IN FINAL OF TENNIS MEET

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 25.—(AP)—Arthur Hendrix, 24 year old Lakeland, Fla., player, upset Robert Riggs of Chicago, ranked No. 2 nationally, 4-6, 4-6, 8-6, 6-4, 6-2, in the finals of the Tennessee valley tennis tournament today.

Hendrix and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., scored another upset by trouncing Riggs and Bernie Coghlan of Santa Monica, Cal., 6-0, 6-2, to take the doubles title.

Singer Yields No Hits as De Kalb Wins, 3 to 0

De Kalb, Ill., April 25.—(AP)—Southpaw Harold Singer turned in a no hit no run pitching performance today as De Kalb Teachers opened their Illinois intercollegiate conference baseball season with a 3 to 0 victory over Elmhurst.

Two bases on balls and an error permitted three Elmhurst runners to reach first base, not none advanced any farther. Singer struck out ten.

Iowa State Polo Team to Meet Alabama Poly

Ames, Ia., April 25.—[Special.]—The Iowa State college polo team will open its schedule here on Wednesday afternoon against Alabama Polytechnic institute.

Nagurski to Meet Londos or Ali Babi

The winner of the Jim Londos-Ali Baba wrestling bout in International Amphitheater Friday will meet Bronko Nagurski in Chicago during the summer, Ed White said yesterday. White is joint promoter with Fred Kohler of Friday's match.

White's announcement followed a conference he had Saturday with Lou Daro, Los Angeles promoter, who is negotiating a Nagurski-Londos engagement.

After his workout yesterday with Rudy Kay, Londos explained that when the match is arranged it will be held under the auspices of White and not Daro.

Londos canceled a scheduled appearance in New York last night and another in Minneapolis tonight to concentrate on the Baba encounter. However, he will leave for an appearance in Peoria after tomorrow's drill.

Baba, who is down to 202 pounds, watched Londos work out yesterday and then practiced with Rudy Strongberg and Joe Corbett. Both men will continue training chores in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon.

Kettles Loses to Belanger in Six Rounds

Charley Belanger, 34 year old light heavyweight of Winnipeg, Man., pounded out a decision in six rounds over young Alex Kettles of South Bend, Ind., in Marigold Gardens last night. The decision of Referee Frankie Sikora and Judges Ed Klein and Dr. E. Allen Frankel was unanimous. Belanger weighed 188 pounds, twenty less than his 20 year old opponent.

Kettles had superior strength and punching power, but he could not cope with Belanger's experience. It was his first defeat in nine starts.

Marquart Stops Sharkey.

Lou Laurie, Cleveland 120 pounder, conquered Johnny Fairchild of Elgin, and George White, Franklin Park 144 pounder, whipped Tony De Pasquale in bouts of four rounds each.

Tony Petroskey Wins.

Chairman Joe Triner, who seems to be waging a losing battle in efforts to have the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling fight shifted to Chicago June 22, will represent the Illinois boxing commission at the annual show sponsored by the Rev. Thomas Burke of St. Hilary church in the parish hall, Bryn Mawr and California avenues, next Tuesday. Eight matches will be held between some of the best amateurs in this section. Two men who have refereed heavyweight championship contests will be among the officials. They are Tommy Thomas, referee of the Louis-James J. Braddock bout in Comiskey park last June 22, and Davey Miller, referee of the Louis-Harry Thomas battle in Chicago Stadium April 1. Phil Collins, Johnny Behr and Milt Aron also will officiate.

Pete Cara, New York lightweight managed by Jimmy Bronson, has signed to meet Davey Day in a ten round headliner in Marigold Gardens May 2. . . . Pete Lello, Gary, Ind., lightweight, and Milt Aron, Dubuque, Ia., welterweight, making his headquarters in Chicago, have started training for two of four ten round contests in Louisville, Ky., Derby eve, May 6. Aron clashes with Sammy Chives of Detroit and Lello with Jimmy Buckler of Louisville. Lou Ambers, lightweight title holder, faces Jimmy Vaughn of Cleveland, and Sammy Angott hooks up with Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids, Mich. . . . Teddy Yarosz, former middleweight champion, and George Black will be opponents in a ten round bout in Milwaukee auditorium tonight. Billy Celebron, Rockford 156 pounder, is paired with George Burnett of Detroit in the eight round secondary feature. A six rounder will bring together Toots Bernstein and Chuck Woods. Matches of four rounds involve Henry Pomeroy and Larry Lahiff, Fritz Meier and Johnny Brown.

ISOLATER AND LITTLE SHAVER RUN DEAD HEAT

Hit Wire Together at Havre De Grace.

Baltimore, Md., April 25.—(AP)—Bomar stable's Little Shaver and William Woodward's Isolater ran the first dead heat of the Maryland season in the six furlongs Conowingo purse at Havre de Grace today. A neck behind was H. L. Bower's High Hedge.

Isolater was a slight favorite, but Little Shaver was the hero. The Bomar 4 year old was up on his hind legs like a statue as his rivals broke from the barrier. Jocky Al Shelhamer quickly brought Little Shaver into action, however, and by taking to the inside he almost caught the pacemaking High Hedge before reaching the final turn.

In the meanwhile, Harry Richards was rating Isolater on the outside of the field. Little Shaver stuck his head in front of High Hedge midway through the home stretch, just as Isolater began to move up. The Woodward colt closed ground but he never was able to get in front.

The winning pool was split, with Little Shaver paying $2.90 and Isolater $2.60. Both horses paid more to place than to win, Little Shaver returning $3.60 and his rival, $3.00.

CYRIL TOLLEY IS DEFEATED IN BRITISH AMATEUR

LEEDS, England, April 25.—(AP)—J. W. J. Merris, a traveling salesman from Nottingham, scored one of the biggest upsets of the English amateur golf tournament today when he eliminated Cyril J. H. Tolley, twice winner of the British amateur title, 2 up, in a first round match.

Merris, who worked on his job this morning and showed up at the Morrtown club in time for the match this afternoon, solved a problem that has puzzled British golf experts all spring—whether Tolley should try for the Walker cup team.

The veteran, who played brilliantly during the winter, is not eligible for team membership as he is a member of the Walker cup selection committee. It had been suggested that he might resign from the committee in order to play against United States amateurs at St. Andrews in June.

All six British Walker cup candidates who played in the first round today won their matches. The only surprise in addition to Tolley's elimination was the defeat of Stanley Lunt, 1934 champion, by a local golfer, J. Haslam, 1 up.

Montreal, Detroit Teams Score 18 Goals in Paris

PARIS, April 25.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens defeated the Detroit Red Wings, 10 to 8, tonight in the third game of the National Hocky league clubs' tour.

NO NOISE, JOLT, OR JAR IN NEW RAILWAY TRAINS

N. Y. C., Pennsy Will Have 'Quietest Cars.'

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

When the new streamlined Twentieth Century and Broadway Limited trains of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads go into service between Chicago and New York on June 15 they will be the quietest trains for passengers ever to take to the rails. There will not be a jar or a jolt in either of the two trains which will run between the two cities in sixteen hours, one-half hour faster than present schedules.

Harold V. Sherman, assistant manager of the Chicago works of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, disclosed this fact yesterday as he took an inspection party into the big shops where hundreds of working men are getting the trains ready for service. Use of rubber and insulation in great quantities will take the noise out of these trains, Sherman said.

Have New Kind of Couplers.

Large couplers—almost twice the size of those on present standard cars—have been constructed in such manner as to eliminate the clashing noise of the conventional couplers made when the train is traveling at high speed, especially when it takes a curve. The principle of the new couplers is similar to that of ball and socket. Also the parts which take up the train shock will pass through rubber plates, doing away with the old style draft gear.

Buffers at the top and bottom of the car will also help to give steadiness. Sherman said the entire trains will start and stop as a single unit, although the cars will not be articulated as in some of the present streamliners.

Rubber will be used in large amounts at the connections between the cars and between the vestibules in the interest of quietness. Sherman said the method removes as far as possible all contact of metal with metal.

Are Heavily Insulated.

The insulation will fill all the space between the inner and outer shells of the cars, Sherman said, an innovation in railroad car construction. The insulation used on the Pennsylvania cars consists of a stone felt and that in the New York Central's cars consists of fiber or spun glass. Besides keeping out exterior noises, the insulation will help control heat and cold.

All the cars are built of corten steel, so strong that only half as much is required to get the same degree of strength as possessed by the old conventional cars. Sherman said that the new cars will be about two-thirds the weight of the standard cars and if all the parts that go into the cars could be built of the weight saving material it would be possible to construct the cars so that they would be only half the weight of the standard cars.

Welded to Form Tube.

The new cars are welded to form a tube. The roof and the sides are flat welded, so that the exterior will present perfectly flat surfaces. Each of the two roads is having 52 cars built in the Pullman shop. There will be enough of the New York Central cars to form four Broadway Limiteds. The Pennsylvania will divide its cars among various trains, two Broadway Limiteds, the General, and the Liberty Limited between Chicago and New York, and the three Spirit of St. Louis trains between New York and St. Louis.

The Pennsylvania trains are being painted dark red with lighter red stripes running lengthwise of the cars. The New York Central's streamlined cars are gray, with blue horizontal stripes.

1,000 Men Work on Cars.

In the Pullman shops about 1,000 men have worked at one time or another on the 104 cars. Most of the steel work has been finished, and painters, upholstery workers, and specialty workers are putting on the last touches.

All the sleepers in the new trains will be of the room type. There will be no open section Pullmans. The cars will consist of roomettes, duplex bedroom cars, compartments, drawing rooms, and something new—master bedrooms. The master bedrooms will be unusually large. Each will have a shower bath. There will be room enough in the master bedrooms for four chairs.

STEEL OUTPUT SLIPS SLIGHTLY FOR THIS WEEK

Another small decline in steel making operations in the United States to 32 per cent of capacity is scheduled this week, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday.

A month ago the institute placed operations at 35.7 per cent of capacity, high point of this year to date. Last week's rate was 32.4 per cent. The steel industry was at its recovery peak a year ago, operating at 92.3 per cent of capacity.

Failure of operations to gain this month to a "late April peak" has led some observers to believe the high mark for the first half of this year has been passed. Orders from the auto industry were reported slightly larger.

Business Failures Set New Low Mark for 1938

New York, April 25.—(AP)—Business failures in the United States for the week ended April 21 totaled 226, the lowest number for any week thus far in the year, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. In the preceding week they were 278 and a year ago 191.

HARRY M. GUSTAFSON IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF WILSON & BENNETT

H. M. Gustafson.

The Wilson & Bennett Manufacturing company, makers of steel containers, yesterday announced the election of Harry M. Gustafson as president of the company. He succeeds Stevens A. Bennett who has been named chairman of the board and general manager.

Gustafson has resigned as a vice president of the Northern Trust company to accept the new position. He joined the Northern Trust company in 1927 as a trust solicitor. Prior to that time he was with the Lincoln National Life Insurance company of Fort Wayne, Ind. He is 41 years old.

The Wilson & Bennett company was founded in 1905 by Myrtie Stevens Bennett. It has grown from a small sheet metal shop to one of the largest producers of steel container specialities in the country. Its products include drums, pails, and barrels which are used chiefly in the oil industry.

CHICAGO RESERVE AREA BUSINESS GAINS IN MARCH

Manufacturing activity and distribution of commodities in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district expanded in March, as is usual for that month, George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, reported yesterday. Activity still was at a much lower rate than a year ago, however, with decreases of from 40 to 50 per cent in the heavier goods industries, Schaller said. Decreases from 1937 in wholesale and retail trade were reported large, but not so great as in production.

The number of persons employed at the middle of March was slightly less than a month earlier, but dollar pay rolls were a little higher, Schaller reported.

He said there was a decrease between March 16 and April 20 of $157,000,000 in earnings assets of the 7th district member banks, reflecting the reduction of loans and investments. For the same period reserve balances of the member banks increased $85,000,000.

Ford Official Cool to $1,500 Pay Guarantee

Detroit, Mich., April 25.—(AP)—A proposal that the Ford Motor company guarantee its workers a minimum annual wage of $1,500 in return for an agreement by each employe to buy a Ford car every two years was received coldly today by the man who directs the employment of its many thousands of hourly rate employés.

Commenting on the proposal, made by the Ford Brotherhood of America, an indepndent union, Harry H. Bennett, personnel director of the Ford company, termed it a "fine thing," but in the same breath, asked:

"Who is going to guarantee an annual market to support employment for any specific period? It is the market that determines the employment."

Gar Wood Plants Closed.

Other labor developments of the day included a new sitdown strike that closed two Detroit plants of Gar Wood Industries, Inc., but progress was reported in settling other Michigan industrial disputes, and tension eased.

Representatives of General Motors corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America began conferring here on grievances cited by Buick and Chevrolet employés who voted Saturday to strike, subject to approval of international officers of the U. A. W.

Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W., said no action would be taken on the request for approval of a strike pending the outcome of conferences with General Motors officials.

500 Involved in Strike.

Five hundred employés were involved in the strike at the plants of Gar Wood Industries, named for the speedboat driver. Conferences began this afternoon with U. A. W., which called the strike, said it was precipitated by the company's refusal to negotiate a new contract unless the union agreed to accept a 20 per cent reduction in the basic wage rate.

The Bohn Aluminum & Brass company, whose eight plants were closed by a U. A. W. strike last week, resumed operations on a curtailed basis today.

Strikes continued at the plants of the Michigan Steel Casting company, the American Brass company, and the Detroit Moulding company conferences between American Brass company officials and the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' union [C. I. O.] opened today at the national labor relations board offices.

U. S. TREASURY SELLS $50,000,000 OF BILLS AT RECORD LOW YIELD

The lowest yield yet recorded on an issue of federal government securities is provided on an issued of $50,000,000 of treasury 91 day bills, allotment of which was announced yesterday by Secretary Morgenthau. The bills were sold at prices giving the purchasers an average yield of a little less than 4-100th of 1 per cent.

Morgenthau reported that the issue was more than three times oversubscribed, requests being submitted for $158,830,000 of the bills. The bills are sold on a discount basis, the discount at which the purchaser buys providing his only return. The highest bid received was par, Morgenthau said, which gives no return to the subscriber. The average price was 99.991 or a yield of 0.037 per cent. The preceding week's offering was sold to yield 0.061 per cent. Purchases at par apparently were made by individuals seeking exemption on their funds from state personal property taxes.

Books were closed at midnight on cash subscriptions for the $200,000,000 issue of Commodity Credit corporation ¾ per cent notes. The issue was seven times oversubscribed.

WARNER TAKES NO ACTION ON JUNE DIVIDEND

Directors of Stewart-Warner corporation, large Chicago manufacturer of auto accessories, radios, and refrigerators, took no action yesterday on the dividend due June 1. It has been the company's practice to declare the June dividend at the April meeting and make it payable to stockholders of record early in May.

A regular rate of 25 cents semi-annually was established in December, 1935, after a lapse in dividends since 1930. In addition the company paid extras of 25 cents in 1935 and 50 cents each in 1936 and 1937.

The Charis corporation, women's undergarment manufacturer, again reduced its dividend to common stockholders yesterday. It will pay only 15 cents a share on May 2, compared with 25 cents on Feb. 1 and a total of $1.37½ a share during 1937.

Usual Payments.
Atlantic Refining, 25c q.	June 15	May 20
Consol Edison, 50c q.	June 15	May 13
Manhattan Shirt, 25c q.	June 1	May 10

SEARS-ROEBUCK NET EARNINGS FALL THIS YEAR

Lessing J. Rosenwald.

Lessing J. Rosenwald, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., told stockholders at the annual meeting in New York yesterday that the company is operating on a smaller profit margin this year than in 1937. Sales for the four weeks ended April 23 were 8 to 9 per cent below the corresponding 1937 period, he said.

Sales of the company's retail stores declined more than the mail order business he disclosed. The percentage shrinkage in the retail business was 3 to 4 per cent larger than mail order sales.

Stockholders approved the sale to employés of 50,000 shares of the company's stock at $45 a share, the authorization expiring Jan. 1, 1944. The stock closed yesterday at $58.50.

Inventories Increase.

Rosenwald told stockholders that the physical volume of inventories has increased in the last year, but the dollar value has declined 5 to 6 per cent from a year ago. The company is planning no new financing this year, he said. The only expenditures planned are for the opening of four new large stores.

In reply to an inquiry, Rosenwald said that the company has not yet decided to enter the low priced tractor field. Results from the present tractor sales, he said, have been satisfactory.

Fowler B. McConnell was elected a director to succeed William Rosenwald. McConnell is secretary of the company and assistant to President R. E. Wood. Other directors and officers were reëlected.

Reports Fall in Business.

J. H. Van Alstyne, president of the Otis Elevator company, reported to stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday that gross business of the company in the first three months of 1938 was down 29 per cent from last year. Earnings, he said, more than covered dividend requirements for the period. Uncompleted work on the company's books totaled $17,275,933 on March 31, he said. This compared with $17,783,612 a year earlier.

The retirement of Joseph B. Wilson as president and director of the Laclede Gas Light company was announced at the annual meeting in St. Louis. His successor was not announced. R. R. Monroe, vice president of the Utilities Power and Light corporation, and Philip B. Shaw also retired from the board, which was cut from eleven to nine members. Edward L. White, secretary of the company, and William K. Koerner, St. Louis attorney, were elected to the board.

H. F. Atherton, president of Allied Chemical and Dye corporation, said at the annual stockholders' meeting that the company's first quarter business was 25 to 30 per cent less than a year ago. Earnings, he said, did not equal dividends paid out.

Atherton said the company planned no plant expansion in 1938. Last year $10,900,000 was spent for plants and extensions.

Battery Container Firm Is Auctioned for $54,000

The Ahlbell Battery Container corporation of Waukegan was sold at auction yesterday by Federal Referee in Bankruptcy William Kirby for $54,500 to an undisclosed buyer, represented by Attorney Minard Hulse. The company, headed by Ernest L. Byfield, president of the Hotel Sherman, was placed in bankruptcy last month. At that time the company listed liabilities of $163,540 and assets of $232,431.

American Exports Increase; Aircraft Set New High Mark

While domestic business was declining the volume of American goods sold abroad increased in March and the first quarter of 1938, the department of commerce reported yesterday.

The United States had a favorable balance on international transactions in March of $102,306,000. Sales of American goods in the first quarter exceeded imports by $320,737,000. In the first quarter last year exports of American goods fell $113,271,000 below total imports.

March Exports $275,711,000.

March exports totaled $275,711,000, against $256,565,000 last year. Imports amounted to only $173,405,000, compared with $307,474,000 in March, 1937. First quarter exports reached $827,781,000 against last year's $712,355,000. Imports for the first quarter were $507,044,000, compared with $825,626,000 a year ago.

The commerce department reported that March was the 16th consecutive month in which exports recorded an increase over the corresponding period of the preceding year. Imports have been declining for a year, but the March total showed an increase of 6 per cent over February.

The world armament race was an import factor in boosting sales of American goods, the government figures showed. Aircraft exports in March reached $5,977,319, largest for any month on record. Automobile exports gained 10 per cent over March last year.

Export increases over February were also reported for cotton textiles, lumber, paper manufactures, crude petroleum, iron, and steel products, electrical apparatus, chemicals, machinery, and certain vegetables and fruits.

Cause of Import Shrinkage.

The big shrinkage in imports was due in large measure to the fact the United States was importing big quantities of agricultural commodities early in 1937 because of the preceding year's drouth in this country.

Commodities which were imported in larger volume in March included pears, furs, cocoa beans, sugar, whisky, raw silk, newsprint, and fertilizers.

STABILIZING FUND GIVES STRENGTH TO FRENCH FRANC

Aided by the supporting operations of the French stabilization fund, the value of French currency rose in relation to other currencies on the exchange market yesterday.

The franc closed 0.07875 cent higher at 3.1125 in New York, recovering most of the loss incurred last week. The French cabinet's approval of plans to deal with the government's financial problems and Premier Daladier's assurance that France will cling to its monetary agreement with the United States and Great Britain were said to have helped bolster the franc.

Most other foreign currencies advanced moderately. The British pound closed ¼ cent higher at $4.99¼.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported the engagement of $4,350,000 gold in Japan for shipment to the United States.

Court Orders Liquidation of Stutz Motor Car Co.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 25.—(AP)—Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell today ordered liquidation of the Stutz Motor Car company, ending months of litigation over the company's insolvency. Albert Ward, special master in chancery, recently reported to the court that two-thirds of the creditors had failed to agree on a reorganization proposal. The company has not manufactured passenger automobiles for several years. It had engaged recently in manufacture of a delivery vehicle.

COURT REBUKES WALLACE; VOIDS HIS RATE ORDER

Only Black Dissents in Stockyard Case.

Secretary Wallace.

Washington, D. C., April 25.—Condemning star chamber and ex parte conduct on the part of Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, the United States Supreme court today reversed his order of June 14, 1933, fixing maximum rates to be charged by marketing agencies at the Kansas City stockyards. The court announced several other decisions, including one upholding the municipal bankruptcy act of 1937.

The Wallace order on which the court ruled today was issued under the packers and stockyards act of 1921, and involved a reduction in rates.

The court's opinion, written by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, reverses a decree of a three judge District court in Kansas City, upholding the order, on the ground that the commission men were denied a fair and open hearing and that Secretary Wallace accepted the "findings" of the government prosecutors without even reading the evidence.

"More Than an Irregularity."

"That is more than an irregularity in practice; it is a vital defect," the court's opinion said.

The opinion emphasized the necessity of maintaining the rudimentary requirements of "fair play" to protect the liberty and property of citizens because of the vast expansion of quasi-judicial agencies to regulate social and economic activities.

A recent example of the sort of conduct thus condemned by the Supreme court was the fixing of minimum coal prices without a hearing by the National Bituminous Coal commission. The prices were revoked

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 25.—Moderate weakness in key issues forced the stock market to lose more ground today. Losses ran up to 1 point in the main body of shares, with a few issues declining as much as 4 points. Trading was third smallest for a full session in about four years on a turnover of 395,880 shares.

Some speculative buying in cheaper issues was in evidence at times and enabled 101 issues of 605 traded to close with plus signs, but 365 showed losses and 139 closed unchanged.

The day's trend was indicated at the outset, when some selling forced prices fractions to 2 points below Saturday's closing levels. However, a better tone developed as the session wore on and part of the lost ground was retraced.

Today's market behavior illustrated to a large extent the apathy which is felt in many quarters, according to observers. For proof they pointed out that the list showed practically no reaction to President Roosevelt's tax message suggesting elimination of exemptions from future federal, state, and municipal bond issues. It was said that traders were too much in the dark concerning other developments to warrant their entry in the market. Trouble on the domestic union labor front and depressing news from central Europe did not inspire confidence in trading ranks.

Also making for caution, it was said, was the continued proof of retarded industrial activity, best illustrated today by the lower steel rate forecast of the American Iron and Steel institute. U. S. Steel common and Bethlehem both drifted 1 point other leaders held to a fractional range.

At their lowest, motors were 1 point down, but steadied to close only fractionally lower. Coppers reduced their losses to fractions. Aviations again were active and ruled fairly steady. Carrier shares were quiet in the absence of fresh developments.

New York Bonds.

New York, April 25.—(AP)—Trading was light and price trends irregular today in the bond market, which encountered some profit taking. Volume totaled $4,831,050, the lowest since April 7.

With decisive news missing, dealers tended to cash in on early gains and last week's advances, especially in the secondary rails and utilities. Industrials resisted the weak trend at the close and the foreign dollar list was steady.

Adjustment of investment portfolios based on yield appraisals, after last week's more or less indiscriminate buying of government obligations, produced rather wide changes at the close, with treasury obligations varying from a ½ point advance to a 12-32ds decline.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks dragged to slightly lower levels yesterday in a dull session in which only fractional changes were involved. A total of 13,000 shares was traded, compared with 30,000 Friday. Of the 58 issues traded, 11 advanced, 30 declined and 17 were unchanged.

The two most actively traded stocks, Chicago corporation at 2⅛ and Middle West at 5¾, were both ⅛ lower. Cities Service finished unchanged at 1⅛. Borg-Warner slipped ⅜ to 22⅛. Commonwealth Edison eased ⅛ at 24.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were quiet and little changed in price yesterday. Continental Illinois National shares declined $1.50 to $59 bid, $61 asked. City National was off $1 at $124 bid, $128 asked. Chicago Title and Trust company stock advanced $2 a share to $120 bid, $120 asked. Lake Shore Trust and Savings stock was quoted $1 a share higher.

CONSOL. EDISON PROFIT RISES IN FIRST QUARTER

Most Other Companies' Earnings Lower.

Although most companies reporting yesterday showed lower profits for the first quarter, compared with a year ago, a few had higher earnings. Among those with increases were Consolidated Edison Company of New York, Inc., which last week ended a dearth of big corporate financiing by floating a $60,000,000 debentutre issue, and the Garnett Co. Inc. and Superior Oil corporation.

J. C. Fogarty, president North American Company.

Spiegel, Inc., Chicago Mail order house showed a loss for the March quarter. Union Carbide and Carbon corporation reported profits of less than half those in the first quarter of 1937. Lower profits were also shown by Loew's, Inc., and the Lambert company, maker of drug products. Merchants and Manufacturers Securities company, Chicago loan firm, had a substantial increase in earnings for the fiscal year ended March 31.

Consolidated Edison Gains.

Consolidated Edison, with net income in the March quarter of $15,417,643, earned $1.10 a common share, against $1.03 in the 1937 first quarter. For the 12 months to March 31, however, net income dropped to $2.24 a share from $2.48 a share in the preceding 12 months.

Affected by a loss of $331,223 in the first quarter, Spiegel net income for the 12 months to March 31 fell to $1,694,597, or 97 cents a common share, compared with $2.54 a share in the preceding 12 months.

Union Carbide's drop in net income for the first 1938 quarter carried profits for the 12 months ended March 31 below those for the preceding 12 months. First quarter profit was equal to 47 cents a share against $1.10 in the 1937 March quarter. For the 12 months, income amounted to $4.37 a share, compared with $4.75 in the preceding 12 months.

Average Loan Is $167.

Arthur Greene, president of Merchants and Manufacturers Securities company, pointed out in the annual report that the average loan made by the company's lending subsidiary was $167 and that average monthly income of borrowers and their families was about $175. The company's earnings for the fiscal year ended March 31 rose to $557,052 from $422,239 a year earlier.

Net profit of Loew's, Inc., for the 28 weeks ended March 17 slipped to a per common share equivalent of $3.76, compared with $5.26 a share in the corresponding 1937 period.

J. G. Fogarty, president of the North American company, large utility holding concern, said yesterday at the annual meeting that he saw no signs of improvement in the system's operations for this month. He reported that the company's net income for the twelve months ended March 31 amounted to $17,014,664, or $1.77 a share, against $1.89 a share for the preceding 12 months.

Total provision for taxes, he reported, was $17,463,000, or 14.5 cents of each dollar of operating revenues for the 12 months.

Supreme Court Decisions

Major decisions among those handed down yesterday by the United States Supreme court in addition to the ruling setting aside Secretary Wallace's order in the stockyard rate case follow:

The Supreme court upheld the municipal bankruptcy act of 1937, which was passed by congress in revised form after the original act of 1934 had been held unconstitutional.

The case was taken to the Supreme court by the Lindsay-Strathmore irrigation district, a taxing agency in California created for the purpose of constructing and operating irrigation projects. The district claimed indebtedness of $1,427,000 in principal, with unpaid interest on its bonds of $439,085, and offered a plan for the composition of its debts calling for a cash payment of 59.97 cents on the dollar of the principal amount of the bonds in satisfaction of all amounts due.

Creditors owning 87 per cent of the bonds accepted the plan, while the statute calls for acceptance by only 66⅔ per cent of the creditors.

State Rights an Issue.

A three-judge federal district court in California held the act an unconstitutional violation of state rights under the Supreme court's decision invalidating the original act, and Justices Pierce Butler and James Clark McReynolds dissented today. Chief Justice Hughes wrote today's opinion holding the statute a valid enactment. Justice Cardozo did not participate.

"The statute is carefully drawn so as not to impinge on the sovereignty of the state," said the opinion. "The state retains control of its fiscal affairs. The bankruptcy power is exercised in relation to a matter normally within its province and only in a case where the action of the taxing agency in carrying out a plan of composition approved the bankruptcy court is authorized by state law. It is of the essence of sovereignty to be able to make contracts and give consents bearing upon the exertion of governmental power."

Discusses "Due Process."

The opinion said the court found no merit in the contention of the minority bondholders that the statute contravened the due process clause of the fifth amendment.

The distinguishing fact that makes the 1937 act constitutional, while the 1934 act was not, according to the opinion, is that state consent is now required to make possible the composition by bankruptcy proceedings of the debts of political subdivisions.

In the revised measure, congress specified that it should not be construed to "limit or impair" the power of any state to control any municipality or political subdivision "in the exercise of its political or governmental powers."

The California district court ruled however, in the Lindsay-Strathmore case, that an irrigation district "is one of the instrumentalities of the state which fall under the interdict" of the previous Supreme court ruling.

Planned to Get RFC Loan.

When the petition for confirmation of the plan for readjustment of its debts was filed by the 15,260 acre irrigation district with the Federal District court, the irrigation district said the proposed reduced payment was to be made from a loan authorized by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The ruling opened the way for 3,000 distressed cities, towns, and other political subdivisions to seek adjustment of their debts.

Federal officials estimated today that 2,000 cities, towns, and school districts — mostly small, or sparsely settled—plus an additional 1,000 or so special irrigation and reclamation districts had defaulted on their securities.

These officials added that the chief effect of the law probably would be to give municipal authorities a talking point in promoting voluntary settlements with creditors under threat of going through bankruptcy.

Filled Milk Act Upheld.

The Supreme court sustained the 1923 filled milk act which bars interstate shipment of milk to which other oils or fats have been added. In a decision by Justice Stone, the tribunal reversed a ruling by the southern Illinois federal district court holding the legislation unconstitutional.

The district court had ordered dismissal of an indictment charging the Carolene Products company of Litchfield, Ill., with "fraudulently" shipping its product into Missouri.

The government told the Supreme court that congress "recognized and declared that filled milk is injurious to the public health and its sale constitutes a fraud upon the public."

Refuses Insurance Case.

The high court refused to pass upon a decision of the Illinois Supreme court holding unconstitutional an Illinois statute providing for the revocation of the licenses of insurance companies which cause suits to be removed from state to federal courts.

Nineteen railroads, including the Illinois Central, failed in their attempt to enjoin enforcement of an interstate commerce commission order reducing rates for the transportation of coke from Birmingham, Chattanooga, and from Wise county, Va., to destinations in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and the lower peninsula of Michigan. In a decision by Justice McReynolds, the tribunal affirmed a ruling by a three judge northern Illinois Federal District court sustaining the reduction and dismissing the railroads' attack.

Victory for State Compacts.

The Supreme court held that an interstate compact between Colorado and New Mexico for apportioning the water of the La Plata river between the two states had priority over previous Colorado court decrees.

This was regarded by observers as a possible boost to the extension of compacts among states to deal with their regional problems.

Justice Brandeis delivered the decision that reversed a ruling by the Colorado Supreme court granting an injunction sought by the La Plata River and Cherry Creek Ditch Company of Colorado against depriving it of water awarded by prior action in state courts.

The Colorado-New Mexico agreement was approved by the state legislatures in 1923 and by congress in 1925. Interstate compacts are authorized by the federal constitution if approved by congress.

Tax Claim Overruled.

Abe Cohen, Louisville, Ky., meat retailer, failed in his effort to recover processing taxes allegedly paid to Swift and company, Chicago packers, under the agricultural adjustment act. The high court refused to pass upon a ruling of the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals, affirming a dismissal of Cohen's complaint on the ground there was no cause of action, because the retailers did not pay the processing tax.

Cohen contended he and other retailers paid to Swift and company a total of $43,981,677 in processing taxes which were included in the price of meat products, and that after the AAA was held unconstitutional the packers recovered $8,708,999, which had been deposited in court.

The Republican National Bank and Trust company of Dallas, Tex., failed in an effort to escape paying a judgment of $160,933 to R. E. Crummer of Chicago. The high court refused to pass upon a decision of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals approving an award of damages because of alleged misrepresentations by Fred F. Florence, president of the bank, before the bank purchased securities from Crummer.

Further Action Ordered.

The high court ordered further court proceedings on the government's suit to enjoin a group of leading motion picture distributors and Texas exhibitors from alleged violation of the anti-trust laws through film licensing agreements.

In an opinion read by Chief Justice Hughes, the tribunal said the Northern Texas Federal District court had not stated its "findings of fact" as required by federal procedure. Hence the high court set aside a decree granted the federal government by the District court. The case now returns to that court.

COURT REBUKES WALLACE; VOIDS HIS RATE ORDER

Hits Star Chamber Tactics; Only Black Dissents.

Justice Hugo L. Black, the former Ku Klux Klansman who was elevated to the Supreme court by President Roosevelt, was the only member of the court who dissented in the Wallace rate fixing case. Justices Stanley F. Reed and Benjamin N. Cardozo took no part in the case, and the decision rebuking Wallace was 6 to 1. Black wrote no opinion.

The Kansas City stockyards case was begun in 1932, under the Hoover administration, the taking of evidence having been completed Nov. 16, 1932, but the oral arguments were made before Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell as acting secretary of agriculture.

The commission men submitted briefs, but no brief was supplied at any time by the government, a fact to which the court's opinion attaches much importance. A request by the respondents that the examiner prepare a tentative report as a basis for exceptions and arguments was refused.

Denied a Rehearing.

Findings were prepared by the bureau of animal industry, and no opportunity was afforded to respondents for the examination of the findings. They sought a rehearing, and this was denied.

"The part taken by the secretary himself in the departmental proceedings is shown by his full and candid testimony," the opinion says. "The evidence had been received before he took office. He did not hear the oral argument. The bulky record was placed upon his desk and he dipped into it from time to time to get its drift.

"He decided that probably the essence of the evidence was contained in appellants' briefs. These, together with the transcript of the oral argument, he took home with him and read. He had several conferences with the solicitor of the department and with the officials in the bureau of animal industry and discussed the proposed findings. He testified that he considered the evidence before signing the order.

Wallace's Action Discussed.

"In the light of this testimony there is no occasion to discuss the extent to which the secretary examined the evidence, and we agree with the government's contention that it was not the function of the court to probe the mental processes of the secretary in reaching his conclusions if he gave the hearing which the law required.

"The secretary read the summary presented by appellants' briefs and he conferred with his subordinates who had sifted and analyzed the evidence. We assume that the secretary sufficiently understood its purport. But a 'full hearing'—a fair and open hearing—requires more than that. The right to a hearing embraces not only the right to present evidence, but also a reasonable opportunity to know the claims of the opposing party and to meet them. The right to submit argument implies that opportunity; otherwise the right may be but a barren one.

"No Reasonable Opportunity."

"Those who are brought into contest with the government in a quasi-judicial proceeding aimed at the control of their activities are entitled to be fairly advised of what the government proposes and to be heard upon its proposals before it issues its final command.

"No such reasonable opportunity was accorded appellants.

"The answer that the proceeding before the secretary was not of an adversary character, as it was not upon complaint but was initiated as a general inquiry, is futile. It has regarded to the mere form of the proceeding and ignores realities. In all substantial respects, the government acting through the bureau of animal industry of the department, was prosecuting the proceeding against the owners of the market agencies.

"The proceeding had all the essential elements of contested litigation, with the government and its counsel on the one side and the appellants and their counsel on the other. It is idle to say that this was not a proceeding in reality against the appellants when the very existence of their agencies was put in jeopardy.

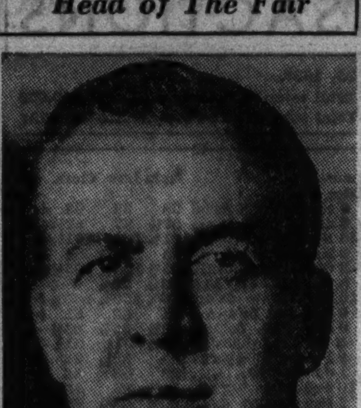
Attacked at Vital Spot."

"Upon the rates for their service the owners depend for their livelihood and the proceeding attacked them at a vital spot. This is well shown by the fact that, on the merits, appellants are here contending that under the secretary's order many of these agencies, although not found to be inefficient or wasteful, will be left with deficits instead of reasonable compensation for their services and will be compelled to go out of business.

"The maintenance of proper standards on the part of administrative agencies in the performance of their quasi-judicial functions is of the highest importance and in no way cripples or embarrasses the exercise of their appropriate authority. On the contrary, it is in their manifest interest. For, as we said at the outset, if these multiplying agencies deemed to be necessary in our complex society are to serve the purposes for which they are created and endowed with vast powers, they must accredit themselves by acting in accordance with the cherished judicial tradition embodying the basic concepts of fair play."

Pending the final Supreme court decision, the old rates have been collected and the difference between them and the reduced fees have been impounded in the District court. The reduction was estimated by the government at 12.61 per cent. Several months ago an increase in fees was authorized. A government spokesman said the amount impounded is approximately $1,000,000.

Head of The Fair



C. S. Maginnis, vice president of The Fair store, who is slated to be elected president today to succeed D. F. Kelly.

C. S. MAGINNIS TO BE PRESIDENT OF FAIR STORE

Succeeds Kelly, Who Remains Director.

C. S. Maginnis, who started working for The Fair store thirty-five years ago at $7 a week, is expected to become president of that organization today at the annual stockholders' meeting. Having been a vice president and director for the last six years, he will succeed D. F. Kelly, State street merchant for more than half a century, who announced in January that he would resign as president, but would continue as an active director in the company.

The new president, 55 years old, has spent all of his life in Chicago, where he was born, and has made his entire business career with The Fair store. His first job after graduating from Lake View High school was that of clerk at the Fair in the electrical division household furnishings department.

Is Promoted Rapidly.

Maginnis drew his first clerk's pay check in February, 1903, but within a year was made a floor walker, and shortly afterward becam head of the stock department. Within a few years he stepped into the buying side of the business as an "assistant to the assistant buyer."

His next job was that of assistant buyer, and in 1919 he was made a buyer in the household furnishing department. The next move eleven years later took him to the job of merchandise manager, from where he stepped into the vice presidency in 1932.

Has Five Children.

Maginnis is married and has five children, Eleanor, 21; Jane, 20; Charles, 19; Gloria, 16, and Carol, 8. Their home is in Rogers Park.

Maginnis said yesterday that the policies of The Fair will be continued on the same basis as under Kelly's presidency. William E. Killian, a merchandise manager, is slated to be elected Maginnis' successor as vice president.

RAINS IN CROP BELT CAUSE DIP IN WHEAT PRICE

North American wheat markets developed pronounced weakness yesterday as the result of selling induced by reports of good rains over parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska which served to increase bearish sentiment. Prices declined as much as 2 cents a bushel from Saturday's close with final trades at the low point. Net losses on the Chicago Board of Trade were 1⅛ to 1½ cents with May only 1¼ cents above the low point of the season.

Other grains were affected by the action of wheat and easiness in securities. Corn declined ¼ to ½ cent and rye was ¾ to 1¼ cents lower.

Speculative interest in the wheat market was small, and it took only limited selling to cause a lower range of prices. Export demand for cash wheat was reported slow, and largely confined to Canadian.

BUSINESS LOANS BY BANKS TAKE ANOTHER TUMBLE

Loans to commercial and agricultural borrowers by reporting member banks of the federal reserve system in 11 cities declined 38 million dollars in the week ended April 20, the reserves board reported yesterday.

Bank investments in securities, other than government obligations, also declined. The aggregate investments in private securities were 88 millions below the preceding week while holdings of government securities were 25 millions larger.

The trend disclosed in the figures was similar to that shown by the statements issued earlier for reporting banks in New York and Chicago. The credit expansion program of the government under which reserve requirements were cut 12½ per cent, resulted in an increase in reserve funds held by banks but brought no immediate increase in bank credit.

TIMBER FIRM'S COUNSEL QUIZZED AT SEC HEARING

Leonard L. Cowan, general counsel of the Resources Corporation International, yesterday was called as a witness for the company by Securities and Exchange Commission officials who are investigating a book valuation of $9,000,000 placed by the firm on 2,000,000 acres of Mexican timber land which it holds. The SEC hearing, on proposed public offering of 35,000 shares of the firm's stock, was called when authorities questioned the valuation placed on the holdings.

SEC attorneys concentrated their questioning yesterday on the company's experiences with securities commissions of states in which it had sold or had attempted to sell its stock.

Cowan testified the corporation originally had been qualified to sell shares in Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Ohio. At present, he said, it is qualified in New York, Oklahoma and Texas.

Indiana suspended it from selling in 1937 for sales in excess of authorization; Michigan revoked the right in February, 1938, and Wisconsin and Missouri first suspended, then lifted suspension of the qualification. Cowan testified an application for qualification was filed in Illinois, but later withdrawn.

COUNCIL STUDIES SCHOOL PLEA FOR $6,595,000 BONDS

A request by the board of education for an ordinance authorizing the issuance of $6,595,000 in school bonds to pay off judgments granted to holders of 1929 tax anticipation warants was referred to a subcommittee yesterday by the city council finance committee.

The bond issue would pay off part of a 10 million dollar liability resulting from failure to collect enough taxes for 1929 to redeem all of the warants drawn against that year's levy. Legislation enabling the board to issue bonds for this purpose was adopted at the last session of the general assembly.

Why Bank Advertisers Think First of The Times

Because The Times publishes more news, and a wider range of news, of interest to the largest number of financial and business people than any other newspaper, it has been for many years, and continues to be, the preferred advertising medium of banks as of all other financial advertisers.

CLARIFIED RULES ON RATE MAKING URGED BY BUDD

Biggest Aid Congress Can Give Roads, He Says.

The recent six to five decision by the interstate commerce commission denying the eastern railroads a passenger fare increase is "clear and indisputable proof" that the transportation act is so obscure that it demands revision by congress, Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, last night told 1,000 railroad passenger men at their third annual "get-together" at the Morrison hotel.

Budd said the law is so obscure that those who administer it differ sharply as to its meaning.

"What the railroads need most of all from congress," he continued, "is a restatement of the rule of rate making, so that there can be no doubt about the respective responsibilities of management and the commission.

"It is not fair to assert that an industry which has its selling price determined for it by government authority has reached its present state of financial distress through failure of management.

Urges Further Experimentation.

"Before reaching any conclusion as to whether the railroads, under private ownership and operation, are able to survive, the managements of these privately owned properties should be given an opportunity to adopt a trial and error method of determining the proper selling price of the products they manufacture."

Budd said the most singular thing about the decision of the majority in the eastern rate case was the remark: "What can be done to make passenger service of the railroads profitable as a whole is, of course, a matter primarily for the applicants."

Declaring that the part played by the passenger departments in contributing to railroad revenues has been minimized in years gone by, Budd said the passenger divisions can do much toward making the railroads profitable.

Predicts More Improvements.

"It is very short sighted to say that we have about reached the end of improvement in the passenger division," he said. "We are going to make improvements as important as any that have been made since 1933. We are going to have much finer trains, with finer furnishings, in the future."

Budd said that the passenger division opens a fine prospect for future business because of the desire on the part of every American for travel. Last year, he said, it was estimated that the average American traveled 4,000 miles by all modes of transportation.

Storage in the Cooler.

Beef sides and quarters usually are held in "coolers" prior to their sale, it not being an ordinary practice to store them frozen. The temperature in the coolers usually is kept at approximately 34 degrees—just above freezing.

Storage in coolers is for a limited time, fresh beef ordinarily being marketed within two weeks of slaughter. It is only when the meat is to be aged that it is kept in the coolers longer—usually from three to six weeks.

Fresh pork, lamb, and veal held above freezing temperatures usually is marketed within one week. Pork, lamb, and fowl may be stored in freezers, the pork usually in the form of such cuts as bellies, hams, and loins. But most pork put in the freezer, except that given the "quick freeze" treatment, is cured eventually. Practically all veal is moved without being frozen.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Oppose Crop Control

April 25, 1938.

TWENTY-FOUR farmers interviewed by a Tribune reporter in a recent farm to farm tour in southern Cook and northern Will counties disclosed that every one of them is opposed to federal government crop control. All are dissatisfied with their corn acreage and other crop allotments handed down from Washington through local AAA committees.

Henry F. Stuenkel, Matteson, Cook county, 160 acre farm which he has operated for 50 years: "My corn allotment is 45.4 acres. I grew 60 acres last year, am opposed to the plan and I am not satisfied with my corn allotment. It will take 50 acres to produce corn enough for my stock. If my corn crop is poor, who is going to feed my stock next winter. I'm not taking any chance. I will plant 60 acres, about 15 acres above my allotment."

Albert Strassenburg, 106 acre farm near Mokena, Will county: "I have 58 head of cattle, 50 hogs, and poultry. My corn allotment is 27 acres. I have been growing 60 acres for the last three years, and have had to buy corn each fall. How does the AAA expect me to feed my live stock on 27 acres of corn?"

Can't Operate on Plan.

Fred Werner, Mokena, Will county, 37 acre corn allotment on 120 acre farm which he has operated for 69 years: "It will be impossible for me to operate on this basis. I am opposed to the government dictating to the farmer."

Nickolas Younker, Mokena, Will county: "If the government does not stop dictating to the American people we will have another Russia. My corn allotment is 50 acres. I grew 85 last year, and will plant 75 acres this year."

Ernest Monson, Mokena, Will county: "Last year I raised 70 acres of corn and did not have enough. This year my allotment is 45.4. If I do not have enough feed this year, will the government buy me some?"

Other Will county farmers in the Mokena community who are disgruntled over allotments and are against the AAA plan are Walter Rainford, whose corn allotment on his 218 acre farm is 18 acres under his 1937 crop, and Henry D. Schmaedeke, whose corn allotment is 24 acres on his 102 acre farm. Mrs. Schmaedeke said they could not produce enough corn for their stock on 24 acres. "It looks like the government is trying to put the farmer out of business," she added.

Will Ignore Allotment.

Some of the strongest opposition was found among farmers in the southern part of Cook county. William Stuenkel, near Matteson, said he was planning to plant 34 acres of corn regardless of his AAA allotment of 26½ acres. Adolph Langreder, Matteson, says he is opposed to control and is going to plant 60 acres of corn instead of staying within his AAA allotment of 44 acres. He has a farm of 151 acres and thinks it would be impossible to raise enough corn on 44 acres to feed his 25 cows, 25 hogs, and flock of chickens, ducks and turkeys.

Herman Blume, Matteson, intends to disregard the government corn allotment of 52½ acres and will plant 60 acres this spring. "If the government doesn't quit interfering with my business I am going to quit farming," he said.

Ernest Hoger, Matteson, has been living on his 154 acre farm for 30 years and intends to ignore the ruling of the AAA by planting 60 acres of corn instead of staying within his allotment of 46 acres. He said it was necessary for him to raise 60 acres of corn to have enough for his live stock.

Opinions of other farmers about the new farm law will be quoted in this column later.

COTTON

American cotton markets showed a weak undertone yesterday. Houses with Bombay and foreign connections were good sellers, and there also was local liquidation of May contracts. Today will be the first day for giving notice of intention to deliver cotton on May contracts. Liverpool prices also were depressed by selling attributed to Bombay.

Closing sales on cotton futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of .09 to .15 cent a pound, and other American markets declined .05 to .14 cent.

The government is expected to place orders this week for approximately 9,000,000 yards of cotton goods, representing WPA requirements for the rest of the year. New York reports indicated mills would further curtail production, and the number of spindles in operation on May 1 is expected to be the smallest in years.

Spot cotton closed .05 to .10 cent lower, with New Orleans 9.05 cents, New York 8.85 cents, and Galveston and Houston 8.65 cents a pound. Prices follow:

350 MILLION FALL IN HOLDING FIRM WORTH IS TOLD

Fees in Utilities Power Case Studied by SEC.

The Utilities Power and Light corporation, Chicago holding company which now is being reorganized under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act and once was valued at more than 400 million dollars, now has a worth of between $49,000,000 and $58,000,000, Charles True Adams, trustee, testified yesterday before the Securities and Exchange commission.

The SEC opened a hearing in the United States courthouse on fees and compensation paid lawyers and executives in connection with the reorganization of the company. George C. Mathews, a member of the SEC, and Arthur E. Borough, an examiner for the SEC, are conducting the hearing, which is expected to last at least two days.

First Hearing of Its Kind.

The hearing is the first to be held under the rule which requires the SEC to pass on applications for fees in connection with the reorganization of utility companies.

The various fees will be passed upon by the SEC before they are presented to Federal Judge William H. Holly for final action. The principal fees and compensations include the following.

Jay Samuel Hartt, engineering advisor, $100 a day.

Ronald R. Monroe, executive assistant to the trustee, $2,000 a month.

W. A. Horner, an executive employé, $375 a month.

In Litigation for Years.

The Central Service corporation, which has a contract with the trustee for the performance of various engineering services, $4,500 a month.

Adams testified that his application was in conformance with his earnings as a lawyer and as a referee in bankruptcy. The company, which was organized and built up by Harley L. Clarke, has been the subject of litigation for several years.

Washington, D. C., April 25.—(AP)—The Carolina, Clinchfield, and Ohio railway asked interstate commerce commission permission today to borrow $14,150,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to refund 5 per cent first mortgage bonds maturing June 1.

Republic Steel Corporation.

Investors' Guide: Please discuss the Republic Steel corporation.—L. T. G.

Answer: The $384,658,759 Republic Steel corporation, third largest unit in the American steel industry, is a well integrated company, capable of serving almost all types of steel consumers and amply supplied with raw materials.

Republic has grown rapidly in recent years by acquiring other companies and by modernizing and increasing the capacity of its own plants. During 1937 the company spent $39,021,637 for improvements and additions to properties, the most important construction being a new 98-inch hot and cold strip mill near Cleveland, O. The company reports its new mill is the most modern and widest of its kind in the world. Companies acquired by Republic within the last few years include Corrigan, McKinney Steel company, the Truscon Steel company, the Gulf States Steel company, and several smaller units.

Republic is the largest domestic producer of alloy steels. Of the corporation's total capacity, about three-fourths consists of equipment for the production of bars, sheets, strips, and light plate. It also makes large quantities of wire goods, bolts, nuts, pipe, and tubular goods. It ranks about sixth in production of tin plate and has in the past had little or no capacity for production of rails.

Consolidated net loss for the first quarter of 1938 was $3,062,564, compared with net profit of $5,567,063, or $1.04 a share, in the first quarter of 1937. Strikes in the second quarter of 1937, sharply higher taxes, and business recession late in the year caused a fall in profits for all of 1937. The record of earnings in recent years follows:

1936	218,317,399	9,586,922	1.74
1935	136,164,554	4,455,735	.49
1934	96,824,857	*3,459,428	*3.43
1933	79,807,199	*4,049,254	*3.83
1932	47,604,636	*11,261,195	*7.58

*Deficit.

The corporation had outstanding at the end of 1937 282,303 shares of 6 per cent cumulative $100 par convertible prior preferred, 119,597 shares of 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred and 5,832,124 shares of no par common stock. Arrearage on the 6 per cent preferred is $15 a share. The dividend payable April 1 on this issue was passed.

Despite the strong financial position of the company its securities must be regarded as speculative pending improvement in earnings.
